

VOLUME

231

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TRANSCRIPT
North Adams, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

ANDREW.

Out or Up?

One of Governor Curley's biographers has supposed that he was not wholly happy during the few years of his service in Congress as a representative.

But if this leads some to wonder at his decision to try to return to Congress as a senator, let them be reminded that however unhappy a politician may be in an uncongenial office, he is bound to be unhappier still in no office at all.

And whatever else may be remarked concerning Mr. Curley it may also be said that he is shrewd enough to know that sometimes there is no good place to go but up.

He may not be full of enthusiasm for "promotion" to the United States Senate but being kicked upstairs is far preferable to being just kicked and if Mr. Curley has discovered a considerable number of his fellow partisans in a mood to work on him with their feet, neither that fact nor his ensuing decision need occasion astonishment.

If he ran for governor again he would have against him on his own side of the partisan wall not only the late dissenters like Mr. Ely, Senator Walsh, Senator Coolidge, Mayor Mansfield and lesser lights whose lack of enthusiasm for him last year was notorious but those who have since discovered reasons for disgruntlement in his distribution of plums and a considerable number of earnest Democrats who have conscientious objections to seeing Boston city political methods introduced into the state government. It all adds up to a rather formidable total.

But a good many of these people, while perfectly willing to kick Mr. Curley out would welcome even more warmly the opportunity to kick him up, for out he would remain in Massachusetts to plague and worry them while up he would be in Washington for six years, long enough to give his party a chance to get back to "normal."

Mr. Walsh may not be of this mind for he expects to spend some time in Washington himself these next four years at least and he would choose a different colleague. But the idea may seem excellent to others among those who last year constituted the party minority.

And all that spells necessity to the governor. Maybe he would rather be what he is than be a senator. Perhaps Congress offers too limited opportunities for the practice of his peculiar talents and arts. But up is always better than out, and if Mr. Curley's enemies have seemed dangerously eager to put him one place or the other the decision for him was easy.

2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

MESSENGER
St. Albans, Vt.

DEC 6 1935

PRESS CLIPPING SERVICE
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

JOURNAL
Augusta, Maine

DEC 6 1935

Washburn May Seek
Mass. Senator Berth

Boston, Dec. 5.—(P)—What Robert M. Washburn, perennial Bull Moose Republican, described as a "melee"—Massachusetts senatorial race—was enlivened tonight by his announcement he might "yield to that popular wave that seems to be overwhelming everyone" and get in himself.

Washburn, 67, shaggy-haired and bushy-eyebrowed political commentator, whose wit and satire have featured the state's politics for years, made his declaration on the heels of the announcement of Governor James M. Curley that he would seek the Democratic nomination for the Senate seat next year.

Curley, leader of Massachusetts' Democracy, acknowledged Washburn's announcement with the comment: "I am quite sure his candidacy will prove the most valuable contribution in what otherwise promises to be a very orderly and quiet campaign."

DEFIES CURLEY TO BAN DEER HUNTING

Nantucket Island Man Says
Governor Had No Right to Halt Hunting

NANTUCKET, Mass., Dec. 6.—(P)—A probate court justice announced he would hunt deer here to-day despite Governor James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket Island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told The Associated Press.

"And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer—Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

Shortly before noon, however, there had been no activity. The temperature was below freezing and it was snowing.

A group of gunners gathered on Main st. apparently waiting for the other fellow to make the first move.

There were no reports of deer shot.

COMMERCIAL

Bangor, Me.
DEC 6 1935

JUDGE DEFIES GOV. CURLEY'S HUNTING RULE

Probate Justice Will Seek Deer Despite Executive
Edict

Nantucket, Mass., Dec. 6—(AP)—A probate court justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Governor James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket Island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press.

"And there is no drought here," the justice said. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer — Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket Island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

TIMES

Beverly, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Appeal to Governor to Parole Mrs. Crabtree

BOSTON, Dec. 6—In an effort to obtain the freedom of her daughter, who is serving an 18-month sentence in the Essex county House of Correction for stealing $20,000 from a bank where she was employed, Mrs. Ada Vickery, 70, will appeal to Governor Curley today.

The daughter, Mrs. Pauline Crabtree, was formerly assistant treasurer in a Lynn bank. She was convicted of stealing the money, and George Bishop, 32, was sent to state prison for conspiring with Mrs. Crabtree to commit the larceny.

Mrs. Vickery requested her daughter's freedom from Probation Officer Charles A. Salisbury, but was told that nothing could be done until the woman is eligible for parole in February.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TIMES

Beverly, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

SPORTSMEN CALL CURLEY'S BLUFF

NANTUCKET, Dec. 6—(INS)—Bent on "calling Curley's bluff," a small band of sportsmen, Judge George M. Poland among them, went into the woods today to resume deer hunting on this island, 30 miles off the mainland, in defiance to the Tuesday edict of Governor James M. Curley in declaring the season closed after the killing of one hunter and the wounding of another.

Judge Poland, resident of Wakefield and summer visitor here, said there was nothing in the law authorizing the Governor to close the hunting season except extreme drought. It was up to Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon to make an arrest.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston

Mass.

ENTERPRISE Brockton, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Seeks Clemency for Zuckerman Killer

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—(UP)—Counsel for Miller Frank Clark, convicted slayer of Ethel Zuckerman, 18-year-old bakery clerk, was to appeal to Gov. Curley to-day for clemency.

Atty. George A. Douglas said Clark's mental condition was doubtful, and that despite an early confession, he doubted that Clark killed the former Brockton girl.

Ethel Zuckerman was slain with a breadknife in a bakeshop on the edge of Boston's Chinatown Dec. 20, 1933. Clark has been sentenced to die in the electric chair the week of Jan. 13.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston

Mass.

ENTERPRISE Brockton, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Gala Night at Armory Horse Show in Boston

The eighth annual exhibition horse show by 110th Cavalry at Commonwealth Armory, Boston, opened last night and was brilliant, surpassing expectations of the most optimistic.

The transformation of the huge drill hall foretold a successful show even before the contestants were called into the ring. The seating, enlarged and improved, was of itself a pleasing factor. The promenade, however, was the change from past years which drew the most favorable comment.

The Gay Nineties Class with its varied vehicles of a generation ago and occupants dressed in the vogue of that era was the hit of the evening and gave the judges, Richard C. Heathes and Samuel J. Shaw a tough half hour. The class was divided in two groups, senior and junior.

Lois Driscoll and John Elliott, riding in a miniature comfort sleigh drawn by a white pony, were awarded first prize in the children's division. The red ribbon went to Carolyn Elliott, Barbara Driscoll and William Elliott, in a governess cart and the third prize went to Helen Danforth and Priscilla Murphy in a Meadowbrook cart.

Gov. Brann of Maine, donor of the cup for novice hunters, presented the trophy in person, attended by Gov. Curley, to Miss Dorothy Storer, who rode the winner, Lucky Star, a chestnut timber topper owned by Richard Sheehan of Annabella County, Cork, Ireland.

Knight Bachelor, national champion harness horse from the stable of Miss Judy King, Atlanta, Ga., made his first appearance at the show in mid-evening class for horses not exceeding 15.2 hands. The brown gelding, driven by the veteran, "Paddy" O'Connell, filled the ring as he high stepped and was the choice of the judges.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

ENTERPRISE
Brockton, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Too few Christmas decorations along Main street, if you care for the opinion of the ultimate consumer.

Br-r-r-r! Icy cold immediately after election returns. You'd think democratic enthusiasm would keep things hot for a while.

Mayor-Elect Gillis of Newburyport is older than he was four years ago, when he clowning for the amusement of the State. Maybe he's wiser.

Some of Gov. Curley's political opponents wouldn't mind sending him to the U. S. Senate. Anything to oust him from the State House.

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

Journal
Biddeford, Me.

DEC 6 1935

JUDGE DEFIES HUNTING BAN

Nantucket, Mass., Dec. 6.—(AP)—A probate court justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Governor James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket Island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drouth," Judge George M. Poland told The Associated Press.

"And there is no drouth here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantuketer, Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon, did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters, not the deer.

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

Press
Bristol Ct.
DEC 6 1935

ABUSE OF PARDONING POWER

The custom of some Governors of granting Christmas pardons to a number of convicts is one that calls for severe criticism. Governors who indulge in such gestures engage in far more than an exhibit of their sentimentalism for by these acts they undo much that has cost society loss trouble and money and again subjecting it to attacks of hardened criminals.

Fortunately Connecticut has avoided this danger by placing the pardoning power where it belongs, in a competent prison board with enough members to insure reasonable action.

The Boston Transcript is commenting on the pardons issued by Governor Curley of Massachusetts is not a bit too severe in saying, under caption of "Pardons for Christmas—Murder Later":

"As sequel to Dostoevsky's 'Crime and Punishment,' it may be that Governor Curley should write a book called 'Crime and Pardon.' Immediately after the most violent jail-break in the history of Charlestown prison, with a guard lying dead as result of the attempted escape, the governor discusses his plans for Christmas clemency. There were fifteen pardons for Thanksgiving; there will be fifteen more for the Yuletide. Yesterday's crimes cause no change.

"Quick are the questions put by the press but quicker—as a rule—are the answers by Governor Curley. He usually sees the implications of every query, and allows for them. But great was the smash of this custom when the governor so replied to the questions asked after the jail-break. If a worse time could have been chosen to talk of pardons, we do not know when it is. What the governor said in describing his pardon philosophy was not unsound, but when society sees what violence convicts can do, even within prison walls, it grows more than cold toward any desire to see more of them outside. The governor should accompany his pardons for Christmas with a careful dossier on each case, assuring the public that the list does not mean more murders for New Years."

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

Reformer
Brattleboro, Vt.

DEC 6 1935

DEFIES HUNTING
BAN ON NANTUCKET

Probate Judge Intends to Seek Deer
Despite Governor Curley's Proclamation.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Dec. 6 (AP).—A probate court justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Gov. James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told The Associated Press.

"And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer—Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters, not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket island after one hunter had been killed and another wounded.

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

Citizen
Brookline, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

The Citizen At Large

Professional

Escorting a little white pig on a dog leash to the victory banquet of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, Monday evening, at the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Miss SYBIL HOLMES, Brookline's former assistant district attorney, said of her cheerful companion, "You don't know what a fine expression a pig has nowadays that's permitted to live."

Reported in danger of capture by Chinese Communists last week, were Passionist missionaries REV. DUNSTAN THOMAS, whose family lives at 71 Parkman Street, and REV. RONALD NORRIS of Brookline, both of whom are engaged in missionary work in Hunan Province, China.

Politics

The following Brookline residents last week had the following relations with or made the following remarks about Governor Curley: Representative ALBERT F. BIGELOW of 246 Dudley Street found "amusing" his statement that the State would finish the year with a surplus in the general and highway funds; Representative PHILIP G. BOWKER of 48 Welland Road parodied Cato with "Delanda est Curleyo" (Curleyism must be destroyed) and called Executive Councillor Coakley and the Governor "the Love Birds of the State House"; Dr. PAYSON SMITH of 1805 Beacon Street, state commissioner of education, was temporarily retained in office after the expiration of his term last Saturday; Joseph Rourke was announced as the successor of JOSEPH B. JACOBS of 34 Park Street; Miss BARBARA KEITH, blue-gray-eyed brunette, was unanimously chosen Queen of the Governor's "Court of Honor."

The appointment of HIBBARD RICHTER of 541 Washington Street to the staff of District Attorney Edmund

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

Citizen
Brookline, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Curley Scored

Congressman Martin Says A.A.A. Hurt Southern Share Croppers And Caused Unemployment

A plea for more virile and liberal Republican action was the keynote of the speeches made by outspoken critics of the New Deal in a Rally held last Tuesday night in Whitney Hall under the auspices of the Brookline Community Club.

"The New Deal put Curley in—that alone condemns the New Deal" was the leading remark of Representative Philip G. Bowker. "Curley is ruthless and the in the next session of the legislature, Representative Albert F. Bigelow declared that state and local taxes take six weeks of the salary of a $25. a week wage-earner, and that Governor Curley's recent statement that there is a surplus in the state treasury this year was absurd in the face of facts.

An appeal to the Republicans of the Republicans know it and won't stand for it much longer."

"The Republican tide turned in the election of 1928 and has been on the way out ever since because of a lack of leadership, organization, and plan," declared Edmund R. Dewing, Attorney General for Norfolk County, "But reorganized and with a liberal platform the Republican party can win the next election."

In a speech pledging himself to vote against any increased state expenditures

Press Clipping Service 2 Park Square BOSTON MASS.

RECORD
Chelsea, Mass.

DEC 5 1935

CURLEY BACKS BIBLE SUNDAY

Urge to Commemorate 400th Anniversary

BOSTON, Dec. 5—Governor James M. Curley urges the churches of Massachusetts to observe Universal Bible Sunday on next Sunday.

The nation-wide commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the printed English Bible will conclude on that day in thousands of churches, according to a statement issued by the American Bible Society, under whose direction Universal Bible Sunday is promoted and through whose missionary activities the Bible is distributed annually in more than 404 countries and over 150 languages.

In endorsing Universal Bible Sunday Governor Curley says: "As Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, it affords me great pleasure to call upon the citizens of this Commonwealth to take part on Dec. 8 in the observance of the 400th anniversary of the printing of the English Bible.

"The rapid advancement of civilization since the time of the printing of the first Bible, most notably the founding and establishment of the New World, brought with it the principles of free government and liberty inspired chiefly by the precepts contained in the Old and New Testaments.

"Today, as on numerous occasions in the past, people in all parts of the world have risen up in arms against each other, taking human lives and causing bloodshed and untold misery. This can be traced directly to the failure of these people to adhere and follow the teachings of Christ.

"It is my most earnest hope that the actions of mankind in the future will be motivated by the inspired teachings of the greatest of all written lessons in human behavior and conscience, the result of which will be a world of greater happiness, freedom, and blessedness."

ITEM
Clinton, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

COMMENT ON APPOINTMENT

Political Writer Says
There Is Much
Speculation

MAY BE MERE IDLE TALK

A political writer, whose ears are to the ground, has this to say about the appointment, by Gov. James M. Curley, to a State Commission:

"Much has been said and written concerning Governor Curley's appointment of Philip J. Philbin, one of Sen. David I. Walsh's secretaries, to the unpaid Advisory Board of the Unemployment Insurance Commission. To many this seems to be an indication that the long standing breach between Governor Curley and Senator Walsh is being closed, and that soon cooing doves will flutter from beribboned cages to swoop a benediction over a great reconciliation.

"This may be so, since both the Governor and the Senator have personally refrained from placing any interpretations on the Philbin appointment. Again, it may not be so and may be utterly devoid of any significance, so far as a union of these two prominent figures in the Democratic party is concerned. Behind a cupped hand a man who would seem to be in a bit of a position to know how the Governor feels has whispered, in effect: "Don't get excited, for it doesn't mean a thing."

So far as Senator Walsh has been concerned in his long political career, he has been pretty successful in traveling on his own. Being a good politician, he has never spurned aid, of course, but under present conditions it would seem that he would not be compelled to lean too heavily upon the Governor. If all the rancor and bitterness of the last pre-primary convention between the Curley and Walsh-Ely forces has been adjusted, if the postmaster appointment in Boston has been tossed entirely out of consideration, then, indeed, perhaps Mr. Curley and Mr. Walsh will soon be clasped in warm embrace.

Politics can and often has produced some strange spectacles. Sometimes the inner feelings are concealed and a pretty picture is presented for the benefit of the public.

"However, in reading great significance into the Philbin appointment, the attitude and utterances of Former Gov. Joseph B. Ely cannot be entirely overlooked. Some weight must be attached to what Mr. Ely says. He retired from office without being licked, and as a Democratic party figure is one who commands no mean amount of strength and whose word on any matter of public import is awaited with interest—and listened to.

"Only recently, he took another fling at the National administration which, his opinions indicate, he thinks is heading into a state of socialism, if not already pretty well arrived at it. He has declined to give Governor Curley any support for election to public office and has viewed state and national success of the Democratic ticket as a matter of somewhat more or less an open question.

"The bond and alliance between Mr. Ely and Senator Walsh has been close. Mr. Ely has very plainly indicated his attitude toward Mr. Curley. Mr. Curley reciprocates right heartily on every occasion. Therefore, it would seem that Mr. Curley and Mr. Ely neither love nor admire each other. This being so, how far would Senator Walsh go in a tieup with Mr. Curley, and how would Mr. Ely view it and what would he do about it?

"It all sounds very confusing. Of course, politics are confusing anyway, when tested according to the standards of generally accepted logic. For the time being, the profit on the Philbin appointment would appear to be entirely the Governor's if it has served to create an impression that Senator Walsh is friendly to him. Perhaps the Governor had something of the sort in mind."

MONITOR
Concord, N. H.
DEC 6 1935

Judge To Defy Gov. Curley And Hunt Island Deer

NANTUCKET, Mass., Dec. 6 (AP)—A probate court justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Governor Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket Island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press.

"And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer—Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket Island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

Shortly before noon, however, there had been no activity. The temperature was below freezing and it was snowing.

A group of gunners gathered on Main street apparently waiting for the other fellow to make the first move.

There were no reports of deer shot.

TRANSCRIPT
Dedham, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

ON BEACON HILL

By ARTHUR W. WOODMAN, Transcript Staff Correspondent

Local Legislators Oppose
Bond Issue—

The revealing survey being conducted by the legislative committee on ways and means is expected to result with that board aligning itself with Governor James M. Curley in 1936 for a $9,000,000 bond issue for institutional improvements.

The bond issue, first mentioned by the governor a few months ago, will be one of the major issues to be settled in the coming year. The ways and means committee unofficially reports improvements at institutions are imperative. During the past weeks members of the committee have visited institutions, including penal institutions. The need of remedial action is generally admitted by a majority of the committee.

During the past session Governor Curley sought passage of a $7,500,000 bond issue for public building construction, but met with defeat. During his tussle with the legislature he was opposed by Representatives Marion Sears and James M. McCracken.

At the present time there appears to be no hope of passage of legislation increasing the state's bonded indebtedness. But with the anticipated flood of jobs to be given deserving legislators about February or March, there is great possibility that the $9,000,000 program, said to be considered by the governor, will receive full support from his former backers.

Legislature Will Combat Tax
Recommendations of Commission—

Recommendations of the special commission named to study Massachusetts tax problems will meet with bitter opposition in the 1936 legislature.

The request made by the commission that the legislature seriously consider removal of tax exemptions from educational, charitable and religious properties will not be given too serious thought, although the town of Dedham would realize tax revenue to the amount of $3,790,574 by calling a halt to the reported "increase in tax exempt property."

Additional taxation on horse and dog racing wagers in the state is expected to gain full favor of the legislature.

The main object of the incoming General Court will undoubtedly be to lower the burden on real estate and in view of this goal, Governor James M. Curley this week instructed the state planning board to confer with the advisory committee to pass on the commission's recommendations.

Bowker's Proposal Affects Two
Norfolk County Offices—

Transfer of appointive power over two Norfolk county elective posts is asked by Representative Phillip G. Bowker of Brookline, who this week demanded broad appointive powers now held by the governor be given county commissioners.

Offices affected by the Bowker proposal are those of register of probate and insolvency and sheriff.

Under existing statutes the governor has authority to name the successor to either post in the case of a vacancy. Last year, County Commissioner Frederick Butler of Essex County sought similar transfer of appointive powers. The legislature refused to grant that request.

During the Ely administration, control of the governor over appointment of a sheriff for an unexpired term was demonstrated in Middlesex County following the death of Sheriff Fairbairn.

Governor Ely made several unsuccessful attempts to secure confirmation of present state Fire Marshall Stephen Garrity of Lowell (D) for the post to which the county electorate had named a Republican.

Under the Bowker act the post must be filled by the electorate at the succeeding biennial election, as required under existing statute.

—o—

Biennial Sessions Recommended
By Recess Commission—

Biennial sessions of the legislature were recommended this week by the special recess commission in its report to the General Court.

The report sets forth a possible savings of $300,000 throughout the state, producing a net economy of $1,116 in the town of Dedham.

They would seek public expression of the voters in 1936 on the question "Shall the General Court continue its constitutional practice and obligation of assembling annually?"

Advocates of biennials join with opponents in declaring a bureaucratic government would replace annual sittings of the General Court.

Biennials are characterized by opponents as "undemocratic, reactionary and contrary to the spirit and ideals imbed in our constitution."

Of the five dissenters to the biennial plan, Rep. Ernest H. Sparrell of Norwell, vice-chairman, is the only one to have cast a ballot against the Curley $13,000,000 bond issue.

News

Danbury, Ct.

DEC 6 1935

NANTUCKET HUNTERS

STALK DEER

IN DEFIANCE OF CURLEY'S ORDER

Nantucket, Mass., Dec. 6 (AP)—A probate court justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Governor James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket Island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press.

"And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer—Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters not the deer. Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

Visiting hunters left the island and Nantucketers contend the danger of casualties was greatly lessened by their departure. In fact, they said today, since no emergency exists, the deer season is open, despite the governor's ban.

HERALD-NEWS
Fall River, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Hoffman Asks Curley Method Upon Pardons

BOSTON, Dec. 6, (AP)—The Governor's office disclosed today it had been asked by the clerk of the New Jersey Court of Pardons for information on Massachusetts' practice in handling pardon cases.

Albert Herman, court clerk, in a reply written by John H. Backus, assistant secretary to Governor James M. Curley, was told that ordinarily Massachusetts convicts did not appear personally before the Governor in seeking pardons. Usually some close relative made the plea,

HERALD-NEWS
Fall River, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Conference Is Planned Next Week

School Board Groups and Finance Commissioners
To Meet Friday.

SEEK UNDERSTANDING

Harrington, Kerrigan and Barker Assigned by Mayor Murray.

School Department relations with the Board of Finance will be the subject of a conference to be held in City Hall, probably next Friday.

The conference will be arranged at the request of the Board of Education, which will be represented by a subcommittee.

Mayor Murray today named Committeemen John J. Kerrigan, Peter F. Harrington and Richard J. Barker as the subcommittee.

Governor Curley suggested that the conference might be held, Finance Commissioner Carven approved of the idea. School Committeeman Harrington made the motion at the meeting Tuesday night that a subcommittee be designated to interview the Finance Commissioners. Mayor Murray named the group today.

The arrangements for the conference probably will be completed early next week.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

HERALD-NEWS
Fall River, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Marshal John J. Murphy Candidate for Governor

BOSTON, Dec. 6, (AP)—A second Democrat added his name to the list of avowed candidates for the governorship today, bringing to six the total number who aspire to hold Governor Jamse M. Curley's post.

BOSTON MASS.

HERALD-NEWS
Fall River, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

New Deal Chiefs In State Report

BOSTON, Dec. 6, (UP)—From A to Z, officials of the New Deal alphabetical agencies in Massachusetts held a pep and promotional conference here yesterday under leadership of Governor Curley.

Reporting for the R.F.C. New England Director Joseph P. Carney said the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had operated to date at a profit of $113,000,000 throughout the country.

Money for Relief

For the WPA, speakers said the Federal government has been contributing an average of $19.12 per capita for relief; and that if the New Deal hadn't been conducting its extensive programs the average real estate tax in large cities would be $52 per $1,000.

For the SEC, Edmund J. Brandon, regional administrator of the Securities and Exchange Commission said, refuting charges that the securities act had frozen financing, that in the first eight months of 1935 some two billion dollars in new financing had been registered by the commission—close to a new peak for the country.

ERA—WPA Projects

For ERA and WPA, Administrator Arthur G. Rotch said more than 30,000 projects have been carried on under ERA at a cost of $103,469,000, with local government units contributing $15,500,000; and that more than 8,800 WPA projects to cost more than $250,000,000 have been submitted by Massachusetts and its communities thus far.

Regarding PWA, Captain Frederick H. Cooke, directing PWA work at Boston Navy Yard, urged Bay State Congressmen to seek authorization for building of a new entrance to the yard to replace the present "alley" approaches.

U. S. Marshal John J. Murphy, who previously said he would run for the U. S. Senate, changed his goal today, explaining his political ambitions depended on what office Governor Curley sought and said he would run for the governorship.

The Governor recently announced he would seek the Senate seat now held by U. S. Senator Marcus A. Coolidge (D), of Fitchburg.

Lieut.-Governor Joseph L. Hurley of Fall River has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

The Republicans who have announced their candidacy for the nomination are: Warren L. Bishop, Middlesex district attorney; Leverett Saltonstall, Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives; Joseph E. Warner, former State attorney-general, and John W. Haigis, former State treasurer.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

HERALD-NEWS
Fall River, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Judge Defies Curley Order

Says Hunting Ban in Nantucket Has No
Force of Law.

NANTUCKET, Dec. 6, (AP)—A Probate court justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Governor Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket Island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the Governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland said.

"And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

NEWS
Gardner, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

OTHERS' VIEWS

WITHOUT FEAR OR FAVOR
(Fitchburg Sentinel)

In depriving Mayor Greenwood of his driver's license as a result of the highway accident on Oct. 29 in which the mayor and four Fitchburg girls were seriously injured, Registrar Goodwin is apparently applying disciplinary action without fear or favor. Police reports laid before him convinced him that the mayor was violating rules of the road when the accident occurred. The mayor's public office fails to win him special privilege from the registrar.

Viewed by itself, this denial by the registrar of special privilege to a public officeholder is most commendable, but it would be received with better grace if Mr. Goodwin had not previously shown a lamentable lapse in the performance of his official duty when the question of special privilege involved the governor or members of his official family.

If it is true, as the State House reporter says, that revocation of Mr. Greenwood's license is one of the most drastic penalties meted out by the registrar's office to a high political officeholder in this state for a highway offense, there appears to be grounds for complaint that the great power of disciplinary action entrusted to Mr. Goodwin is being abused.

The police of Newton submitted to Mr. Goodwin the facts on an accident occurring in that community several weeks ago, when a motorcycle policeman escorting the governor or members of his official family, or both, was critically injured. The report showed reckless speeding. But nobody's license was revoked.

If the public's confidence in the impartial administration of the power entrusted to Mr. Goodwin is to be maintained, if the rule is to be "without fear or favor," then denial of special privileges must extend to all officeholders, high and low, alike.

((Fitchburg Sentinel "Here and There"))

As long as there are human beings who defy the law and go out to get what they want at the point of a gun, the newspapers will be obliged to print crime news; and just so long, probably, will the argument about that kind of news be carried on. Crime news makes unpleasant reading. Now and then, honest citizens feel that it is news which should be suppressed. And one of the best answers that we have yet seen to this argument was made recently by Prof. Lowell J. Carr, of the sociology department of the University of Michigan, in an address before the University Press club at Ann Arbor. "The newspapers of America," says Prof. Carr, "have been the greatest single force in arousing the public conscience to the menace of crime. Theorists who talk of eliminating crime news from our papers simply don't know what they are asking. We are never going to win our fight on cancer by shutting our eyes to its prevalence, and we are never going to win our fight on crime by suppressing crime news."

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

NEWS
Gardner, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

PAYROLL ON HUBBARDSTON HIGHWAY RESURFACING WORK IS A COMPLICATED AFFAIR

The payroll made out by the highway department for employees on the Hubbardston road resurfacing operations, which is being financed by Governor Curley's bond issue of the past year is so complicated and bulky that a blue print was sent here along with the first sheets, so that department clerks would be able to properly fill it out.

The payroll sheets are mammoth, running nearly 30 inches one way and 20 another. They list pretty nearly all the information there is available about the workers except their place of birth, the number of their dependents and what they do with their money after they get it.

The first column is given over to voluminous instructions and a demonstration chart. Then, there is listed the employee's name, his county, his state and the information that only certified workmen can be employed. Next comes his serial number, a column for duplicate names, his position, the authority for his employment, the number of hours put in each day, the total number of hours in the payroll period, the rate, the total earnings, authorized deductions, the net amount and last but by no means least a wide column for remarks. Not the employee's or the payroll clerk's remarks, but presumably those bearing on the employee and his employment. Underneath all this there is an oath which must be sworn to before a notary public by the responsible head of the job.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

NEWS
Gardner, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Sen. Coolidge To State Plans On January 25

BOSTON, Dec. 6—Refusing to say definitely whether or not he will be a candidate for re-election, United States Senator Marcus A. Coolidge said last night he would make his plans known on Jan. 25.

"Two years and a half ago I promised a certain person to tell them on Jan. 25, 1936, my future plans," the Senator said. "I believe in keeping an agreement and what anybody says about my future plans at this time is guesswork. I haven't told anybody what I am going to do."

Senator Coolidge was sitting at the head table of the coordination meeting of Federal officials yesterday at the Parker House, when Gov. Curley, who this week announced his candidacy for the Senator's seat, came in. Neither spoke as the Governor was escorted to a seat a short distance from Coolidge. The Senator drew his chair back from the table until after the Governor had spoken and left the hall.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

NEWS
Gardner, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

PRISON REFORM

We need reform in our state prison. We need a prison. We have needed it for approximately a century. The one in Charlestown where we incarcerate and try to keep our worst criminals was erected in 1805 which, unless our mathematics are far off the track, was 130 years ago. And we extoll our state for being modern and up-to-minute in education. Yet we are educating our worst prisoners to grow worse because of indecent quarters.

No human being, free or imprisoned in this country, is worse housed than those shut away from their fellow men in our Charlestown prison. The sanitary conditions are such that the duplicate is not to be found in a house in the state. This has been so since the institution has been built only a few years after the bastille was stormed in Paris. The state prison is constructed on quite similar lines to that building.

Governor Curley, after the attempted jail break this week, announced that he would again urge the Legislature for an appropriation to erect a new prison. This is nothing more or less than every governor for many years has done. The result has been nothing.

Every large paper in the state at more or less frequent intervals has urged a modern prison. The News does this, not because of the danger of the escape of men it is not safe to have at large, but primarily that they may be imprisoned in quarters that are at least equal to those in which we house an animal. We need prison reform very much.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TIMES
Gloucester, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

GLoucester, MASS. FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1935.

CURLEY FOR SENATOR

Just as Republicans all over the state were bending their energies and making their plans to oust Governor James M. Curley from Beacon Hill, he astonished not only them but his own friends by declaring in an off hand way at Rockland that he would be a candidate for United States senator. We presume this decision is final. It profoundly alters all the campaign plans of the Republicans. Republican strategy and planning have been gauged to oust Mr. Curley from Beacon Hill. Every Republican candidate for governor has been considered in relation to his power to drive out Curley. Now every plan must be changed and the campaign planned anew.

The issue will not be the driving of Governor Curley from the State House. He will perform that important public service himself. The campaign will be planned to oust Curleyism in all its unreasonable and tyrannical forms from Massachusetts government. The Republicans have at least four powerful candidates who can be trusted to do that job thoroughly and well. The reaction is already well under way. The victory of William H. McSweeney in the Salem district has shown clearly which way the wind is blowing. The strong personal touch which Governor Curley has given to his administration has aroused a tremendous revulsion of feeling not only in Salem, but in Worcester and elsewhere where evidences of a reaction have appeared.

Mr. Curley's candidacy as senator makes the going rough for Henry Cabot Lodge who received such an uproarious greeting from his fellow members of the Essex Republican Club last Tuesday evening. It astonishes us, however, that Governor Curley intends to run for senator on the issue of social security. Unemployment and old age pensions appear to have come to stay. The issue is settled for the Republican party will not attack them. Social security would seem to be a settled policy, not suitable for a campaign slogan. Mr. Curley will make a powerful fight for the senatorship. His own party cannot elect him. He has too many enemies in it. He was made Governor by Republican votes. Will those Republican votes follow him in his senatorial ambitions? That is the question. Henry Cabot Lodge is a coming man, there is no doubt of that. He is making more friends every year. His speeches show an intelligent deep study. He showed a greater comprehension of the essential fallacy of New Deal philosophy than any speaker last Tuesday evening. He will need loyal support to beat Mr. Curley.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TIMES
Gloucester, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

LATEST
NEWS
DESPATCHES
(I. N. S. Teletype Service)

Hunters Defy Curley

Nantucket, Dec. 6 (INS)—Bent on "calling Curley's bluff—a small band of sportsmen, Judge George M. Poland among them, went into the woods today to resume deer hunting on this island, 30 miles off the mainland, in defiance to the Tuesday edict of Governor James M. Curley in declaring the season closed after the killing of one hunter and the wounding of another. Judge Poland, resident of Wakefield and summer visitor here, said there was nothing in the law authorizing the governor to close the hunting season except extreme drought. It was up to Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon to make an arrest.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

RECORDER
Greenfield, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Murphy Joins Governor Race

BOSTON, (AP)—A third Democrat added his name to the list of avowed candidates for governor today bringing to seven the total number who aspire to Gov. Curley's post. United States Marshal John T. Murphy, who previously said he would run for the United States senate changed his goal today, explaining his political ambition depended on what office Gov. Curley sought.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

RECORDER
Greenfield, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

FOR THE STATE'S SAFETY

(The Boston Herald)

The five young convicts who attempted to escape from the Charlestown state prison on Tuesday were almost prophetically described by Lewis Parkhurst of Winchester in his recent report on prison conditions in Massachusetts to Gov. Curley. He wrote, in part:

Within the last five or ten years there has been developed a class of comparatively young men, from 18 to 25 years of age, who have adopted the profession of robbing and kidnapping—gunmen, they are called. They are being sent to our prisons in great numbers, often with very long sentences, and are the most desperate and dangerous men, as a class, now to be cared for in our prisons, and in planning for the future, they must be classed with the old-time habitual criminals. The fact is, at the present time we have no place in the state where the worst criminals in the state (perhaps 500 to 600 altogether) could be placed and be subjected to the discipline and lack of privileges which they deserve.

Mr. Parkhurst cannot be accused of being a frost-bitten reactionary on prison matters. As his long interest in the venture at Norfolk demonstrates he is eager to give every convict with a half-way decent background and a sign of being anxious to live honestly a chance to redeem himself. But, like most penologists, he recognizes the fact that a substantial portion of lawbreakers are beyond hope of redemption and must be locked up tightly where they will do the least harm. Although some of these men are little more than boys, like Tuesday's quintet, they are old and experienced in the ways of crime. Indeed, their youth gives them an audacity which their older prison-mates lack and which renders them more dangerous to society.

Massachusetts should have, possibly on an island somewhere along the coast, a special prison for these young thugs. The ancient fortress at Charlestown has shown its inability to hold them without loss of life. Concord and Norfolk should be reserved for prisoners whose histories indicate that they will benefit by a less rigid and more humanitarian treatment.

Times
Hartford, Ct.

DEC 6 1935

Hunting Judge Defies Curley's Closing Order

Nantucket, Mass. — (AP) — A probate court justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Gov. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket Island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the Governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press.

"And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

GAZETTE

Haverhill, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

was used by an average of 20 farmers.

Claim to Be First to Urge Curley For Senator

The Curley-for-governor club of Haverhill claims the distinction of being the first organization to sponsor Gov. James M. Curley as a candidate for the United States senate. When the Curley-for-governor club, headed by Henry Maguire, visited the State House nearly a year ago and presented Governor Curley with a testimonial, they announced at that time their support of the chief executive for senator.

GAZETTE

Haverhill, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Mother Seeks Pardon For Daughter Who Stole

SALEM (AP)—A 70-year-old mother today sought the freedom of a daughter who stole $20,000 to aid the man she loved.

Mrs. Ada Vickery, said she would appeal to Gov. James M. Curley today to free her daughter, Mrs. Pauline Crabtree, from jail.

Mrs. Crabtree, 37-year-old former assistant treasurer of the Lynn Co-operative bank, pleaded guilty last February to stealing $20,000 from the institution.

The money, she testified, was given to George W. Bishop, who is serving a long term for his part in the theft. Bishop's feeling toward her changed, Mrs. Crabtree testified, after she gave him the money, and he abused her.

County officials told Mrs. Vickery her daughter would not be eligible for parole until she had served a year of her 18 months sentence.

The mother said Mrs. Crabtree's father was seriously ill and that she would ask Governor Curley for a pardon.

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

Nantasket - Times
Hull, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Rockland Favorite Place For Political Announcements

The Late President Coolidge, William S. Youngman and James M. Curley Started Campaigns Here

When Governor James M. Curley startled the entire country Tuesday night by his announcement at the S. A. T. A. S. Anniversary, that he is to be a candidate for the United States Senate, the question was asked why did he pick out Rockland as the place to make the initial announcement. As a matter of fact, and probably Governor Curley does not know it, he was following a precedent which was started in Rockland many years ago.

Rockland has been selected by three candidates as the place where they announced to the awaiting world that they were to be candidates for important offices.

The other two were the late President Calvin Coolidge, who announced his candidacy for Lieut. Governor and the other was the late William S. Youngman who announced his candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination.

The late Calvin Coolidge was at that time President of the Massachusetts Senate. He came to Rockland by invitation of the then Senator Charles S. Beal, to attend a get-together gathering of Republicans held under the direction of Warren Wright, at that time chairman of the Republican town committee. A dinner was served at Hotel Thomas and it was during that dinner that Calvin Coolidge made his announcement that he would be a candidate for lieutenant governor. We all know what followed. He won the nomination at the fall primaries and later became Governor and afterwards President of the United States. The group who attended the dinner at Hotel Thomas well remember the Northampton statesman as he rose to make his announcement for the office which afterward led to the highest honor in the nation.

The late William S. Youngman, who was Lieutenant-Governor at the time, came to Rockland to address the Rockland Woman's Club. While there had been talk that he might be a candidate for governor, no announcement was made until that time.

Governor James M. Curley was the third candidate to announce in Rockland his candidacy for U. S. Senator. The announcement crashed the headlines of the first page in the morning newspapers Wednesday morning.

Rockland enjoys the distinction paid to it by the candidates for high offices.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

REGISTER
New Haven, Ct.

DEC 5 1935

GOV. CURLEY FACES FIGHT FOR SENATE

Ex-Congressman O'Connell
Comes Out for Democratic Nomination

Boston, Dec. 5. —(P)— Governor James M. Curley apparently will have at least one opponent for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

Former U. S. Representative Joseph F. O'Connell refuses to take the Governor's political aspirations seriously.

O'Connell said last night he had not altered a previous plan to ask Massachusetts Democrats to nominate him as their Senate candidate in the 1936 primary.

"I am still a candidate for the Senate," O'Connell said, "and nothing in the Governor's announcement has caused me to change my mind.

"As a matter of fact, I make the prediction that he will run for governor again, but whether he does or not I am a candidate for U. S. Senator."

The incumbent, Senator Marcus A. Coolidge (D) of Fitchburg, whose seat Governor Curley seeks, remained silent on his own intentions.

Senator Coolidge said he would defer any definite announcement of his future political plans until next month. It was generally believed, however, Coolidge would seek a second term.

Prsse Clipping Service

2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

Courant
Hartford, Ct.
DEC 6 1935

tion and other agencies assured, it ought to be seized.

Mr. Curley Out For the Senate

With no senatorial election of their own to watch next year, the voters of Connecticut may enjoy the one to be held in Massachusetts. That it will be lively is assured by the announcement of Mr. James Michael Curley, the Governor of the Commonwealth, that he will seek the place now occupied by Mr. Marcus A. Coolidge, who, according to report, does not wish to be renominated.

If he followed accepted rules, Mr. Curley would seek reelection as Governor before announcing himself for the Senate, but time, not to say ambition, presses him. After next year, no vacancy will occur in the Senate until 1940, when the term to which Mr. David I. Walsh was elected last year runs out, and 1940 is likely to be no time for a Democrat to be up for high office in Massachusetts. Indeed, next year the going may be none too easy, but it offers an opportunity that Mr. Curley evidently believes he must grasp.

His announcement will grieve Democrats as well as Republicans, none more than Mr. Walsh. In all probability, he would almost prefer a Republican to be his colleague rather than Mr. Curley, who cannot be depended upon to sit in the shadows. Mr. Coolidge has suited Mr. Walsh very well. He has made few speeches, voted almost invariably as Mr. Walsh did and has never endeavored to assert himself. Such conduct cannot be expected from Mr. Curley in the event of his election. His respect for Mr. Walsh is none too high at best, and he will not be disposed to let his senior monopolize the spotlight in the Senate or elsewhere. If he is elected, not only Massachusetts but the nation will know that the Bay State has two Senators.

For the Republicans of Massachusetts the candidacy of Mr. Curley offers a challenge and an opportunity, for upon them will devolve the responsibility of defeating him, if he is defeated. As past events have proved, the trick cannot be turned without offering the best available man. Last year, the Republicans let Mr. Walsh be reelected almost by default. Next year, if Mr. Curley is not to become a member of the Senate, they will have to choose a highly qualified candidate and back him with all their strength. The field is rich, and the appeal to prospective candidates should not be to their ambition but to their chance to render public service.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

JEWISH ADVOCATE
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Governor Curley and Senator Walsh Repeat Stand on Olympics

Congressman Higgins, More Athletic Coaches Join in "Anti" Movement

McAdoo, Gerry, Wagner Also Opposed

State House, Boston, Dec. 6—Governor Curley in a letter to Henry Smith Leiper, chairman of the Committee on Fair Play in Sports, of New York, expressed his regret for being unable to attend the public meeting at the Mecca Temple in New York protesting against participation by America in the Olympic Games scheduled to be held in Germany this year.

The Governor's letter follows:
"I regret exceedingly that it will be impossible for me to be present at the public meeting at Mecca Temple this day to join with other Americans in protesting against participation by America in the Olympic Games scheduled to be held in Berlin this year. The policy of discrimination, persecution and oppression which has characterized the action of officialdom in Germany leaves no course open for believers in civil as well as religious liberty other than to refuse to be a party to the Olympic Games as conducted under Nazi control. Participation by America might reasonably be regarded as giving sanction and approval to the outrages that have been perpetrated upon Jew and Catholic and members of the Masonic fraternity alike. The real danger of participation lies in the fact that such a course might be construed as approval of a course of conduct that is not in keeping with American ideals, and might encourage further persecution and oppression of other elements of the citizenship of Germany, who to the present time have fortunately escaped.

(Signed) JAMES M. CURLEY,
Governor of Massachusetts."

New York, Dec. 6 (JTA) — The Bishop of Maryland joined with four members of the United States Senate in endorsing the movement against the Berlin Olympics. The senators are: William G. McAdoo, California; David I. Walsh, Mass.; Robert F. Wagner, N. Y., and Peter G. Gerry, R. I.

Boston, Dec. 6—At the same time Congressman John P. Higgins of Boston released the following statement:

"I am in whole hearted agreement with United States Senator David I. Walsh and my many other colleagues in public life in taking a determined stand against the United States entry into the Olympics."

PRESS CLIPPING SERVICE
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

SENTINEL
Keene, N. H.

DEC 6 1935

NG SENTINEL, KEENE, N.

JUDGE GOES HUNTING DESPITE GOVERNOR'S BAN IN NANTUCKET

Justice Poland Tells A. P. No- body Has Shown Him Chief Executive's Authority

Nantucket, Mass., Dec. 6, (AP)—A Probate court justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Governor James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press.

"And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer—Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

Shortly before noon, however, there had been no activity. The temperature was below freezing and it was snowing.

A group of gunners gathered on Main street apparently waiting for the other fellow to make the first move.

There were no reports of deer shot.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

EAGLE
Lawrence, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

REP. LODGE HITS CURLEY CANDIDACY

BOSTON, Dec. 5. (P)—One Massachusetts Republican leader at least doesn't think Governor James M. Curley would make a good U. S. senator for Massachusetts.

He is Representative Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Beverly, who has announced his intention to seek the U. S. Senate seat once held by his grandfather. Lodge, commenting on Gov. Curley's announcement last night, charged today that the governor, if elected to the Senate, would "inevitably have his loyalties divided."

Governor Curley, Lodge said, "is the outstanding spokesman of the Roosevelt administration in Massachusetts. This administration has cruelly discriminated against the poor the aged and the infirm of Massachusetts and against the masses of workers and business men for the benefit of a selected few in other sections."

"No man can properly represent Massachusetts in the Senate unless he thinks of Massachusetts first. Anyone who is strongly connected with the national administration as the governor is, would inevitably have his loyalties divided."

The Beverly Republican said the governor's entrance in the race shows the importance of having the Republicans nominate a man who is an energetic campaigner, a consistent opponent of wasteful expenditure and a sane progressive.

"I believe all these things can truthfully be said of me," Lodge added, "my legislative record proves it."

Other Republican leaders were not immediately available for comment.

Vernon Marr, chairman of the Republican State committee, predicted today that a Republican senator would be elected from Massachusetts in 1936.

"It appears," Marr said, "that the national field is still the object of the governor's fancy. No doubt his western states trip increased his enthusiasm for U. S. senatorial honors and opportunities."

"Some months ago we were advised Gov. Curley planned to replace Senator (Marcus A.) Coolidge, but present indications are that Senator Coolidge's successor will be a Republican interested in protecting all of the people of this commonwealth, who are all so hard hit by New Deal tactics and attacks on industrial New England."

"Yes," Marr concluded, "it is vital that Massachusetts elect a Republican senator in 1936."

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TRIBUNE
Lawrence, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

JUDGE WILL HUNT DESPITE CURLEY BAN

NANTUCKET, Dec. 5 (P)—In defiance of Governor James M. Curley's edict closing the season on deer in Nantucket before the full week was out, a group of local hunters, including Probate Judge George M. Poland of Wakefield, has announced tonight it would hunt deer tomorrow.

But Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon of Nantucket will be right there too, hunting the hunters. He said tonight he had no alternative except to enforce the law.

Judge Poland, announcing his decision, said:

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, except in cases of extreme drought. There is no drought. There is snow on the ground."

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TELEGRAM
Lawrence, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

SLAYER ASKS FOR CLEMENCY

BOSTON, Dec. 6 (UP)—Counsel for Miller Frank Clark, convicted slayer of Ethel Zuckerman, 18-year-old bakery clerk, was to appeal to Governor Curley today for clemency.

Attorney George A. Douglas said Clark's mental condition was doubtful, and that despite an early confession, he doubted that Clark killed the former Brockton girl.

Ethel Zuckerman was slain with a breadknife in a bakeshop on the edge of Boston's Chinatown Dec. 20, 1933. Clark has been sentenced to die in the electric chair the week of Jan. 13.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TRIBUNE
Lawrence, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

WOULD FIX MORTGAGE INTEREST AT 5 PCT.

(Special to the Eagle-Tribune)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Dec. 5—The maximum rate of interest on mortgage loans in this state would be no more than five per cent under the terms of a bill filed with the clerk of the House of Representatives this afternoon by Representative Katherine Carr Foley of Lawrence.

The prevailing rate of interest on such loans is now five and a half per cent. Previously it had been six per cent, but representatives of banking organizations of the state, on recommendation of Governor Curley, reduced the charge by one-half of one per cent.

Rep. Foley said her purpose in filing the bill was to relieve the overburdened home owner and to encourage new building.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

SUN
Lewiston Me.
DEC 6 1935

by the gang.

WASHBURN MAY OPPOSE CURLEY

Boston, Dec. 5.—(P)—What Robert M. Washburn, perennial Bull Moose Republican, described as a "melee"—Massachusetts' Senatorial race—was enlivened tonight by his announcement he might "yield to that popular wave that seems to be overwhelming everyone" and get in himself.

Washburn, 67, shaggy-haired and bushy-eyebrowed political commentator, whose wit and satire have featured the State's politics for years, made his declaration on the heels of the announcement of Governor Curley that he would seek the Democratic nomination for the Senate seat for next year.

Curley, leader of Massachusetts' Democracy, acknowledged Washburn's announcement with the comment: "I am quite sure his candidacy will prove the most valuable contribution in what otherwise promises to be a very orderly and quiet campaign."

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

SUN
Lewiston Me.

DEC 6 1935
ASKS CURLEY TO FREE
DAUGHTER SERVING 18 MOS.

MRS. CRABTREE CONVICTED OF STEALING $20,000 FROM
LYNN BANK

Salem, Mass., Dec. 5—(P)—A 70 year old mother said tonight she would ask Gov. James M. Curley, tomorrow to free from jail the daughter who stole $20,000 from the bank where she was an officer to aid the man she loved.

Mrs. Ada Vickery, the mother, conferred with county officials in behalf of her daughter, Mrs. Pauline Crabtree, 37 year old former assistant treasurer of a Lynn bank. Mrs. Crabtree pleaded guilty last February to stealing $20,000 from the Lynn Cooperative Bank.

The money, she testified, was given to George W. Bishop, who now is serving a long term for his part in the defalcation. After she had given him the money, she testified, Bishop's feelings toward her changed and he abused her.

County officials told the mother Mrs. Crabtree would not be eligible for parole until she had served a year of her 18 months sentence. She then decided to ask the Governor tomorrow for a pardon.

Mrs. Crabtree's aged father, George P. Vickery, the mother said, was seriously ill.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

SUN
Lowell, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Indoor Football Game Wednesday

BOSTON, Dec. 6 (INS) — Warren Casey, ex-Harvard center, today was invited to join the eastern collegiate all-stars for the indoor football contest next Wednesday at Boston Garden against an all-Notre Dame eleven. Leo Curley, son of Governor James M. Curley and Georgetown university tackle this season, was expected to reply today.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

SUN
Lewiston Me.

DEC 6 1935

NANTUCKET DEER HUNTERS TO DEFY GOV. CURLEY BAN

QUESTION GOVERNOR'S RIGHT TO CLOSE WOODS EXCEPT FOR DROUGHT

Nantucket, Mass., Dec. 5—(P)—In defiance of Governor Curley's edict closing the season on deer in Nantucket before the full week was out, a group of local hunters, including Probate Judge George M. Poland of Wakefield, has announced tonight it would hunt deer tomorrow.

But game Warden Ernest P. Anyon of Nantucket will be right there too, hunting the hunters. He said tonight he had no alternative except to enforce the law.

Judge Poland, announcing his decision, said: "Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the Governor to close the season, except in cases of extreme drought. There is no drought. There is snow on the ground."

The Massachusetts season on deer extends through the week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season in Nantucket after one hunter had been killed and another wounded.

As a result hunters from off this Sandy Island have left, and residents now declare the danger of casualties has greatly lessened, and, as no emergency exists the deer season is open despite the ban by Curley.

2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

LEADER
Lowell, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Clark to Ask Curley Clemency

BOSTON, Dec. 6 (U.P.)—Counsel for Miller Frank Clark, convicted slayer of Ethel Zuckerman, 18-year-old bakery clerk, was to appeal to Governor Curley today for clemency.

Attorney George A. Douglas said Clark's mental condition was doubtful, and that despite an early confession, he doubted that Clark killed the former Brockton girl.

Ethel Zuckerman was slain with a breadknife in a bakeshop on the edge of Boston's Chinatown Dec. 20, 1933. Clark has been sentenced to die in the electric chair the week of Jan. 13.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

JOURNAL
Lewiston, Me.

DEC 6 1935

Will Defy Nantucket Ban On Deer Hunting

Probate Court Justice Says
Governor Curley Has No
Legal Authority

NANTUCKET, Mass., Dec. 6—(P)—A Probate court Justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Governor James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the Governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press.

"And there is no drought here," the Justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer—Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters, not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the Governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

SUN
Lowell, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Two Governors See Horse Show

BOSTON, Dec. 6 (INS)—Governors Louis J. Brann and James M. Curley today had headed a long list of notables attending the gala opening of the four-day horse show of the 110th Cavalry horse show at Commonwealth armory.

A feature event was the "Gay Nineties" in which almost every known vehicle of that period competed with their occupants clad in costumes.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

SUN
Lowell, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

Memorial Hall Scene of Costume Party by Curley Women's Club

Members of the Gov. Curley Democratic Women's club who took part in the costume party last night. In the above group Rourke, Miss Irene Guthrie, Miss Helen Erwin, Miss Anna L. Foster, Miss Elizabeth Erwin, Miss Marguerite Erwin, Miss Mary Casey, Miss Muriel Riley, Miss Doris Leighton, Miss Rita Frawley, Miss Roddy and Miss Paula Shaughnessy. Also, members of the senior division including: Mrs. S. Robinson, Mrs. Catherine McInerney, Mrs. Nellie Bennett, Miss Helen Greene, Mrs. Yvonne Farrell and Mrs. Agnes Lowe.

continued

"We, the members of the Gov. Curley Democratic Women's club of Lowell, heartily endorse Gov. James M. Curley in whose honor our club is named, as our next United States senator from Massachusetts, to fill the post now held by Marcus A. Coolidge, and pledge our support to the delegates to the Democratic state convention in April," Mrs. Theresa V. McDermott, president of the local women's club told The Sun reporter last night. The local club is one of the most active supporters for the governor in the entire state and is the first to publicly declare its endorsement of the governor for senator.

Under the direction of Mrs. McDermott, who was the leader of the women's division of the Curley for Governor committee here last year, the club will support the entire state ticket. Plans will soon be drafted for an early campaign.

concluded

Following the monthly meeting of the club last night, an old fashioned costume party was held with more than 100 women in the grand march, which was directed by Miss Helen Greene. It was led by Mrs. McDermott dressed as an Ethiopian, and Mrs. Nellie Bennett, general chairman, as a lady of the Gay Nineties. The following were awarded prizes: Prettiest, Mrs. Jennie Parson; most original, Mrs. Mary E. Higgs; funniest, Mrs. Marguerite Erwin and Mrs. Catherine Roarke. Honorable mention went to Mrs. Agnes Lowe and Mrs. Evelina Diaz. More than 85 junior Curley club members took part and a prize was awarded to Miss Helen Erwin.

The parade was a colorful one with Irish colleens, colored folk, baseball players, army officers, southern belles, gypsies and many in male attire taking part. The judges were Mrs. Etta Means, Miss Agnes O'Neil, Mrs. Margaret Finn and Mrs. James Deignan.

An entertainment was presented as follows: Impersonations of Maurice Chevalier, Baby Shirley Charron; petite French maids, Stasia Gudek and Mary Ruthier; jump rope clog, Dotty McGuigan; sleepy time, Tanguay sisters; stepping sister team, Porter sisters; welcoming Santa Claus, Shirley Charron.

During the course of the business meeting, Mrs. McDermott announced that a bridge and whist party will be held Dec. 16, proceeds of which will be used for Christmas baskets for the poor and needy. Mrs. Mary Tristian will be general chairman of the party.

Following the entertainment luncheon was served by the following women: Mrs. James Deignan, Mrs. Patrick Kenney, Mrs. Catherine Lewis, Mrs. Margaret Bertrand, Miss Helen Greene, Mrs. Agnes Lowe, Mrs. Margaret Finn, Mrs. Etta Means and Miss Agnes O'Neil.

A group of women who took part in the Gov. Curley Democratic Women's club costume party last night, at Memorial hall. In the group are: Mrs. Catherine Roark, Mrs. Susan Tobin, Mrs. Agnes Lowe, Mrs. Theresa V. McDermott, president; Mrs. Mary Sorenson, Mrs. Catherine Lewis, Mrs. Maud Shinnars, Mrs. Anna McGarry, Mrs. Agnes Kearns, Mrs. Rachel Carey, Mrs. Nellie Murphy, Mrs. Ella Sullivan, Mrs. Elizabeth Kearney, Mrs. Mae Aubrey, Miss Elizabeth Roarke, Mrs. Margaret Burnick, Mrs. Mary E. Higgs, Mrs. Mary Balfrey, Mrs. Leo Sheehan and Mrs. Daniel Gleason.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

LEADER
Lowell, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

BYSTANDING
BY
Charles E. Gallagher

Tip to Curley
Work for Printers
Jude C. Wadleigh
Spend in Lowell

We do not presume to tell the Hon. James Michael Curley how to conduct a political campaign, but if he is really intent upon becoming senator, let him come out with a whole-hearted endorsement of the Townsend plan and he'll have thousands of votes tucked away in his vest pocket at the start—provided, of course, that the plan will not have been enacted into law by next fall.

* * *

The Lowell Typographical Union, which has always zealously safeguarded the interests of its members, has undertaken a quiet campaign to get various local municipal departments to return to local printers some of the jobs which are now done by mimeographers or not done at all.

For instance, there is a state law which requires that local assessors shall cause to be published at least once every three years tax books, giving the assessed valuation and name of owner of every piece of real estate in the city. It's so long ago that this law has been lived up to in Lowell that most of the public has forgotten that it is still on the books. After having appropriations for this work cut from their budget estimates year after year, the assessors have given up trying to get funds for the work. The result is that local printers have suffered.

Similarly, some of the other departments have cut down on their printing bill by having monthly or annual reports typewritten or mimeographed. Usually, what they have saved on their printing costs has been eaten up by the expense of additional clerical hire. The printers, many of them walking the streets, feel it is time that they got their share of such work back again. The matter has been taken up with department heads by representatives of the Typographical union and there may be results early in the New Year. Surely these highly skilled workers should be given some consideration by the incoming administration.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

SUN
Lowell, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

JUDGE DEFIES CURLEY'S EDICT

NANTUCKET, Dec. 6 (AP)—A probate court justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Gov. James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket Island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, except in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press.

"And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer—Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

Visiting hunters left the island and Nantucketers contend the danger of casualties was greatly lessened by their departure. In fact, they said today, since no emergency exists, the deer season is open, despite the governor's ban.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

LEADER
Lowell, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

NANTUCKETERS TO HUNT DEER DESPITE BAN

Claim Gov. Curley Had No Right to Close Season.

NANTUCKET, Dec. 6 (AP)—A Probate court justice announced he would hunt deer today despite Governor James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drouth," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press.

"And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer—Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters, not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

Visiting hunters left the island and Nantucketers contend the danger of casualties was greatly lessened by their departure. In fact, they said today, since no emergency exists, the deer season is open, despite the governor's ban.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

LEADER
Lowell, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

WOMEN FAVOR CURLEY FOR U. S SENATOR

Members of the Governor James M. Curley Democratic Women's Club of this city were the first to endorse the candidacy of Governor James M. Curley for the United States Senate. Formal action was taken at the monthly meeting which was held in the City Library building last evening prior to a costume party. Mrs. Theresa V. McDermott, president, was in charge.

Mrs. Nellie Bennett was in charge of the costume party and the prizes were awarded to Mrs. Jennie Parsons, for the prettiest costume; Mrs. Mary Higgs, most original; Miss Marguerite Irwin and Mrs. Catherine Rourke, funniest; Miss Helen Irwin, special prize offered by the junior club. Honorable mention was made of the costumes of Mrs. Agnes Lowe and Mrs. Evelina Diaz.

Mrs. Mary Dillon Doherty, Mrs. Anna Gannon, Mrs. Sadir Forsythe, Mrs. Catherine Aubrey, Miss Ellen Roddy, Mrs. William Bennett, chairman of the party, was assisted by Mrs. Anna Guthrie, Mrs. Margaret Bertrand, Mrs. Matilda Deignan, Mrs. Catherine Lewis.

The entertainment program was presented by pupils of the Marshall Sisters' Dancing school and the entertainers were Baby Shirley Charon, Miss Stacia Gudek, Miss Mary Ruthier, Miss Dottie McGuigan, the Tanguay sisters and Porter sisters.

Plans were made for a whist party Monday evening, Dec. 16, in Memorial hall to aid the Christmas basket fund. The members of the club will hold a Christmas party Sunday afternoon, Dec. 22.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

COURIER-CITIZEN
Lowell, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

SOMETHING TO RUN ON.

No one can accuse Hon. James M. Curley of being deficient in political shrewdness in the selection of campaign issues. Certainly that of "supporting the president" worked to perfection in 1934, in spite of the fact that the president himself had not shown the enthusiasm for Mr. Curley that the latter had perhaps expected. Now the campaign for senator is to be made on a "social security" platform—a phrase of somewhat uncertain meaning, but one which seems to be catching a large section of the country.

Just what the governor has in mind has not yet been revealed. Supposedly the matter had been settled, subject to the ultimate decision of the Supreme court, by the law passed at the last session of Congress. Surely Mr. Curley does not expect that any effort will be made to repeal this law. Neither does he say that he regards it as inadequate, although his statement that he became impressed with the importance of the issue on the occasion of a recent trip to California might indicate that he has fallen for the Townsend plan.

Perhaps Mr. Curley is wise to aspire to the senatorship, rather than to a second term as governor. His record in his present office presents so many points of vulnerability that his re-election would be much in doubt. On the other hand, if the reaction in this state is as pronounced as it is generally believed to be, the loss of the state by President Roosevelt is almost certain and consequently the election of a Republican senator is rather probable. In spite of the considerable interest that seems to be shown for the Townsend plan, one may doubt that a candidate promising to outdo the New Deal would win where the president would lose.

Mr. Curley has never, as far as we can recall, said a word about the present junior senator, in connection with his own consideration of the senatorial office. There is no reason why he should, from the viewpoint of a man who has always ridden roughshod over opposition. Within his own party Mr. Curley is probably stronger than he was when he won so handily over General Cole the original choice of the 1934 convention. Mr. Coolidge has not formally declared that he is not a candidate, but it would certainly be a surprise if he should venture to defend his seat against so strongly entrenched a politician as the governor. Neither do we believe that former-Representative O'Connell or any one else could defeat the governor for the nomination. Massachusetts has not been in the habit of shifting either representatives or senators, and has thereby had the benefit of seniority for its members of both houses. That is perhaps fully as much a Republican practice as that of the state generally, although there are conspicuous instances of Democrats who have served term after term. Senators have of late years been more successful than of yore in impressing themselves upon their colleagues during their first term; but it can hardly be denied that Mr. Coolidge has been less conspicuous than the average first-term. His voting record would probably meet on the whole the approval of the majority of the voters in Massachusetts, but he is not quite the leader that the Democracy needs for victory in a year that threatens to be a Republican year in this state, even if it is not in the country as a whole. That Mr. Curley will do better does not follow, but he will at least have a stronger organization behind him.

BOSTON MASS.

COURIER-CITIZEN
Lowell, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

jury.

MOTHER WILL ASK CURLEY TO ASSIST

SALEM, Dec. 5. (AP)—A 70 year old mother said tonight she would ask Gov. James M. Curley tomorrow to free from jail the daughter who stole $20,000 from the bank where she was an officer to aid the man she loved.

Mrs. Ada Vickery, the mother, conferred with county officials in behalf of her daughter, Mrs. Pauline Crabtree, 37 year old former assistant treasurer of a Lynn bank. Mrs. Crabtree pleaded guilty last February to stealing $20,000 from the Lynn Co-operative bank.

The money, she testified, was given to George W. Bishop, who now is serving a long term for his part in the defalcation. After she had given him the money, she testified, Bishop's feelings toward her changed and he abused her.

County officials told the mother Mrs. Crabtree would not be eligible for parole until she had served a year of her 18 months sentence. She then decided to ask the governor tomorrow for a pardon.

Mrs. Crabtree's aged father, George P. Vickery, the mother said, was seriously ill.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

COURIER-CITIZEN
Lowell, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

WASHBURN MAY RUN
AS SENATOR AGAIN

Possible Entry of Bull-Moose Celebrity Makes Four Sided
G. O. P. Contest.

BOSTON, Dec. 5 (P)—What Robert M. Washburn, perennial Bull Moose Republican, described as a "melee"—Massachusetts' senatorial race—was enlivened tonight by his announcement he might "yield to that popular wave that seems to be overwhelming everyone" and get in himself.

Washburn, aged 67, shaggy-haired and bushy-eyebrowed political commentator, whose wit and satire have featured the state's politics for years, made his declaration on the heels of the announcement of Governor James M. Curley that he will seek the Democratic nomination for the Senate seat next year.

Curley, leader of Massachusetts' Democracy, acknowledged Washburn's announcement with the comment: "I am quite sure his candidacy will prove the most valuable contribution in what otherwise promises to be a very orderly and quiet campaign."

This was purely the governor's personal view, since the very number of candidates for the Republican nominations, and their activities to date, appeared to indicate a more than usually lively campaign.

The announcement of Washburn, drubbed for the same office last year by Senator David I. Walsh (D.), after his own party leaders had jettisoned his candidacy, brought to four the number of Republicans either openly avowed seekers of the G. O. P. nomination or who have indicated they have their eye on it.

The others are Henry Cabot Lodge jr., grandson of the United States senator celebrated for his fight against American membership in the League of Nations, and Sinclair Weeks, mayor of suburban Newton, and son of a United States senator, the late John W. Weeks. Another is James F. Cavanagh, Boston lawyer, and former state senator.

Washburn did not indicate in his announcement whether he would seek nomination at the G. O. P. pre-primary convention, or run independently, as he indicated he might this spring.

Head of the (Theodore) Roosevelt Club, he has always used the organization to badger what he considered backward Republican elements, and has said he feared the convention would be dominated by Old Guard forces headed by John Richardson, a lawyer close to Herbert Hoover.

Meanwhile, the man whose seat all seek, Marcus A. Coolidge (D.), 76-year-old retired Fitchburg manufacturer, has not indicated his plans.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

COURIER-CITIZEN
Lowell, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

CURLEY ENDORSED BY WOMEN'S CLUB HERE

Local Organization First to Approve Governor's Try for Senate.

The first organization in the state to endorse the candidacy of Governor James M. Curley for the United States Senate is the Governor James M. Curley Democratic Women's Club, which took formal action at its regular meeting in Memorial hall, City Library building, last night. Mrs. Theresa V. McDermott, president of the club, was in charge of the business meeting which preceded the costume dance held by the members.

Members of the club voted their unqualified endorsement of Governor Curley as a candidate for the Senate and also declared that they will support the candidates for the Democratic state convention, which will be held next spring, who are pledged to the governor's candidacy. They will also take an active part in behalf of the state convention slate.

Mrs. Nellie Bennett was in charge of the costume party and the prizes were awarded to Mrs. Jennie Parsons, for the prettiest costume; Mrs. Mary Higgs, most original; Mrs. Marguerite Irwin and Mrs. Catherine Rourke, funniest; Miss Helen Irwin, special prize offered by the junior club. Honorable mention was made of the costumes of Mrs. Agnes Lowe and Mrs. Evelina Diaz.

The entertainment program was presented by pupils of the Marshall Sisters' Dancing school and the entertainers were Baby Shirley Charon, Miss Stacia Gudek, Miss Mary Ruthier, Miss Dottie McGuigan, the Tanguay sisters and Porter sisters.

Plans were made for a whist party Monday evening, Dec. 16, in Memorial hall to aid the Christmas basket fund. The members of the club will hold a Christmas party Sunday afternoon, Dec. 22.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

COURIER-CITIZEN
Lowell, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Nota Bene

A Nashua man is alleged to have stolen at Lowell a saxophone—would you call him a bandit or a benefactor?

We now have a mayor-elect who frames policies; and that is better than framing people, modern Democratic style.

The Springfield city library has an exhibition of wood cuts by Wanda Gag—an estimable woman artist, whose name is a mouthful, of sorts.

A Hebrew community down river will have banquet to welcome new rabbi. Having no doubt lived up to an old adage which says, "first catch your rabbi."

Among those who conceivably might dearly love to have as senatorial colleague at Washington James Michael Curley is David Ignatius Walsh.

The unpopularity of the British empire with large sections of our population accounts, undoubtedly, for a disposition of many Americans of that kind to see eye to eye with the Eytalians.

It is discovered with some astonishment that many Philadelphia school children have never seen a cow. Still, in Massachusetts, it is equally possible to find red-headed girls who have never seen a white horse.

During a house afire at Medford, thieves stole the kitchen stove. They pulled a hot one. These indeed, are times when you want to ring for both the police and fire departments if anything exciting is happening at your home.

Among the queer fish of the New England waters, we read, are pipe fish, puffer fish, moon fish, skates and torpedo fish. But oddest of them all are South Boston's Brownies, who take their daily plunge in December.

State of Maine's deer population is increasing, but, curiously, in the settled townships rather than in the north woods. When this fact is learned by the hunters, what will be the effect upon the human population of the settled townships?

Although Boston newspapers got right in their obituaries the name of Harold Hill Blossom, which is fairly easy, they of course, slipped up on his long connection with the internationally known landscape architectural firm of Olmsted Brothers, which was duly "Olmstead"-ed.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

ITEM
Lynn, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

MEAN "HOAX" MAY RESULT IN WOMAN'S PARDON

Lynn Legislators Become Interested in Securing Freedom for Mrs. Pauline Crabtree

MOTHER GETS 'PHONE CALL

Man Called and Represented Himself as "Clerk" in District Attorney's Office.

Mrs. Ada Vickery, 70-year-old mother of Mrs. Pauline Crabtree, now serving a year and a half sentence in Salem jail for larceny of $20,000 from the Lynn Cooperative bank, denied today that she contemplated visiting Gov. James M. Curley for the purpose of seeking a pardon for her daughter.

Investigation of the reports she would seek the pardon indicated that the aged woman, saddened ever since her daughter's conviction last February, was the victim of a "hoax" perpetrated by some unthinking individual in whose mind was created the thought of a "human interest" story for the newspapers.

Solons Interested.

Developments today, however, indicated that the "hoax" may turn into a reality and may bring about the cherished reunion with her daughter on Christmas Day as visualized by Mrs. Vickery after receiving a telephone call yesterday. The aid of certain Lynn legislators was being solicited to intercede with the Governor to obtain Mrs. Crabtree's freedom.

The suggestion that she seek the Governor's aid was supposed to have come from District Attorney Clegg's office had received a telephone call she had received a telephone call from a person purporting to be the clerk in the district attorney's office. But inquiry at the latter office today revealed that nobody in authority there had talked with the aged woman.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Vickery received the call from the "clerk" asking if she would like to have her daughter released from jail so that she would be home for Christmas. Naturally she was elated at the prospects of having Mrs. Crabtree with her at Christmas time and inquired as to how her freedom could be brought about.

The caller, according to Mrs. Vickery, explained that where Mrs. Crabtree was not eligible for parole for at least two months that Governor Curley could pardon her and suggested she visit the Governor. Mrs. Vickery said she would be unable to visit the Governor personally and then it was recommended to her she seek the assistance of some of Lynn's State representatives.

Joyous at the possibility that she might have a home reunion with her daughter on Christmas, Mrs. Vickery returned to her home duties to think the matter over and before she had come to any decision had read in a Boston morning paper—that arrived in Lynn the night before—of her plan to visit the Governor.

Victim of Hoax.

She then became satisfied that she had not talked with the district attorney's clerk and today was considerably upset over the matter.

"No, I am not going to see the Governor," said the aged woman in a sorrowful tone. "I don't know what to do. I wish that people would not call me up and talk to me about my daughter. I am too upset over the whole thing. I can't go to the Governor and I don't know if I will ask anybody else. I'm undecided and I don't want to talk any more about it."

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

COURIER-CITIZEN

Lowell, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

back two—but that's better than jumping up two feet and slipping back three.

The bland assurance with which Governor Curley assumes that he is Destiny's Tot appears to us to be the outstanding feature of his announcement that he will not seek to be governor again, but prefers to go to the Senate—without any indication of the slightest doubt that he can have anything he asks for. This is presumably a symptom of swelled-head, caused by the unlooked for triumph of 1934, in which Mr. Curley obtained a vote capable of being interpreted as a token that Curley was just the sort of man the Massachusetts public delighted to honor. That a change of heart may have been experienced as the result of a year's experience does not occur to the governor. His administration has been one prolonged exhibition of belief that he was chartered by the people to get away with anything he wished to do. It is rather natural that he should assume the power to pick and choose which office he will graciously consent to hold next; but the danger is that he will one day awaken to a sickening consciousness that this was overplaying the hand.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

ITEM
Lynn, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

SCHUSTER SEES "DICTATORSHIP" IN MASSACHUSETTS

Civil Service Will Be Farce, Rule or Ruin Under Curley, Says Councillor.

SPEAKS AT SWAMPSCOTT

Predicts Democrats Will Themselves Defeat Curley in the Next Election.

Political dictatorship, such as has been prevalent in Louisiana, was predicted for Massachusetts, unless citizens arise to the situation, was predicted by Winfield A. Schuster, Republican member of the Governor's Council, speaking at a meeting of the Swampscott Women's Republican club in Swampscott Town hall Thursday evening.

Schuster declared that the administration of Gov. James M. Curley had exchanged the merit mark for the dollar sign and that from now on civil service rated employees throughout the state have no protection, nor will their jobs be safe unless they acknowledge Mr. Curley's complete domination.

A "Farcical" Unit.

Schuster asserted that the Curley policy of rule or ruin is fast destroying the morale of state departments and state institutions and declared that the Curley appointment of Thomas Green to the Civil Service commission made that board a farcical unit of government. He predicted that even the Democrats of the state will awaken soon to stop the destruction of their own party, so ably nurtured and established by the efforts of former Gov. Ely and Senator David I. Walsh and predicted that Mr. Curley will be dropped into oblivion at the next election.

The Swampscott meeting was well attended and was directed by Mrs. George H. Ball, president.

Mrs. J. Harbrough LeFevre, member of the Republican State committee, spoke briefly upon the need of Republicans nominating liberal, progressive candidates in 1936 as men who can go into the industrial cities with an appeal to the workers of every class.

The next meeting of the club was announced for Friday afternoon, Jan. 10, at 2 o'clock in the Swampscott Town hall.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TELEGRAM-NEWS

Lynn, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Pardon Sought

MRS. PAULINE V. CRABTRE

MOTHER ASKS FREEDOM FOR MRS. CRABTRE

Aid of Governor Is Sought as Xmas
Clemency

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—Gov. Curley this afternoon declared he will not interfere with the eighteen months jail sentence of Mrs. Pauline V. Crabtre, convicted of the larceny from a Lynn bank.

Mrs. Pauline Vickery Crabtre, former assistant bank treasurer in Lynn, who is serving 18 months in the house of correction at Salem for larceny of $20,500 which she spent lavishly on George Bishop, man-about-town, will be free by Christmas if the plea of her mother to Gov. Curley for a pardon is successful.

Mrs. Ada Vickery, 70, of 28 Dearborn avenue, West Lynn, mother of the divorcee, sought an audience with the governor today, having declared to county authorities that her husband has been ill with grief and that she has been broken-hearted herself.

Mrs. Vickery said that her daughter's release for Christmas would save her husband's life and would give her happiness in her last days.

Probation Officer Charles A. Salisbury informed Mrs. Vickery that her daughter is not eligible for parole until she has served a year of the sentence, thereby leaving the only other course for freedom in the hands of the governor and executive council.

It is understood that if Mrs. Crabtre is pardoned that she will be employed immediately by a banking house. Her ability in financial matters being recognized throughout the State, having been affiliated with banks for 19 years before she fell into the "love theft net" spread by Bishop.

Judge Harold P. Williams, who sentenced her, said at the time that it was his conviction that Mrs. Crabtre took the bank money because she was infatuated with her younger lover.

Bishop was sentenced to serve from four to five years in State prison and offered at the time to serve Mrs. Crabtre's sentence with his own.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TELEGRAM-NEWS

Lynn, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Judge Will Defy Curley Hunt Ban

NANTUCKET, Dec. 6.—Bent on "Calling Curley's Bluff," a small band of sportsmen, Judge George M. Poland among them, went into the woods today to resume deer hunting on this island, 30 miles off the mainland, in defiance to the Tuesday edict of Gov. James M. Curley in declaring the season closed after the killing of one hunter and the wounding of another.

Judge Poland, resident of Wakefield and summer visitor here, said there was nothing in the law authorizing the Governor to close the hunting season except extreme drought.

It was up to Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon to make an arrest, Raymond J. Kenney, director of the State Department of Fisheries and Game said those defying the Governor's edict were liable to a fine of $100 per deer slain if game warden makes an arrest.

the defendant will be arraigned in district court tomorrow.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

ITEM

Lynn, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

NANTUCKET JUDGE DEFIES CURLEY'S DEER HUNT BAN

Says He Finds No Authority in Statutes Which Gives Governor This Right.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Dec. 6, 1935.
—(P)—A Probate court justice announced he would hunt deer today despite Governor James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket Island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press.

"And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer, Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon, did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters, not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket Island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

Visiting hunters left the island and Nantucketers contend the danger of casualties was greatly lessened by their departure. In fact, they said today, since no emergency exists, the deer season is open, despite the governor's ban.

NEWS
Milford, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Hunters Disobey Governor's Edict

Nantucket, Dec. 6—Bent on "calling Curley's bluff," a small band of sportsmen, Judge George M. Poland among them, went into the woods today to resume deer hunting on this island, 30 miles off the mainland, in defiance to the Tuesday edict of Gov. James M. Curley in declaring the season closed after the killing of one hunter and the wounding of another.

Judge Poland, resident of Wakefield and summer visitor here, said there was nothing in the law authorizing the governor to close the hunting season except extreme drought. It was up to Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon to make the arrest.

NEWS
Malden, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Curley Challenges Walsh

NO ONE is greatly surprised at Governor Curley's announcement of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination as United States Senator. During his campaign for the governorship last year no secret was made of the fact that his consuming ambition was for a seat in the Senate. Though there has been some doubt whether he might create conditions on Beacon Hill which would make it almost necessary to run for a second term as Governor, he apparently sees no such necessity, and will try for an office that has a term of six years instead of two with a tradition of repeated election, instead of one of no more than four years at the most. The Governor's decision may be taken as a challenge to Senator Walsh, who would find it difficult to name a Democratic politician who would be more distasteful to him than James M. Curley; but extensive as the senior senator's personal influence is, it is doubtful whether he can find any candidate who would be able successfully to contest the nomination with the Governor. Certainly Senator Marcus Coolidge could not; and moreover, it is understood that he has no great desire for another term in Washington. The Republicans can pretty well take it for granted that Curley is the man they will have to contest next November. The task is very far indeed from being a hopeless one. The Governor will not run for senator as strongly as he did for his present office; but he will be an active campaigner; the Republicans must name as his opponent a man who unites high character with more than usual ability and resource on the platform. If the right man is named, a Republican senator will once more fill the seat of Sumner and Hoar and Lodge.

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

Press
Malden, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Rhymes and Reasons

(The Candidates break into verse to warn you that Election Day, the real Mirthquake of 1935, is just ahead, and that this is the time for all good parties to come to the aid of their men.)

The Mayor strikes a proclamation-giving attitude, thinks better of it, and dictates the following bit of poesy, which we think is a better theme song than "Happy Days Are Here Again." Anyway, it's shorter. "I've been your Mayor for many a year, (Sometimes it seems forever

At the polls on Tuesday next,
Please don't forget Jack Devir."

Capt. Willesen weighs anchor and pipes the following sea chanty, as his loyal crew of workers prepare to scuttle the opposition with a broadside of voting cards.

"I stood on the bridge at midnight,

Looking for signs of a U-Boat,
Be my life-saver election day,

Aand sail my way when you vote."

Edgar Curriculum for School Committee favors the Harvard system of letting the teachers write their own oaths, so long as they pledge allegiance to him. He also urges turning Pearl St. Stadium into a Rose Bowl and filling it with that milk the team has been endorsing, and which Medford must have discovered on Thanksgiving.

"Vote for me for School Committee,

I am free and independent,
I promise all throughout the City

A battle with the Superintendent."

Ex-Coun. McGavel, struggling for a seat in the upper body, thinks his chances would be better if elections were held earlier, perhaps in August, when many people are away, and those who stay in town are slightly touched by the sun. He also favors biennial sessions of the Aldermen, and Council meetings every Leap Year.

"If elected, I'll be a panic,
My future plans are Aldermanic.
And when in City Hall I sit,
Voting cash with smile so sunny,
Ten thousand dollars seems to fit
Like twenty cents of my own money."

Geo. Harangue is a young man just breaking into politics, but breaking isn't always entering, and between you and us, he's got as much chance of success as the Naval Conference. He proposes putting the principalship of that Junior High School on the ballot and letting everyone vote on it, instead of writing letters to the papers.

"For street lights, curbstones, dumps and such,

Harangue will be your man,
He loves the citizens so much,
He'll even vote the Townsend Plan."

(There you are, good people. Now, do you still favor Ballots over Bullets?)

Converse Conversations
(picked up by our concealed dictaphone in Converse Sq., the original Malden Forum)

Newsboy: "Hey, Johnny, it says in the paper we gotta pay a income tax next year. The guys over at the State House lowered the brackets to include even newspapermen. I'll bet those Rotch Exterminators had something to do with this."

Bootblack: "Yeah, a lawyer I shine for said he'd help me make out my tax blank. Here comes your little sister."

Sister: "Mom sent me down with the baby's bank. We have to get it open so we can pay the baby's tax before they fine her."

Post Leaner: "Why don't they hold the Olympics in some country which would be satisfactory to everyone?"

Building Supporter: "There ain't no such country. If they decided to hold them in England, Italy would kick; if they picked Italy, the Ethiopians would holler. The Chinese would hold mass meetings against participating in Japan, and California would never stand for China. Hamilton Fish would go up in the air if Russia was mentioned, and Sen. Walsh would frown on Mexico. The Armenians would yell if you mentioned Turkey, Germans wouldn't agree on France, the Cruelty to Animals people would ban Spain because of bull fighting, and the D. A. R. would protest Greece, now that they have a King there. Curley's enemies would claim propaganda if anyone suggested Poland or Puerto Rico. I guess the Olympics are homeless."

P. L. "How about Little America? Any objection to the penguins?"

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

ENTERPRISE
Marlboro, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

* * * * *

Deer Hunters Defy Orders By Governor Curley For Nantucket

Nantucket, December 6—Leading citizens here are defying the order of Governor Curley closing the season to deer hunting. They say the Governor has no right to close the hunting season excepting in cases of extreme drought.

* * * * *

Boston, Dec. 6—Police learned today that friends of the prisoners who recently tried to escape from the Charlestown State's Prison had planned for weeks to come to their aid with a racing automobile to smash through the truck gates and effect a general delivery.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

C. S. Monitor
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Evans was one of a group of EFA workers who have been cleaning and painting at police headquarters.

Quietly Settled—Suit Against Adjutant General

Bostonians were wondering today why Beacon Hill had not seen fit to announce that Mrs. Garnett McKee of Waltham had been paid $4100 by the State because she was run into by Adj. Gen. William I. Rose's official car, NG 1.

George B. Murphy, state comptroller, said today that the $4100 had been paid after the executive council on Nov. 27 had approved the warrant calling for this amount. He explained that the warrant had been passed on in the ordinary course of events after the Boston municipal court had ordered payment.

The accident was reported to have happened when the official's car was returning from the opening of the Red Sox baseball season last summer. Mrs. McKee sued for $15,000.

Observers expressed a belief that the case was hushed up because of the unfavorable attention which has been given to reckless driving by state officials, but Governor Curley merely stated that he did not think the matter worth mentioning.

ARGUS
Montpelier, Vt.

DEC 6 1935

Will Hunt Deer Despite Ban

Nantucket, Mass., Dec. 6, (P)—A probate court justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Governor James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press.

"And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer—Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

C. S. Monitor
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Deer—Nantucket Judge Defies Governor

Governor Curley was conferring with Attorney General Paul A. Dever this afternoon to find out whether Massachusetts' chief executive could order the deer season closed for any other reason than drought.

The snag has been raised by Judge George M. Poland, of the probate court, who declared that he will defy the Governor's order closing the Nantucket area to deer hunters. Governor Curley issued the hunting ban yesterday at the request of the Nantucket selectmen because one man had been slain and two others wounded during Monday, the first day of the open season on deer. Officially, the season began at sunrise Monday and lasts until sunset on Saturday.

Meanwhile, Raymond J. Kenney, director of the State division of fisheries and game, has ordered the arrest of anyone who violates the Governor's order. Mr. Poland not only stated that he intended to hunt but that he was advising a Nantucket sportsmen's club to follow his example.

Alphabeters—Tell What Each Other Is Doing

The ramifications of the Federal Government's advent into relief and business rather surprised some 250 members of the new governmental alphabetical hierarchy who met at the Parker House yesterday to get acquainted with the efforts various alphabetical divisions are making. No less surprising to newspaper men present were Governor Curley's remarks anent President Roosevelt as an advertising man.

Those noting wide publicity given the various relief divisions heard Governor Curley say that the President "has not been a good advertiser to date." The Governor said the broad plan needed to be explained to the general public.

WPA charts were exhibited. These purported to show that local taxes of cities and towns in Massachusetts would be higher if the Federal Government were not engaged in carrying on relief work. In large cities the tax rate would be $52 instead of the present $38, it was stated. The fact that federal taxes are largely paid in one way and another by those who also pay the city tax was not illustrated.

Arthur G. Rotch, WPA head, announced that 8800 projects have been submitted from Massachusetts. These call for a total expenditure of $250,000,000.

Miss Mary Ward, immigration commissioner, reported decided upturn in applications for citizenship. Joseph W. Manard, collector for the port of Boston, reported a substantial increase in wool receipts.

Other federal agencies gave similar reports of progress and success.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

GAZETTE
Middleboro, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Ralph Maddigan, Editor
Mildred Robinson, Assistant Editor

Dramatic Club Broadcast

The first broadcast of the Memorial High School Dramatic Club under the direction of Miss Doris P. Chase, took place November 27, at 4 o'clock over Station WNAC in Boston. The play given, "Courage in an Hour of Need", told of the crisis of Pasteur's life in his fight against hydrophobia. The cast follows:

E. Robert Begley, Uncle Dan; Sybil Pilshaw, Anna May; Horace Harlow, Billie; Donald Lindsay, Michel; Herbert Spaulding, Jupille; Sherwood Burnett, Pateur; Dudley Kinsman, Vulpian; Ella Trufant, Marie Pasteur; Nancy Alger, Third Voice.

The sound effects were under the direction of Thalia Drake and Ralph Maddigan. The flute accompaniment was played by Virginia Egger.

The play came over the radio with delightful distinctness to the many listening friends in Middleboro, who greatly enjoyed the broadcast.

Thanksgiving Assembly

On Wednesday, November 27, an excellent Thanksgiving assembly was presented by various students under the direction of Miss C. M. Chase, assisted by Mrs. Matheson. The program was quietly thoughtful in the first part and pleasantly amusing in the latter part.

PROGRAM

Selection by the members of the MHS Orchestra, led by Mr. Phillips and accompanied by James Houlihan.

Devotional exercises.

Heman's "Landing of the Pilgrims" recited by Lillian Norvish.

"Beneath Thy Guiding Hand" sung by the school.

Reading of the Governor's Thanksgiving proclamation by Maynard Morton.

Wilkinson's "A Chant Out of Doors" recited by Margaret Wood.

"For the Beauty of the Skies" sung by Priscilla Commeau, accompanied by Margaret-Ann Preston.

Two selections about Puritans and old New England times, with shadow pictures. The first selection, "Puritans and Pilgrims" by the Benets, recited by Margaret Standish; the second, "Zeke's Courtship" by Lowell, recited by Virginia Matheson. The shadow pictures posed by Robert Crosier, Raymond Chase, Lionel Hawkesworth, Luella Bissonette and Helen Sabalewski.

"America" sung by the school.
Salute to the flag.

This interesting program was announced by Maynard Morton. Stage arrangements for the shadow pictures were made by Richard Taylor, assisted by Alfred Finneran and others.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

C. S. Monitor
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Up and Down Beacon Hill

1937 Mayoralty Contest

Boston's 1937 mayoralty campaign promises to be one long explosion of fireworks, if all the prospective candidates show as much enthusiasm as did City Councillor John F. Dowd in his speech last Monday before the council. The speech was regarded generally as the start of the Dowd campaign.

A perusal of the city records for the last 10 years will reveal that no other city councillor, with the possible exception of Clement A. Norton, has held as much time on the floor as Dowd. No matter has been too small for his attention, and the earnestness of his speeches has frequently brought him the applause of the gallery. That Mr. Dowd's constituents in Ward 8 of Roxbury are pleased with their representative in the Council is evident from the fact that of all the 18 city councilors up for re-election last month, he was the only one unopposed, being considered too strong in his district to beat.

Attacks Administration

Monday's speech particularly caused much speculation as it was an unrestrained attack upon the Federal Administration, which he accused of deliberately deluding the nation with statements concerning the number of men returned to work. He introduced an order that the City Council call upon federal officials to cease creating and fostering illusions in the mind of the people.

This attack would have been considered almost routine if made by a Republican member of the Council, but coming from a Democrat with mayoral aspirations, it caused somewhat of a sensation. With approximately 25,000 persons on the welfare rolls in the city, persons who in turn influence perhaps three times that number of votes, it is probable that Councillor Dowd has started early to build himself up as the champion of this large block of voters.

Sticks to Own Party

If Mr. Dowd were not known to be a solid Democrat and a Mansfield administration man, he might be suspected of making an appeal for some of the city's Republican votes, especially as Republican Councillor George Roberts jumped to his feet and seconded Dowd's statements. This is not likely, though, as a Democrat in Boston, who makes too great an appeal to the Republican vote is more than likely to create dissatisfaction among the members of his own organization. And when the votes are finally counted on election day he is likely to discover that he has received the support of neither party.

At this early date, still two years distant from the next mayoral election, it is impossible to estimate with any accuracy Mr. Dowd's chances for election. Yet it is safe to predict that his popular appeal, closely resembling that of Governor Curley, and his known executive ability will make for a smashing campaign.

Dowd has always been a vigorous vote-getter. In 1932 he put up a strong fight at the Democratic primaries for the nomination for Sheriff of Suffolk County. He polled 52,089 votes and was beaten by only 5000 votes by John A. Keliher, the incumbent, who had built up a strong personal organization and whose position was considered unchallengeable. Keliher was elected Sheriff at the regular elections. The vote showed Dowd to have vote-getting powers and will form a strong basis from which to launch his campaign.

J. G. H.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

NEWS
Newburyport, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

SOCIAL EXISTENCE WILL BE MUCH DISCUSSED AT STATE HOUSE IN 1936

(Special to the News)

State House, Boston, Dec. 6.—Social existence will be the outstanding public welfare cause to be heralded by Beacon Hill habitués in 1936.

Governor James M. Curley in announcing his candidacy for the United States Senate has clearly defined his platform for the new year in stressing that nation-wide attention centered largely on social security endorsed by the recent acts of Congress.

Senator Eugene P. Casey of Milford has definitely placed local members of the House and Senate "on the spot" with a resolution encouraging and endorsing the Townsend plan.

Senator Joseph A. Langone, Jr., Boston has petitioned for a state Townsend plan—nothing more or less than a broader old age assistance act.

The coming session will see local members of the legislature harrassed by demands that Dr. Townsend's system be adopted; that the Huey Long cry of "Every Man a King" be sponsored by political opportunists; that "share the wealth" be demanded and that further action be taken to establish the state as a mother to its citizens.

Last year "social security" was the cry but future debates will hail "social existence" as the vote-making slogan.

Townsend clubs are rapidly gaining headway throughout the country, and while there is not the enthusiasm in New England, and especially Massachusetts, as elsewhere, the Townsend movement is to be a decided factor in the adoption of social legislation in the forthcoming legislative sessions.

Whether or not Dr. Townsend's followers will demand endorsement be given to the $200 per month plan or not, is debatable at present, but it is rather widely admitted that approval to some degree of pensions will be urged.

Upton Sinclair's EPIC program will be revived as political candidates "spread the gospel" throughout Massachusetts cities and towns to appease the minds of John Q. Public and his family.

The forthcoming report of the public welfare commission, headed by Senator Theodore R. Plunkett of Adams, will draw considerable attention to the need of revised statutes in this state regulating welfare disbursements.

The entire movement for added payments to loyal citizens over certain age requirements, and a broader basis for welfare payments will, without a doubt, become the battle cry of political debaters on the Hill in the coming year.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TRANSCRIPT
North Adams, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

JUDGE WILL HUNT DESPITE CURLEY

Nantucket, Mass., Dec. 6—(AP)—A Probate Court justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Gov. James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press.

"And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer—Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

NEWS
Newburyport, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

CURLEY FOR SENATOR.

Just as the Republicans all over the state were bending their energies and making their plans to oust Governor James M. Curley from Beacon Hill, he astonished not only them, but his own friends, by declaring in an off-hand way to Rockland that he would be a candidate for United States senator. We presume this decision is final. It profoundly alters all the campaign plans of the Republicans. Republican strategy and planning has been gauged to oust Mr. Curley from Beacon Hill. Every Republican candidate for governor has been considered in relation to his power to drive out Curley. Now every plan must be changed and the campaign planned anew.

The issue will not be the driving of Governor Curley from the State House. He will perform that important public service himself. The campaign will be planned to oust Curleyism in all its unreasonable and tyrannical forms from Massachusetts government. The Republicans have at least four powerful candidates who can be trusted to do that job thoroughly and well. The reaction is already well under way. The victory of William H. McSweeney in the Salem district shows clearly which way the wind is blowing. The strong personal touch which Governor Curley has given to his administration has aroused a tremendous revulsion of feeling not only in Salem, but in Worcester and elsewhere where evidences of a reaction have appeared.

Mr. Curley's candidacy as senator makes the going rough for Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., who received such an uproarious greeting from his fellow members of the Essex Republican club last Tuesday evening. It astonishes us, however, that Governor Curley intends to run for senator on the issue of social security. Unemployment and old age pensions appear to have come to stay. The issue is settled for the Republican party will not attack them. Social security would seem to be a settled policy, not suitable for a campaign slogan. Mr. Curley will make a powerful fight for the senatorship. His own party can not elect him. He has too many enemies in it. He was made governor by Republican votes. Will those Republican votes follow him in his senatorial ambitions? That is the question. Henry Cabot Lodge is a coming man, there is no doubt of that. He is making more friends every year. His speeches show an intelligent and deep study. He showed a greater comprehension of the essential fallacy of "New Deal" philosophy than any other speaker last Tuesday evening. He will need loyal support to beat Mr. Curley.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TELEGRAM
Nashua, N. H.

DEC 6 1935

NANTUCKET JUDGE DEFIES CURLEY

In Order Prematurely End- ing Deer Hunt

NANTUCKET, Mass., Dec. 6 (P)—A probate court justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Governor James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket Island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press. "And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer—Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket Island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

Shortly before noon, however, there had been no activity. The temperature was below freezing and it was snowing.

A group of gunners gathered on Main street apparently waiting for the other fellow to make the first move.

There were no reports of deer shot.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

REGISTER
New Haven, Ct.

DEC 6 1935

JUDGE DEFIES GOV. CURLEY'S HUNTING BAN

Group of Nantucket Island- ers to Join Jurist in Quest for Deer De- spite Edict

Nantucket, Mass., Dec. 6.—(P)—A probate court justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Governor James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket Island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told The Associated Press.

"And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer—Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket Island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

Visiting hunters left the island and Nantucketers contend the danger of casualties was greatly lessened by their departure.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

MESSENGER
Norwood, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Successor Named

DR. ARTHUR S. HARTWELL, who will be succeeded as medical examiner of the local district if Governor Curley's recommendation to his council is accepted next week. Dr. Hartwell is completing a seven year term.

Hartwell Out As Examiner?

Governor Names Dr. Scho- field Of Wellesley. Coun- cil Acts Next Week

(Special to the Messenger)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Dec. 5—The Governor's Council on Wednesday of next week will act on the appointment of Dr. Otho L. Schofield of Wellesley as medical examiner of the local district replacing Dr. Arthur S. Hartwell of Norwood.

The appointment was submitted at yesterday's session of the Governor's Council and rules were not suspended to permit action as a long list of other nominations were considered at the sitting.

Dr. Hartwell is now completing a seven year term, and had also occupied the office previous to his last appointment.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

MESSENGER
Norwood, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Wants Lilac Road For Superhighway

BOSTON, Dec. 5 (INS)—"Down the Lilac Highway."

This would be the popular refrain in Massachusetts if Governor James M. Curley carries out a new beautification plan.

The chief executive suggested to Arthur G. Rotch, administrator of the ERA-WPA, that part of the $10,000,000 in federal funds allocated to Massachusetts for making the highways more beautiful be used to line the Boston to Providence superhighway with fragrant lilac bushes.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

GAZETTE
Northampton, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

lice at Shelburne Falls, where authorities sent out a warrant for Bush on a charge of nonsupport of his wife and minor child.

Curley To Oust Edgar L. Gillett

Westfield — Among the fairly long list of Ely appointees for whom Gov. James M. Curley nominated successors at last week's session of the executive council appears the name of State Commissioner of Agriculture Edgar L. Gillett of Canton, formerly of this city. For his post, Gov. Curley has appointed Howard H. Murphy of Osterville. Samuel A. York of Cummington, state commissioner of conservation, is another Ely appointee slated for the Curley guillotine. Representative Ernest J. Dean of Chilmark, a town down on Martha's Vineyard, and a Republican, has been named to succeed York. Representative Dean, as a member of the ways and means committee of the house of representatives, was a strong supporter of the bond issues favored by Gov. Curley.

PRESS CLIPPING SERVICE
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

RECORD
New Britain, Conn.

DEC 6 1935

JUDGE TO DEFY BAN ON HUNTING

Probate Court Official Plans to Ignore Order

Nantucket, Mass., Dec. 6 (AP)—A probate court justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Governor James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket Island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press.

"And here is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer—Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket Island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

Visiting hunters left the island and Nantucketers contend the danger of casualties was greatly lessened by their departure. In fact, they said today, since no emergency exists, the deer season is open, despite the governor's ban.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

MERCURY

New Bedford, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Efforts are being made to obtain a pardon for William A. McDonald, a wife-murderer who is serving a life sentence; and the fact that he engaged in battle with the convicts who attempted to escape from the State Prison at Charlestown is being urged in his behalf. Arthur T. Lyman, commissioner of corrections, states that McDonald is a trusty and is already receiving all possible privileges that can be granted a prisoner. As to his battle with the escaping convicts, Mr. Lyman says, "The only reward would have to take the form of a pardon by the governor."

Governor Curley, however, in announcing his refusal to grant a pardon, reveals that the plea in McDonald's behalf is not put forward solely because of his assistances to the authorities or the occasion of the attempted jail break. He states that he was asked to pardon the man some time ago; but that he would not be justified in doing so, in view of the atrocious nature of the crime for which McDonald was sentenced to life imprisonment. The murder was committed on March 23, 1913. McDonald, who had not been living with his family for some time, followed them while they were on their way home from mass in Arlington. When Broadway was reached, he kissed the children and then, turning to his wife, asked her to permit him to resume his place at home. Upon her refusal he struck her in the face and then slashed her throat with a razor. After his arrest McDonald admitted to the police that he had gone to Arlington with the intention of killing his wife if she would not take him back. The children, who live in Greater Boston, are opposed to either pardon or parole for their father.

The history of the case impels one to the opinion that McDonald was fortunate in escaping capital punishment; and that there should be no mitigation of the sentence.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

MERCURY
New Bedford, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Judge George Poland To Defy Curley, Hunt Nantucket Deer Today

Jurist States He's 'Calling Bluff' of Governor,
Game Chief

OFFERS TO DEFEND
OTHER SPORTSMEN

Island Wardens Assert Prosecution Will Be Necessary

(Special to The Mercury)

NANTUCKET, Dec. 5—In deliberate defiance of Governor Curley's edict closing the Nantucket deer season on Tuesday, Judge
George M. Poland of Boston, justice of the island Probate Court and widely respected legal authority, announced upon his arrival today that he will go deer hunting in the morning.

Judge Poland said that his hunting expedition was largely a test of the governor's authority to act as he did; and the announcement had the whole town agog.

Fatal Shooting

The season was closed at the request of the Board of Selectmen after the fatal shooting of George
Sylvia, a guide, last Tuesday.

Stating that he was "calling the bluff" of Governor Curley and Raymond J. Kenney, game commission, Judge Poland remarked:
"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, except in cases of severe drought. There is no drought—there is snow on the ground."

Judge Poland said he had made several attempts to inform Kenney that he intended to defy his order and go hunting on the island in the morning. Judge Poland also told Nantucket sportsmen that if they went hunting tomorrow and were successful in getting deer, he would defend them gratis, if there should be any criminal prosecution.

About 200 hunters, members of the Sportsmen's Club, have been making attempts all day to have the season reopened, but with no success, according to Edmund P.
Crocker, secretary.

Prosecution Necessary

Ernest P. Anyon, game garden for this district, and Gordon Spof-ford, Vineyard warden, who was sent over to assist during the deer season, said tonight that if any men shot deer tomorrow, it would be necessary to prosecute them according to the game warden's interpretation of the statutes.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

STANDARD
New Bedford, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

MOTHER TO ASK WOMAN BE FREED

Daughter Jailed for Theft
1 to Aid Man She Loved

SALEM, Dec. 6 (AP)—A 70-year-old mother today sought the freedom of a daughter who stole $20,- 000 to aid the man she loved.

Mrs. Ada Vickery, said she would appeal to Governor Curley to free her daughter, Mrs. Pauline Crabtre from jail.

Mrs. Crabtre, 37-year-old former assistant treasurer of the Lynn Cooperative Bank, pleaded guilty last February to stealing $20,000 from the institution.

The money, she testified, was given to George W. Bishop, who is serving a long term for his part in the theft. Bishop's feeling toward her changed, Mrs. Crabtre testified, after she gave him the money, and he abused her.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

MERCURY
New Bedford, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

"SOCIAL SECURITY"

(New York Sun)

Governor Curley of Massachusetts has announced his candidacy for the Senate on a platform of "social security." He couldn't have meant political security, could he?

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

MERCURY
New Bedford, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

MOTHER TO ASK GIRL BE FREED

To Request Pardon for Daughter Who Stole to Aid Mate

SALEM, Dec. 5 (AP)—A 70-year-old mother said tonight she would ask Governor James M. Curley tomorrow to free from jail the daughter who stole $20,000 from the bank where she was an officer to aid the man she loved.

Mrs. Ada Vickery, the mother, conferred with county officials in behalf of her daughter, Mrs.
Pauline Crabtre, 37 year old former assistant treasurer of a Lynn bank. Mrs. Crabtre pleaded guilty last February to stealing $20,000 from the Lynn Cooperative Bank.

The money, she testified, was given to George W. Bishop, who now is serving a long term for his part in the defalcation. After she had given him the money, she testified, Bishop's feelings toward her changed and he abused her.

County officials told the mother.
Mrs. Crabtre would not be eligible for parole until she had served a year of her 18 months sentence. She then decided to ask the Governor tomorrow for a pardon.

Mrs. Crabtre's aged father,
George P. Vickery, the mother said, was seriously ill.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

MERCURY
New Bedford, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

MAY ENTER 'MELEE'

ROBERT M. WASHBURN

WASHBURN EYES SENATE PLACE

Republican May 'Yield to Popular Wave', Join
'Melee'

BOSTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—What Robert M. Washburn, perennial Bull Moose Republican, described as a "melee"—Massachusetts' Senatorial race—was enlivened tonight by his announcement he might "yield to that popular wave that seems to be overwhelming everyone" and get in himself.

Washburn, 67, shaggy-haired and bushy-eyebrowed political commentator, whose wit and satire have featured the state's politics for years, made his declaration on the heels of the announcement of Governor James M. Curley that he would seek the Democratic nomination for the Senate seat next year.

'Quiet Campaign'

Curley, leader of Massachusetts' democracy, acknowledged Washburn's announcement with the comment: "I am quite sure his candidacy will prove the most valuable contribution in what otherwise promises to be a very orderly and quiet campaign."

This was purely the governor's personal view, since the very number of candidates for the Republican nominations, and their activities to date appeared to indicate a more than usually lively campaign.

The announcement of Washburn, drubbed for the same office last year by Senator David I. Walsh (D), after his own party leaders had jettisoned his candidacy, brought to four the number of Republicans either openly avowed seekers of the G. O. P. nomination or who have indicated they have their eye on it.

The others are Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., grandson of the U. S. Senator celebrated for his fight against membership in the League of Nations, and Sinclair Weeks, Mayor of suburban Newton, and son of a U. S. Senator, the late John W. Weeks. Another is James F. Cavanagh, Boston lawyer, and former State Senator.

Washburn did not indicate in his announcement whether he would seek nomination at the G. O. P. pre-primary convention, or run independently, as he indicated he might this Spring.

Heads T. R. Club

Head of the (Theodore) Roosevelt Club, he has always used the organization to badger what he considered backward Republican elements, and has said he feared the convention would be dominated by Old Guard forces headed by John Richardson, a lawyer close to Herbert Hoover.

Meanwhile, the man whose seat all seek, Marcus A. Coolidge (D) 70-year old retired Fitchburg manufacturer, has not indicated his plans.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

STANDARD
New Bedford, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Dean Takes Oath of Office

Governor Curley is shown (above) administering the oath of office to (left to right) Thomas Green, Boston, as Civil Service Commissioner, and Representative Ernest J. Dean, Chilmark, as Commissioner of Conservation. Dean will serve as state representative and Conservation Commissioner, accepting salary only for the latter post.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TIMES
Peabody, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

TIMES
Pawtucket, R. I.
DEC 6 1935

Up and Down Main Street

Continued from page 1

mail brought an answer to our cry last week, loyal readers sent six pairs of assorted glasses, but they all belonged to somebody else and thanks even to the sarcastic dunce from South Peabody who listed the reasons why people lose their spectacles . . . Remember the election? . . . Hats off to a High School pupil who works from 4.30 p. m. until 1.30 a. m. in a factory to support his ageing father and invalid mother. In school from 8.10 to 1.20, this student-worker is agile, alert and anxious. He has what it takes to make boys—men, and his ship will surely come in some day . . . Signs in three local stores: "If you want to do nothing, don't do it here" Roosevelt says that now is the time to buy. Did you hear him? And "a popular gift for everybody in the family, a quart of 1896 whisky" . . . Main St. will glow tonight with colored lights strung over the thoroughfare. Reversing last year's policy, Manager Patrick Harold Tumelty of the Electric Light Dept. will not drape the street lamps in red and green. Reason: The paper curled, gave purple and orange tints instead . . . Secy. Westley Parker Redman, Harvard grad knew the janitor who was assaulted in his Alma Mater recently. Said Redman: "He was terribly unpopular and difficult to understand. What he needed was a sense of humor." Yeah, we'll say . . . Rev. John Reid used to sell the Worcester Star and Worcester Gazette years ago . . . The old problem is with many families again: That of sending Christmas cards in unsealed envelopes. Foolish pride almost bankrupts some people, but intelligent folk who send out hundreds of greetings refuse to be tormented by the problem and bravely stick a 1½ cent stamp on their envelopes. So if the Jones are going to act sensibly and do it, many will undoubtedly follow suit. . . . Get out your pencil and paper for your shopping list and don't forget your mother-in-law . . . Deputy Commissioner Charles Antonio Mogavero has been invited to join the swank University Club of Boston, in the latest round-up of member prospects. Initiation fee is $100 payable 30 days in advance and dues are $75 a year. For both fees, Collegiate Commissioner Mogavero can bathe, swim and play soccer with such men as Gov. ernor James Michael Curley, Joseph A. Tomasello and Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd . . . It's going to be a happy Christmas, and nobody will go without food or presents, for local charities and the Press Club are shopping at the moment for the best Santa Claus suits in town . . . Adios

Curley's Ban On Nantucket Deer Ignored

Probate Judge Challenges Governor's Authority to Close Island Season.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Dec. 6 (AP)—A Probate Court Justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Governor James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket Island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press. "And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of Islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer—Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some Islanders were planning to defy the Governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket Island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

Visiting hunters left the Island and Nantucketers contend the danger of casualties was greatly lessened by their departure. In fact, they said today, since no emergency exists, the deer season is open, despite the Governor's ban.

TIMES
Peabody, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

PICK-UPS

During the election in a nearby community, an election advertisement carried the picture of a Peabody man, instead of the right candidate. . . They both had the same names and evidently both pictures were on file in the morgue. The Peabodyite got quite a kick out of it and said that if the candidate won, that he would claim the election as his picture might have put him over. . . However, the other picture was printed the next day. . . It is interesting to note that the only guests at the coming high school football banquet will be the players and their mothers. . . And it will be an innovation not to have many pols with "Annie Oakley's". . . Several upsets occurred in the city election of Tuesday. . . Not only were there upsets, but there were other things to be considered, several humorous incidents. . . Durkee lost a vote up in Ward Six, when someone left a ballot marked for him—in the voting booth. . . Of course the ballot wasn't placed in the ballot box and didn't count. . . If it had, the margin of victory for Lane would have been two instead of three.

The usual policies was displayed in the ward elections this year. . . With plenty of the pols, straddling both sides of the fence. . . Apparently working for each candidate in a confidential manner, but really taking care of themselves and not the candidates. . . This happened each year, but it is more pronounced in a mayoralty election. . . On the various occasions we have noted pols donating to both candidates, either in cash or autos or something else. . . In the course of time it all comes out in the wash. . . One in particular, who has been noted for this for a number of years, has successfully held down a position for years. . . Threats have been made to "get him" at various times, but he still holds forth. . . It is interesting to be on the inside on one of these elections.—And it would surprise the general public if they knew what actually transpires behind the scenes.

The Friscoes had a field day at the election. . . One of their members, Frank Narbis, called the "Father" of that organization, was swept into office on the school committee. . . Another, he too a former president of the Friscoes, Ralph L. Blake, was elected councillor in Ward Five by a fine majority. . . The third—Councillor Joseph Luz, who whitewashed his opposition in Ward Four. . . And did the Friscoes celebrate these events on Tuesday night. . . They had a sound truck, piled all the successful Friscoes into a big sedan at the head of the sound truck and held a victory parade all over the city. . . They had between 40 and 50 autos in the parade at different occasions. . . They went through Wards Four, Five, Six, Three, Two, and One, but neglected to travel to West Peabody.

Publicity from Marblehead following the meeting between the Peabody and Marblehead school committees. . . Pointed with pride to a statement that Coach Charley McGuinness had "Put one over on Faculty Manager Jack Burke of Peabody". . . But the truth of the matter is another story. . . Our other contracts of other years called for a 60-40 split of the gross receipts. . . But next year and for the year after there will be a 50-50 split of the net. . . And game expenses will run close to $200. . . So we wonder just how the 'Headers figure that they will be ahead of the last year's contract.

Joseph Ryan, former ERA headman here in Peabody. . . May be in charge of all Peabody projects in the new WPA setup. . . According to the latest information. . . It is expected that Joe, former city councillor, will be the man who will handle the Peabody end from the main office in Salem. . . The spy also predicts that James Murphy, also former head of the ERA in Peabody, who has been assistant to Ferris, Ryan and Doody. . . Will be in a much better position at Salem under the WPA. . . When the Peabody ERA office force is split up and if the regional director is removed as is expected under orders from Democratic headquarters, the spy predicts that Jim will be the man to receive the job. . . It is a well known fact that Jim is in right with the powers that be in this Democratic administration and that Jim is "Aces" with Governor Curley. . . In fact Jim was one of Curley's lieutenants in the last campaign and was one of the first to personally congratulate Governor Curley on his victory.

John Labelle, police officer, is quite a handy man with tools. . . For John worked for nearly twenty years for the Turner Tanning Machinery Co. . . In his spare time he has improved on his Franklin st. home, both inside and out. . . When his sister in law started the Turnstile Inn this spring up in West Peabody, Jack took over the decorating job and he did a swell job. . . He finished the furniture, did most of the painting. . . Made the miniature turnstiles in front of the Inn and painted the signs.

News Tribune
Providence, R. I.

DEC 6 1935

Nantucket Judge Defies Curley Ban On Deer Hunting

Nantucket, Mass., Dec. 6.—(AP)—A probate court justice announced he would hunt deer here today despite Gov. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket Island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press.

"And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer, Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon, did some rifle oiling, but to stalk the hunters not the deer.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Gov. Curley closed the season on Nantucket Island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

TIMES
Pawtucket, R. I.

DEC 6 1935

Washburn Ready to Oppose Curley

Bay State G. O. P. Leader Indicates He Might Run for Senate.

BOSTON, Dec. 6 (UP)—Robert M. Washburn, former congressman, president of the (Theodore) Roosevelt Club of Boston, attorney and political commentator, indicated today that he might again be a candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Washburn was defeated by the veteran Democratic Senator David I. Walsh in the election that also put James M. Curley in the Governor's chair. Curley has announced his candidacy for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

"Now that the senatorial scenery has completely shifted," Washburn said. "I may yield to that popular wave which seems to be overwhelming everyone and get in to the melee myself."

Governor Curley expressed "gratification" over the announcement.

"No announcement from any citizen of the commonwealth could be more gratifying to me than his," he said. "He is always entertaining and I am quite sure that his candidacy will prove the most valuable contribution to what otherwise promises to be a very orderly and quiet campaign."

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

Journal
Providence, R. I.

DEC 6 1935

Democrats Pay Respects To Governor's Councillor

Philip J. Russell, Sr., Honored at Banquet in Somerset; Prof. Clifford Hubbard Calls Ruling Killing Blue Eagle a Major Tragedy

Sink with the New Deal rather than float with any other expedient, was the sentiment expressed by Prof. Clifford Hubbard of Wheaton College, in his address as the principal speaker at the testimonial banquet for Governor's Councillor Philip J. Russell, Sr., arranged by the Democratic town committee of Somerset at Riverside Hall, Somerset, last night. He declared the decision of the Supreme Court killing the Blue Eagle, "the best bird ever hatched," was a major tragedy and "this freedom referred to by our Congressman from this district is the right to get your throat cut."

Talbot Speaks

Emphasizing that his remarks were not to be construed as criticism of the National or State party leaders, Edmond P. Talbot, former Mayor of Fall River, declared "To the victor belong the spoils," as he asserted "the only way a party can grow is to give to its workers."

Much embarrassment will be spared office holders if leaders adopt the policy of permitting the distribution of patronage by city and town committee chairman, according to Oscar Buckley, chairman of the Seekonk town committee, who referred to appointments made in his community. He commented that one appointee benefiting from party leaders' action assisted the Republican nominees in the last election.

Councillor Russell asserted: "You are going to be confronted with the conditions that met Andrew Jackson, gold against people, in the next election," as he declared the United States had never had a more humane President than Franklin D. Roosevelt and that "the heart of James M. Curley beats with sympathy for the common people."

McDonough Presides

The toastmaster was Paul V. McDonough, registra of deeds, who also introduced as speakers Dr. J. Fred Keeley, member of the Fall River School Committee; Dr. William F. Lynch, Arthur E. Seagrave, Gilbert Francis, former chairman of the New Bedford Democratic City Committee; Representative Albert Rubin, County Commissioner Timothy A. Lovett and Associate Commissioner of Labor and Industry John L. Campos.

Mrs. Russell was presented a bouquet of roses by Mrs. Margaret Mawn. The committee included Mrs. Mawn, Dr. Lynch, Howard Simmons, Francis McCarthy and James Butterworth.

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

Bulletin

Providence, R. I.

DEC 6 1935

	4	4	2	10	11	11
Deloit	8	2	2	4	8	10
Boston	8	2	6	0	5	7

R. I. HORSES TAKE

LAURELS AT HUB

Boston, Dec. 6.—Horses owned by Audrey's Choice Stable and the Greyholme Stables captured a good share of the honors in the eighth annual 110th Cavalry horse show which opened tonight in the Commonwealth Armory. The show will continue this evening, tomorrow and Sunday afternoon and evening.

Governors' night was celebrated last evening with Governor James M. Curley of Massachusetts and Louis Brann of Maine making addresses to the huge throng which filled the armory.

The first to win for the Audrey's Choice Stable, which is owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Cassell and Miss Audrey L. Thomas, of Providence, was the chestnut gelding, Jamboree, which surpassed the fine field in the Class 28 model saddle horse over 14.2 hands.

Entries of the Greyholme Stable, which is owned by Webster Knight, 2nd, of West Warwick, captured the bulk of places in the Class 2A, limit harness horse division. In this class open to horses which have not won more than six first ribbons at any recognized horse show, Broompark Chancellor of the Greyholme Stable, a chestnut, driven by Fred Marsden, was first; Seaton Rags and Seaton Belinda, other Greyholme horses driven by Mrs. E. M. Seaton and Frank Brown, respectively, were second and fourth.

Excelisior, owned by Manor Hackney Farms of Jordan Station, Ont., Canada, and driven by Mr. Webster Knight, was third.

Knight Bachelor, national single harness champion five-year-old brown gelding owned by Miss Judy King of Atlanta, Gas., was pressed hard for the blue in its division defeating Seaton Sappho, entered by the Woodridge Farm from Huntingdon Valley, Pa.

The third award went to the Greyholme Stable's Broompark Chancellor owned by Webster Knight, 2nd, and the two remaining entries went to Sanderstead Empress, another Greyholme Stable entry, and Excelisior, the Ontario chestnut gelding.

The other national champion on the first night's program, Gold Digger, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kaiser of Bethel, Conn., was in first place in the five gaited stallion or gelding class. Cocktail Hour, the bay gelding of the Audrey Choice Stable, Providence, was second in this competition.

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

EAGLE

Pittsfield, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

day.

NO PARDON UNTIL YEAR IS SERVED, MOTHER IS TOLD

BOSTON, Dec. 6 (AP).—The plea of a 70-year-old mother for the freedom of her daughter who stole $20,000 to aid the man she loved can not be considered until she has served a year of her 18 months sentence, Governor James M. Curley said today.

Mrs. Ada Vickery, the mother, said she would appeal to Governor Curley today to free her daughter, Mrs. Pauline Crabtree from jail. The Governor, however, said her case would be given consideration when one year from the sentencing date had elapsed, but "not before."

Mrs. Crabtree, 37-year-old former assistant treasurer of the Lynn Cooperative Bank, pleaded guilty last February to stealing $20,000 from the institution.

The money, she testified at the time, was given to George W. Bishop, who is serving a long term for his part in the theft. Bishop's feeling toward her changed, Mrs. Crabtree said, after she gave him the money, and he abused her.

County officials previously had told Mrs. Vickery her daughter would not be eligible for parole until she had served the required time.

The mother said she would ask the pardon from the Governor because the girl's father is seriously ill.

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square

Boston

Mass.

PATRIOT-LEDGER

Quincy, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

APPEAL TO GOVERNOR

BOSTON, Dec. 6 (INS)—An appeal to Governor James M. Curley was made today by Mrs. Ada Vickery, 70, in an effort to obtain the freedom of her daughter, Mrs. Pauline Crabtree, former Assistant Treasurer of a Lynn bank, serving an 18 months sentence in Essex house of correction for stealing $20,000 of the bank's funds.

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square

Boston

Mass.

PATRIOT-LEDGER

Quincy, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

available in the event anything comes out of tomorrow's talk.

DEFY CURLEY EDICT AND RESUME HUNTING DEER IN NANTUCKET

NANTUCKET, Dec. 6 (INS)—Bent on "calling Curley's bluff", a small band of sportsmen, Judge George M. Poland among them, went into the woods today to resume deer hunting on this island, 30 miles off the mainland, in defiance to the Tuesday edict of Governor James M. Curley in declaring the season closed after the killing of one hunter and the wounding of another.

Judge Poland, resident of Wakefield and summer visitor here, said there was nothing in the law authorizing the governor to close the hunting season except extreme drought.

It was up to Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon to make an arrest. Raymond J. Kenney, director of the State Department of Fisheries and Game said those defying the governor's edict were liable to a fine of $100 per deer slain. If Game Warden Anyon makes an arrest the defendant will be arraigned in district court tomorrow.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

BUDGET

Revere, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Mark What Von Says

IT LOOKS NOT ROSY FOR ROOSEVELT

The Literary Digest poll has never been wrong. Some wits have suggested that its pre-election polls be used to determine the winner, thus saving the government the vast expense attendant on a national election.

The Digest has now started a new poll on whether or not "You now approve the acts and policies of the Roosevelt New Deal to date." Not enough return has yet been obtained to give a decisive answer but results are interesting.

Forty thousand ballots from five States, all of which Mr. Roosevelt carried in 1932, show that 53 per cent of the voters are against the New Deal. A similar poll, carried on in early 1934, show that 61 per cent were favorable.

According to Gov. Curley's own words, he will NOT be a candidate for re-election, but will seek the United States Senate berth. Can you imagine the anti-Curleyites chuckling over his latest declaration. Senator Coolidge may now be given a federal berth to clear the field for his Excellency. Should Curley be elected to the U. S. Senate (and I don't think he is going in on a landslide) how will he and the distinguished Senator Walsh pair together. Senator Walsh has a mind of his own and it's quite certain that he will continue to be the outstanding representative of the Bay State, even though Gov. Curley should be elected to the Senate.

The present administration, both in nation and state, will have to do a lot of explaining if they hope to hold the power of government for another term. The billions of dollars, said to be in reserve to re-elect Roosevelt, may act as a boomerang before the days draw nearer to the election.

A most formidable foe of Gov. Curley in his proposed Senatorial contest will be Rep. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. Should Mr. Lodge receive the Republican nomination for the U. S. Senate, his magnetic name and being a direct descendent of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge would mean thousands of votes among the late Senator's admirers. Should Curley and Lodge be the two candidates in the battle for the Senate berth I believe that it is quite probable that Lodge would dislodge the ambitions of our "militant" governor.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

BUDGET

Revere, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

killed.

Local Man Will Not Be Deported to Italy

Domenic LaSala, of this city, will not be deported to Italy as the result of action taken by Gov. Curley and the executive council Wednesday when they granted him a full pardon.

La Sala, an alien, faced deportation to Italy since he had been convicted of moral turpitude. On Sept. 17, 1931, he was given two terms of three to four years in state prison, one to follow the other. On Sept. 16, of this year, he was given a parole. A full pardon was needed, however, to save him from being sent back to Italy. This pardon was quickly obtained from generous Gov. Curley and his executive council.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

BUDGET

Revere, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Friends of the ...
vited to attend.

Paul Revere School

The Thanksgiving assembly program at the Paul Revere School was under the direction of Miss Emma Gilbert and Mrs. Elsa Marshall, teachers of the sixth grades. Pupils above the third grades participated. First, second and third grades held exercises in their class rooms.

The program opened with a salute to the flag and singing of "America, the Beautiful." The Governor's proclamation was read.

The high spot of the assembly was a one-act play, "The First Thanksgiving," written, staged and costumed by Mrs. Marshall.

An invitation to participate in one of the group meetings of the department of superintendence at their convention in St. Louis next February has been extended to Miss Rosa A. Yeomans, principal of the Paul Revere School. Miss Yeomans is asked to evaluate different methods of teaching arithmetic.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

BUDGET
Revere, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Breakwater Project Now Appears Quite Probable

Governor Curley Endorses Projects—Requests
Chairman Hultman to Confer With Federal Relief Chief

The long fight for a breakwater along the Revere and Winthrop waterfront appears to have been won now, as a result of a conference of former Mayor Andrew A. Casassa and Judge Roscoe Walsworth with Gov. Curley Wednesday.

Governor Curley heard the pleas of both Casassa and Walsworth and instructed Chairman Eugene C. Hultman of the Metropolitan District Commission to confer with Arthur D. Rotch, federal relief administrator with a view of providing a new project for the breakwater.

Governor Curley at the conference said the improvement was needed to protect the property along the shore. Both Casassa and Walsworth are former Mayors and have taken a keen interest during a long period in the Revere-Winthrop breakwater project.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

BUDGET
Revere, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

MASS., BUDGET, FRIDAY,

IT IS SAID

—THAT again—Do your Christmas shopping early.

—THAT you have only 15 shopping days before Christmas.

—THAT the Charlestown prison break recording four deaths was the shocking news the past week.

—THAT a new state prison appears quite probable. "Gov. Jim" recommends a $2,000,000 new state prison to be built somewhere in the country.

—THAT it's regrettable that there are some folks in this God-fearing country of ours who think they are too "big" to salute our flag.

—THAT with two Hurleys in the Democratic contest for governor, there's going to be a "merry-go-round" among the pols.

MICHAEL J. WARD FORSAKES ROXBURY FOR NEW DISTRICT

Has Moved to Allston Where He Will Battle Republican Leader for House Seat

Michael J. Ward, former State Senator and present Representative from Ward 9, Roxbury, has forsaken his native bailiwick for the Allston-Brighton section of the City and has announced that he will seek election to the House from Ward 21, a section hitherto captured by the Democrats only once.

Ward is still the official representative of Ward 9 but he has had his legal residence in Ward 21 on Wallingford road, Allston, since last May. His decision to move into that ward and immediately seek the right to represent his new neighbors in the Legislature is one of the most startling political developments in some years.

Ward has been a political leader in Roxbury for many years and some consider him one of the most astute politicians in the State. He organized Ward 9 so thoroughly that he absolutely controlled the situation and dictated the choice of legislators and councillors. A meeting of the Michael J. Ward Club meant the assembly of all the leaders in the ward—the ones who knew how to get the vote out when it was necessary.

Ward was an ally of James M. Curley when the latter was a local politician and when he became Mayor of Boston. At times the impression has been given—even as recently as last winter—that Curley and Ward had broken but this was found to be far from true and when the Governor needed a good organizer on the floor of the House, Ward was the man who swung into action. When Rev Fr Charles E. Coughlin visited the State House during the legislative session, it was Ward who asked Speaker Leverett Saltonstall to invite the radio priest to the rostrum and to permit him to address the Legislature.

The interesting part of the Ward move, even to local residents who will choose a successor to Mr Ward, is the fact that he will have to oppose one of the veteran Republican members of the House of Representatives, Martin Hays, to gain a seat.

Hays has served in the House since 1910 with the exception of one term when he was defeated after a temporary break with Speaker Saltonstall.

The Speaker and Hays have settled their difference and Hays is now a valuable cog in the Republican organization.

Both men have also served terms in the State Senate but they came back to the House from choice because the larger membership afforded them a better forum for their talents.

Hays is a brilliant orator and is most effective in debate. Ward seldom speaks but is a genius at lining up votes for his cause irrespective of what is said on the floor of the House.

In Allston, Ward has already organized the Andrew Jackson Club and he is marshalling his strength in every precinct of the ward. Hays has an organization called the Henry Cabot Lodge Club and it will be through these groups that the two legislators will wage an interesting contest next Fall.

Mr Ward has said that he moved from the Roxbury district because the population there changed in character and he wants new territory in which to perform. Local residents may have some misgivings about this reason but regardless of their feelings they will watch the new venture of politician Ward with great interest.

BIBLE SUNDAY ENDORSED BY GOVERNOR CURLEY

Governor James M. Curley urges the churches of Massachusetts to observe Universal Bible Sunday on next Sunday, December 8.

The nation-wide commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the printed English Bible will conclude next Sunday in thousands of churches, according to a statement issued by the American Bible Society, under whose direction Universal Bible Sunday is promoted and through whose missionary activities the Bible is distributed annually in more than 40 countries and in over 150 languages.

In endorsing Universal Bible Sunday Governor Curley says: "As Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, it affords me great pleasure to call upon the citizens of this Commonwealth to take part on December 8 in the observance of the 400th anniversary of the printing of the English Bible.

"The rapid advancement of civilization since the time of the printing of the first Bible, most notably the founding and establishment of the New World, brought with it the principles of free government and liberty inspired chiefly by the precepts contained in the Old and New Testaments.

"Today, as on numerous occasions in the past, people in all parts of the world have risen up in arms against each other, taking human lives and causing bloodshed and untold misery. This can be traced directly to the failure of these people to adhere and follow the teachings of Christ.

"It is my most earnest hope that the actions of mankind in the future will be motivated by the inspired teachings of the greatest of all written lessons in human behavior and conscience, the result of which will be a world of greater happiness, freedom, and blessedness."

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

NEWS
Salem, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Judge Says He Will Defy Ban On Shooting in Nantucket Isle

Judge George M. Poland of Wakefield, Urges Sportsmen to Ignore Order of the Governor to Stop Hunting

"CALLING BLUFF"

Nothing in Statutes Authorizing Governor to Close the Season Except in Cases of Drought, Declares Jurist

Nantucket, Dec. 6—Defying the authority of Gov. Curley to close the deer hunting season on Nantucket, as was done last Tuesday, Judge George M. Poland of Wakefield announced here last night that he would go out today and attempt to shoot a deer.

At the same time, Judge Poland, a probate court judge who presides here intermittently, urged local sportsmen to ignore the ban and offered to defend free any man arrested. It was indicated the Sportsmen's club might follow his lead and begin firing again.

Declaring that he was "calling the bluff of Gov. Curley and Raymond J. Kenney, state director of fish and game," Judge Poland issued the following statement:

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, except in cases of extreme drought. There is no drought. There is snow on the ground."

Judge Poland said further that he had made several attempts during the day to communicate with Kenney to inform him of his intention of shooting a deer today, but was unsuccessful.

Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon of Nantucket said he had no alternative except to enforce the law.

"Anyone hunting deer during a closed season may expect to face the court if caught," he said.

As a result of Judge Poland's defiance of the governor, members of the Sportsmen's club here were considering joining him in ignoring the ban on hunting. Leaders of this group have sent several

Wires to Gov. Curley
since the Tuesday edict, but have not received a satisfactory reply, they said.

Hunting enthusiasts here were outspoken in their condemnation of the ban. They charged that the governor was catering for political purposes to the local board of selectmen, who requested that hunting be stopped.

Gov. Curley acted after the death of George Sylvia, a guide, who was shot by an unidentified hunter in the woods here, and after the wounding of William Medeiros, a hunter.

Judge Poland, a Harvard graduate, is 59 and has long been known as a sports enthusiast. In 1931 he and his son, Warren, were missing four days, off the Massachusetts coast, in a 34-foot schooner after they started from Boston for Nantucket, where the judge was scheduled to sit in probate court.

After a search by 26 coast guard vessels and several planes their craft was sighted off the shore of Chatham and towed to port.

WILL GO TO COURT

Informed of Judge George M. Poland's announced intention of shooting a deer on Nantucket island, despite the official ban on hunting there, Raymond J. Kenney, state director of fish and game, said last night at his Belmont home:

"If he does, we will proceed in the usual manner. He will be booked and summoned into court like anybody else.

"There is not the least question in my mind that there is ample authority for my order forbidding further hunting on the island. And I know nothing of any provision that would limit such a decree to a period of extreme drouth.

"It would be a silly situation indeed if the fish and game commission were charged with the preservation and conservation of wild life, and then left without the power to take steps necessary for this purpose.

"I issued this order after a consultation with the governor. Inhabitants of the island had called his attention to the situation there, and asked him to do something about it. This is the answer.

"The prime reason for the order is the fact that we consider hunting by a large number of men in such a small area

Extremely Dangerous
as proved by the two accidents that have already occurred this week. The order is therefore for the public safety. The fact that the 50 off-island hunters, who were on Nantucket Tuesday, have returned to the mainland does not alter the situation to any great extent.

"There is also every reason to believe that on an island like Nantucket too many deer are killed. Last February, for example, 65 were slaughtered in a single day. Just because Nantucket is an island, the hunters can literally surround their quarry and turn the place into a shambles. Unlike the mainland, the island affords the animals no chance to escape.

"I am firmly convinced that the fish and game commission has ample authority to forbid hunting in a given area in an emergency of this kind even when the legislature has declared an open season. If Judge Poland wants a court test of this, he'll get it if he violates the order. Nantucket is small enough to give us a chance to 'arrest' every violator of the order."

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

JOURNAL
Somerville, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

CHRISTMAS BASKET FUND DANCE.

The fourth annual dance of the Ward 1 Christmas Basket Community committee will be held on Tuesday evening, December 17, in the High School Gymnasium. O'Leary's Irish Minstrels will furnish the music, and an all-star cast featuring Adrian O'Brien, the Old Homestead quartette, Tom Quinn, and the mystery singer, the girl with the golden voice, will be among the entertainers.

Governor James M. Curley, Congressman Arthur D. Healey, Senator James C. Scanlan, and many other public officials have been invited. An invitation has been sent to Dannd O'Mahoney, to make a personal appearance.

Names for baskets will be secured from the pastors of the different churches. This great work has been endorsed by the clergy of the ward. Rev. Stephen C. Lang, pastor of the Franklin Street Congregational Church, wrote Alderman Grattan of the Ward 1 Community committee as follows:—
"My dear Mr. Grattan: I was much pleased to learn today that you are preparing for a Christmas Basket Fund for this year. It is only necessary to live near the people to find how much they are in constant need; knowing this, I not alone approve your idea of relief, but pray you may be successful in raising the fund you will need for it."

This is one of many letters received, approving the work of this committee. A barrel of turkeys will be given away to the lucky ticket holders, and a 1935 model radio will be given as a door prize.

There will be a meeting next Sunday at 2.30, at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Mortali, 19 Lincoln avenue. Those in charge are: Chairman, Dr. Francis J. Fitzpatrick; vice-chairman, John M. Grattan; secretary, Miss Agnes Jennings; treasurer, Mrs. Dorothy Mortali, and Representative Eugene Groux.

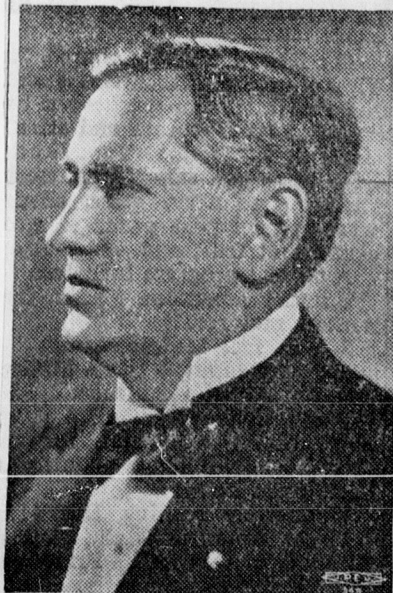

HERALD
Scituate, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Rockland Favorite Place For Political Announcements

The Late President Coolidge, William S. Youngman and James M. Curley Started Campaigns Here

When Governor James M. Curley startled the entire country Tuesday night by his announcement at the S. A. T. A. S. Anniversary, that he is to be a candidate for the United States Senate, the question was asked why did he pick out Rockland as the place to make the initial announcement. As a matter of fact, and probably Governor Curley does not know it, he was following a precedent which was started in Rockland many years ago.

GOV. JAMES M. CURLEY

Rockland has been selected by three candidates as the place where they announced to the awaiting world that they were to be candidates for important offices.

The other two were the late President Calvin Coolidge, who announced his candidacy for Lieut. Governor and the other was the late William S. Youngman who announced his candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination.

The late Calvin Coolidge was at that time President of the Massachusetts Senate. He came to Rockland by invitation of the then Senator Charles S. Beal, to attend a get-together gathering of Republicans held under the direction of Warren Wright, at that time chairman of the Republican town committee. A dinner was served at Hotel Thomas and it was during that dinner that Calvin Coolidge made his announcement that he would be a candidate for lieutenant governor. We all know what followed. He won the nomination at the fall primaries and later became Governor and afterwards President of the United States. The group who attended the dinner at Hotel Thomas well remember the Northampton statesman as he rose to make his announcement for the office which afterward led to the highest honor in the nation.

The late William S. Youngman, who was Lieutenant-Governor at the time, came to Rockland to address the Rockland Woman's Club. While there had been talk that he might be a candidate for governor, no announcement was made until that time.

Governor James M. Curley was the third candidate to announce in Rockland his candidacy for U. S. Senator. The announcement crashed the headlines of the first page in the morning newspapers Wednesday morning.

Rockland enjoys the distinction paid to it by the candidates for high offices.

EVENING UNION
Springfield, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

JUDGE DEFIES GOV. CURLEY IN HUNTING "WAR"

Game Director Ready to Arrest Jurist Who Vows He Will Call Bluff.

NANTUCKET, Dec. 6 (AP)—Despite a ban placed on deer hunting on this island and while the State Director of Fisheries and Game was announcing arrest would follow violation of the law, Judge George M. Poland, his household said, went "gunnin' for deer" today.

(Special to The Springfield Union)

BOSTON, Dec. 6—Nantucket Island's deer hunting war has involved the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in a quandary. Tuesday night, because of a fatal accident and serious injury to another hunter, Gov. Curley called off deer hunting on Massachusetts' southern wind-swept outpost.

Judge George M. Poland of Wakefield, who sits occasionally in Nantucket on court cases, took it upon himself to defy the Governor and asserted that he would go deer hunting, regardless of the executive decree.

"I'll call the bluff," Judge Poland declared.

Gov. Curley, when he heard of this judicial defiance, announced that he would go into solemn conclave with Atty. Gen. Paul A. Dever to see what can be done about the situation. Meanwhile Director Raymond J. Kenney of the Division of Fish and Game, who fears neither man nor beast, declared that he would arrest Judge Poland in the event that the law were violated.

The Wakefield jurist contends that the Governor has no power in closing the woods except in the case of drouth, which does not exist. Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon of Nantucket is the visible evidence of the law and is empowered by Director Kenney to make an arrest if any deer hunters are found in action.

Meanwhile it is said that several khaki clad figures are to be seen roaming the wind-swept dunes of Nantucket, but whether they are deer hunting or just observing nature has not been disclosed.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

NEWS
Springfield, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

AUTHORITY OF GOVERNOR ON DEER HUNTING IS QUESTION

Judge Poland Will Go to Nantucket Despite Edict of Curley

The authority of Gov James M. Curley to close the deer season on Nantucket island was questioned today when Probate Judge George M. Poland of Wakefield started out after deer in the forbidden territory despite the governor's edict. Gov Curley issued a proclamation closing the deer season on Nantucket island, following the death of a guide, shot by an unidentified hunter, and the wounding of another hunter.

In announcing that he was going to shoot a deer today on Nantucket island if he could find one, Judge Poland, 59-year-old Harvard graduate, urged other sportsmen to ignore the governor's proclamation and offered to defend, gratis, any man arrested.

"I'll call the bluff of Gov Curley and Raymond J. Kenney, state director of fish and game," the judge exclaimed. "Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, except in cases of extreme drouth. There is no drouth. There is snow on the ground."

Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon is ready for the shooting justice.

"Anyone hunting deer during a closed season may expect to face the court if caught," he warned.

Notified of the judge's announcement, Gov Curley observed:

"Well, that's interesting. Of course, I won't make any comment on it right now. I'd rather wait until something definite along those lines has occurred. Then I'll map my course."

A return of the cold weather following yesterday's moderate temperatures slackened the hunting pace in the Western Massachusetts area today and fewer deer were reported than on previous days of the season. Kills were reported today by Edward Eggleston of Elm terrace, Westfield, who landed a 150-pound doe, and Orel E. Manley of Huntington, who bagged a 225-pound buck on his own farm.

Gets Nine Point Buck

A report of a kill with a .410 gauge shotgun was made today by Joseph Dragetti of Agawam, who felled a 250-pound nine point buck in Middlefield earlier in the week at a range of 175 feet. Dragetti says that hunters who have heard of his feat have expressed amazement that a deer could be killed with a gun of that calibre.

Reports of recent kills by hunters in this vicinity include the following: Morgan D. O'Connell, well known local sportsman, landed a 175-pound doe in Wilbraham after failing to get within range of a large buck that he had been trailing for several days; John Sullivan, superintendent of repairs at the Auto Sales company, 150-pound buck in Becket; George L. Todd, 39 Wilder terrace, West Springfield, 125-pound doe in Becket; Arthur Mayo of Springfield, 150-pound doe in Colrain; William Hooker, 98 Sunapee street, Springfield, 125-pound doe in Monson; Harold Gordon and Rudolph Delasco of Springfield, a deer each in Blandford; Harold Nash Jr., Amherst, 110-pound buck in Leverett; Earl C. Palmer, Chester, 125-pound doe near the Chester CCC camp; Rutherford White, Ludlow center, seven point buck in Greenwich; Charles Linton, Monson, 200-pound buck in that town; Newell Hall, West Springfield, four point buck in Belchertown.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

EVENING UNION
Springfield, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

MASS. ADVICE IS REQUESTED ON HAUPTMANN

New Jersey Officials Want to Know if Condemned Prisoner Makes Own Plea.

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—A request received by Gov. Curley from New Jersey authorities concerning the practice here in applications for commutation of sentence of a convicted murderer was construed in official circles this afternoon as having a bearing on the Hauptmann case in which Gov. Hoffman of New Jersey has taken a personal interest.

The question was whether a convicted murderer in Massachusetts is allowed to plead personally in behalf of commutation of sentence. The defendant in this State is not allowed to make a personal appearance and the New Jersey authorities were so informed. In Massachusetts, commutations are acted upon by the Governor and the Executive Council.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

UNION
Springfield, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

the Duce is not ready to risk that.

Curley's Ambition

From the Boston Transcript

All in all, there is no occasion for Republicans to be alarmed by Mr. Curley's decision to seek higher honors. He is not so strong as he was in 1934. Neither is the man whose name he invoked so often in that contest and on whose shoulders he really rode into office. Mr. Curley can be beaten. If the election were to be held tomorrow, we are confident he would be beaten.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

NEWS
Springfield, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

GEORGE LA BRECHE AMONG APPOINTEES FOR WEST POINT

George J. La Breche, 20, a private in Co D., 104th infantry, Massachusetts National guard, is one of the three governor's appointees to West Point as a result of placing among the first three in examinations in Boston last month. He competed with 49 other candidates from other Massachusetts units and next April will take exams in competition with winners in the other 48 states.

He is the son of Mr and Mrs Oliver H. La Breche of 6 St James circle. He has lived in this city all his life and graduated from High School of Commerce, class of 31½. Since that time he had been employed in the office of Graves & Brown, inc., until August of last year, when he started post-graduate courses at Technical and Classical high schools. He joined the national guard, last April and in the national guard, last April and in the examinations taken November 6 to 9 this year was commended for his high standing in mathematics.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

EVENING UNION
Springfield, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

BUSINESS HERE WILL TAKE PART IN TAX PROTEST

Chamber Official Expected to Represent City in State Meeting to Act on Commission Report.

Taxation of industry is agitating organizations in this State to the point of concerted action and Maj. Frederick J. Hillman, executive vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce here, will probably be sent to Boston next Thursday to represent the local business sentiment at a meeting called by the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce to include all those organizations known to be actively interested in State and municipal tax problems. The meeting is scheduled for 1 p. m. at the Boston City Club.

"The report of the special recess commission on taxation seems to have precipitated a crisis in the tax situation in Massachusetts," reads a communication from the State Chamber of Commerce sounding the call for the meeting, "which demands immediate and concerted action. All organized groups interested in tax control should join forces and present a common front in opposition to further excesses in raising and distributing public funds."

Speakers announced for the Boston meeting include Senator William A. Davenport of Greenfield, chairman of the commission, whose report is referred to, who will present for the consideration of those present the reasons for the commission's findings on the tax problem of the Commonwealth. Rep. Albert F. Bigelow of Brookline, House chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means of the Massachusetts Legislature; Rodney W. Long of Cambridge, president of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, and Philip Nichols of Boston, chairman of the committee on taxation of the State Chamber of Commerce, will be others to speak.

Maj. Hillman's presence at the Boston gathering will depend to some extent on action taken at a noon meeting of the Manufacturers' Division executive committee of the local Chamber of Commerce next Wednesday. This meeting has been called specifically to consider recent developments in the field of industrial taxation and precedes the Boston meeting by only 24 hours. The meeting is also scheduled to listen to a presentation of the "Made in America Club, Inc." by its general counsel, John I. Robinson of this city.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

REPUBLICAN
Springfield, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

WASHBURN JAZZES SENATE SITUATION BY THREAT TO RUN

Curley Said to Have Announced Candidacy in Order to Beat Coolidge at 'Harmony' Dinner

From Our Special Reporter.

Boston, Dec. 5—Robert M. Washburn, president of the Roosevelt club, (T. R.) threatened today to enter the United States senatorial fight again next year, as he did last year, and as a result, the situation was enlivened a bit. The tilt that ensued diverted attention from the main question, namely, whether Curley is actually a candidate, or whether Senator Marcus A. Coolidge of Fitchburg will fight it out with him in the primaries.

"Now that the senatorial machinery has completely shifted, I may yield to the popular wave which seems to be overwhelming everyone and get into the melee myself," said Washburn.

Governor 'Gratified'

"No announcement from any citizen of the commonwealth could be more gratifying to me than this," the governor commented in Washburn's threat. "He is always entertaining, and I am quite sure that his candidacy will prove the most valuable contribution to what otherwise promises to be a very orderly and quiet campaign."

Whereupon, Washburn retorted: "Jim is on the diminuendo. I have no inclination to drag out cannon to kill woodchuck."

Former-Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell expressed doubt today that Curley would run for senator, and reaffirmed his own candidacy for the office. The atmosphere was not clear at Fitchburg last night when Senator Coolidge had a chance to announce and kept quiet, but there is general acceptance that he will run, just as there is that State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley is in the gubernatorial fight on the Democratic side, although he has not made formal announcement.

Obviously, Curley means what he says when he proclaims he is in the senatorial fight. Lieut-Gov Joseph L. Hurley has maintained throughout the year he would be in this fight, and the fact that he has announced for governor precludes Curley returning to the gubernatorial contest.

Although Senator Coolidge didn't announce himself formally, his dinner at Fitchburg accomplished one desire, namely, to smoke Curley out into the open earlier than the governor intended to take a stand. It is learned that Curley originally intended to accept Coolidge's invitation to the Fitchburg dinner and then, when Senator

Coolidge, presiding, introduced him, he was going to announce his senatorial ambitions. However, some of his advisers were against this so he was forced, in order to get himself before the people first—fearing Coolidge would announce at the dinner last night—to announce his candidacy to a small meeting at Rockland, unheralded and with no newspapermen in attendance to give him the "play."

Harmony Dinner a Dud

Curley has never made a "big play" of this kind without giving the newspapermen a tip in advance, or being sure they were present. The fact that he made the announcement at the Rockland meeting shows that the quick change in his plans necessitated he take the last remaining chance to beat Coolidge into the field.

The Fitchburg dinner was intended to be a "harmony" affair and it was—to such an extent that it was the biggest "dud" of a meeting political circles have witnessed in years. Publicity galore was given it, and there is no doubt but that State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley was ready to tear things to pieces in respect to federal job-giving, until Joseph P. Carney's major domo, George D. Morse, an official of the Worcester County Democratic league, put his foot down and said Buckley couldn't talk at all. Buckley did talk, as his friends insisted, but he was told to confine himself, and did.

The job-giving down at the federal offices took a jolt today when several hundred were laid off. It was also found that instead of thousands, only 1400 have been put to work thus far on sidewalks jobs, and that the big drawback is that there are not enough picks, shovels, and other tools to keep even this small number employed.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

NEWS
Springfield, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

CASEY INVITED TO PLAY WITH ALL-STARS

Boston, Dec. 6—Warren Casey, ex-Harvard center, today was invited to join the Eastern Collegiate All-Stars for the indoor football contest next Wednesday at Boston garden against an All-Notre Dame eleven. Leo Curley, son of Governor James M. Curley and Georgetown university tackle this season, was expected to reply today.

NEWS
Springfield, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

GOVERNORS ATTEND BOSTON HORSE SHOW

Boston, Dec. 6—Governors Louis J. Brann and James M. Curley today had headed a long list of notables attending the gala opening of the four-day horse show of the 110th cavalry horse show at Commonwealth armory.

A feature event was the "gay nineties" in which almost every known vehicle of that period competed with their occupants clad in costumes.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

UNION
Springfield, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

State House Briefs

By DONAL F. MacPHEE

Welfare Refunds

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—City Auditor Albert E. Neale of Springfield visited the State Department of Public Welfare today in regard to the money due the city this year as refunds for public welfare expenditures. He received assurances that Springfield's interests would be given every consideration. The city will probably receive between $255,000 and $300,000 before the end of the year from the State, which will keep Springfield from running into a deficit on its financing for the 1935 fiscal year.

Take Oath of Office

Gov. James M. Curley today administered the oaths of office to Thomas H. Green as Civil Service Commissioner and Rep. Earnest J. Dean as Commissioner of Conservation. Charles F. Connors, reappointed as chairman of the State Racing Commission, also took his oath of office for a second term.

Asks Utility Probe

Predicting that the people of the Commonwealth will be shocked by a thorough investigation, Frank H. Sullivan of Waban, who conducted the last rate case for a group of consumers, against the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, today petitioned the Legislature for the appointment of a special legislative committee to investigate the activities of the State Public Utilities Commission and the "acts and doings of the Massachusetts electric and gas associations."

Dr. Cahill Appointed

Dr. Francis M. Cahill, secretary of the Massachusetts Board of Dental Examiners, is appointed a member of the Committee on Foreign Colleges by President J. B. Carr of the National Association of Dental Examiners.

Would Change Name

A change in the name of the State Infirmary at Tewksbury to the State General Hospital is recommended to the Legislature in the recommendations of Richard K. Conant for the 1936 Legislature. It was Mr. Conant's last official act as Commissioner of Public Welfare.

Would Cut Age Limit

Commissioner of Correction Arthur T. Lyman recommends to the incoming Legislature a bill to reduce the minimum age requirements for appointments as correction officers in State penal institutions from 25 to 22 years. He also advocates a law authorizing the Commissioner of Correction to retire employees under him on a pension at the age of 65 provided they have served 20 years.

Would Reduce Interest

Rep. Catherine A. Foley of Lawrence today filed a bill to reduce the legal rate of interest on mortgages from a maximum of 6 per cent to 5 per cent. The banks voluntarily reduced the rate to 5½ per cent last January.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

EVENING UNION
Springfield, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Award Is Approved by Governor and Council

BOSTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Garnet McKee of Waltham was awarded $4100 of a $15,000 claim for damages, the result she said of an automobile accident in which Adj. Gen. William I. Rose's car figured.

The award, approved by the Governor and Executive Council last week, became known today. The accident occurred in Boston in April.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

ITEM

Wakefield, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

salaries, ranging from $5.75 to $7, commodities.

Judge Poland to Make Test Case Of Hunting Edict

Boston newspapers gave prominent publicity this morning to the story that Judge George M. Poland of the Nantucket probate court, formerly of Lakeside, Wakefield, and long prominent here, including service in the General Court as representative, 25 years ago, would defy the authority of Gov. Curley in closing Nantucket Island to deer hunting.

From Nantucket it was announced last night that Judge Poland had declared that he would go out today and try to shoot a deer and make a test case of the Governor's edict.

Judge Poland was reported as advising the Nantucket Sportsmen's Club that he would defend, free, any hunter who wanted to assist in determining the right of the Governor to close the Nantucket woods, which

PRESS CLIPPING SERVICE
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TIMES
Whitman, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

lars.

BIBLE SUNDAY
ENDORSED BY GOVERNOR CURLEY

Boston, December 6: Governor James M. Curley urges the churches of Massachusetts to observe Universal Bible Sunday on next Sunday, December 8.

The nation-wide commemoration of the four hundredth anniversary of the printed English Bible will conclude next Sunday in thousands of churches, according to a statement issued by the American Bible Society, under whose direction Universal Bible Sunday is promoted and through whose missionary activities the Bible is distributed annually in more than forty countries and in over 150 languages.

was done this week because one hunter was killed and another wounded.

Judge Poland is said to take the position that there is nothing in the statutes giving the state officials authority to ban hunting, except in times of drought to protect the forests from fire.

Director Kenney of the division of fisheries and game takes issue with Judge Poland, according to statements made to the press, and supports Gov. Curley in his stand that he has a right to cancel hunting privileges for any reasons considered sufficient. Mr. Kenney also declares that the island is not safe for hunters because of the comparatively small area, few wooded sections, and the fact that 65 deer were slaughtered in one day, last year.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

STAR
Winchester, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

MR. PARKHURST'S OPINION

On page 9 of a recent report to Governor Curley, made at his request by former Senator Lewis Parkhurst of Winchester, we read:

"In addition to the habitual criminals whom we have always had with us, within the last five or 10 years there has been developed a class of comparatively young men, from 18 to 25 years of age, who have adopted the profession of robbing and kidnapping—gunmen, they are called. They are being sent to our prisons in great numbers, often with very long sentences, and are the most desperate and dangerous men, as a class, now to be cared for in our prisons, and in planning for the future, they must be classed with the old-time habitual criminals.

"The fact is, at the present time we have no place in the State where the worst criminals in the State (perhaps 500 to 600 altogether) could be placed and be subjected to the discipline and lack of privileges which they deserve.

"So, I should say that the most important work to be done is to plan for a more complete and thorough segregation of our criminals into different classes than is possible with our present equipment, with especial reference to the bad actors."

And again, on page 9 of the Supplementary Report made concerning the same subject, we read:

"In the last few years we have been overwhelmed with crimes of great enormity—kidnaping innocent children and demanding ransom from distracted parents, robberies of all kinds, such as banks, filling stations, pay-rolls, hand-bag snatching; killing officers in the performance of their duty, often-times in uniform; 'taking for a ride' and 'bumping off' any one likely to give testimony against the perpetrators of these crimes. If they met with any opposition, they did not hesitate to kill whoever stood in their way. Such men demand the severest punishment."

"I should recommend that we build for these men some such prison as has been constructed by the Federal Government in the harbor off San Francisco, on the Island of Alcatraz, which they designate as the future home for public enemies.

"If it were possible to find an island off our coast, suitable for this purpose, that is where I should suggest putting it. Psychologically, I think it would be much better to send this class of men to some such place, the very name of which would brand them as desperate characters, rather than send them to Concord, which has come to be known as a reformatory, and which is located in a place with such an historical setting."

Sentinel
Waterville, Me.

DEC 6 1935

Robert Washburn Puts His Name In Political Race

BOSTON, Dec. 5—(P)—What Robert M. Washburn, perennial bull-moose Republican, described as a "melee"—Massachusetts's senatorial race—was enlivened tonight by his announcement he might "yield to that popular wave what seems to be overwhelming everyone" and get in himself.

Washburn, 67, shaggy-haired and busy-eyebrowed political commentator, whose wit and satire have featured the state's politics for years, made his declaration on the heels of the announcement of Governor James M. Curley that he would seek the Democratic nomination for the senate seat next year.

Curley, leader of Massachusetts democracy, acknowledged Washburn's announcement with the comment: "I am quite sure his candidacy will prove the most valuable contribution in what otherwise promises to be a very orderly and quiet campaign."

Sentinel
Waterville, Me.

DEC 6 1935

Still Bad (Boston Globe)

Rioting, murder and sudden death have become routine news items from Charlestown Prison. The observant citizens outside the walls has long been forced to the conclusion that the grim institution does not perform its primary purpose, which is removing convicted criminals from society and preventing them from doing harm.

Charlestown has become one of the perennial public problems. Why this is so is not difficult to learn, as for more than half a century individuals well acquainted with the conditions and groups selected to investigate have repeatedly reached the conclusion that the State Prison erected in 1805 is utterly out of date. It was in 1880 that this opinion was held so strongly that for the six years thereafter the prison was used for storage and not for the incarceration of men. But there was overcrowding elsewhere and Charlestown was returned to its original function.

In 1921 a distinguished commission under Edwin S. Webster recommended that it be abandoned. Somewhat later, Mr. Cameron Forbes condemned it. And last February the Governor of the Commonwealth was informed that every Commissioner of Correction for the last 15 years had urged that it be abolished.

There is room for much discussion of the general subject of penology in Massachusetts, but the agreement is general that Charlestown is bad as a prison from any and every point of view.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TIMES
Woburn, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED FOR BANQUET

Invitations to Governor James M. Curley, Senator David I. Walsh and other prominent Democrats have been extended by the committee in charge of the banquet which will be tendered to Mayor Edward W. Kenney in the State Armory on January 21st. The committee has been organized and will be enlarged during the next week. Ralph F. Moreland is general chairman and President Thomas J. Power of the City Council will be toastmaster. Other committee chairmen include Edward P. Gilgun, presentation; Charles P. Murphy, tickets; John F. Dolan, hall and arrangements; William H. Flaherty, entertainment and music; Assistant District Attorney Frederick V. McMenimem, invited guest; Michael T. Golden, reception, and Joseph T. Kelleher, check room.

TIMES
Woburn, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Curley was committed in 1932.

DEFY GOVERNOR'S EDICT ON HUNTING ON THE CAPE

NANTUCKET, Mass., Dec. 6, (INS)—Bent on "Calling Curley's Bluff," a small band of sportsmen, Judge George M. Poland among them, went into the woods today to resume deer hunting on this island, thirty miles off the mainland, in defiance to the Tuesday edict of Governor James M. Curley in declaring the season closed after the killing of one hunter and the wounding of another. Judge Poland, resident of Wakefield and summer visitor here, said there was nothing in the law authorizing the Governor to close the hunting season except extreme drought. It was up to Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon to make an arrest.

PRESS CLIPPING SERVICE
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

REPUBLICAN
Waterbury, Conn.

DEC 6 1935

SENATORIAL RACE GROWS MORE LIVELY

Washburn Thinking Of Entering Massa- chusetts Primaries

Boston, Dec. 5—(AP)—What Robert M. Washburn, perennial Bull Moose Republican, described as a "melee"—Massachusetts' senatorial race—was enlivened tonight by his announcement he might "yield to that popular wave that seems to be overwhelming everyone" and get in himself.

Washburn, 67, shaggy-haired and bushy-eyebrowed political commentator, whose wit and satire have featured the state's politics for years, made his declaration on the heels of the announcement of Gov. James M. Curley that he would seek the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate seat next year.

Curley, leader of Massachusetts Democracy, acknowledged Washburn's announcement with the comment: "I am quite sure his candidacy will prove the most valuable contribution in what otherwise promises to be a very orderly and quiet campaign."

This was purely the governor's personal view.

The announcement of Washburn, beaten by 300,000 votes for the same office last year by Sen. David I. Walsh (D) after his own party leaders had jettisoned his candidacy, brought to four the number of men either avowed seekers of the Republican nomination or who have indicated they have their eye on it.

The others include Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., grandson of the United States senator celebrated for his fight against American membership in the League of Nations, and Sinclair Weeks, mayor of suburban Newtown and son of a United States senator, the late John W. Weeks. Another is James F. Cavanagh, Boston lawyer and former state senator.

Until Gov. Curley announced his candidacy yesterday, all who may have sought the Democratic nomination withheld their plans, except Joseph F. O'Connell, former United States representative. He has said he might run for the nomination, and commenting on Curley's candidacy, expressed the belief the governor might possibly change his mind and seek reelection.

Meanwhile, the man whose seat all six men seek, Marcus A. Coolidge (D), 70-year-old retired Fitchburg manufacturer, has not indicated his plans.

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

Democrat
Waterbury, Ct.
DEC 6 1935

"We naturally hope the conference will be successful," David said.

JUDGE WILL DEFY ORDERS ON DEER

Nantucket, Mass., Dec. 6—(UP)—Probate Judge George M. Poland is going to shoot a deer today—if he can find one—and he defies Governor James Curley and all his men to try and stop him. What's more, Judge Poland, 59 year old Harvard graduate, urges all other sportsmen to ignore the governor's proclamation closing the deer hunting season on Nantucket Island. He offers to defend, gratis, any man arrested. Governor Curley issued his proclamation following the death of a guide, shot by an unidentified hunter, and the wounding of another hunter.

"I'll call the bluff of Governor Curley and Raymond J. Kenney, state director of fish and game," the judge, who lives in Wakefield, exclaimed. "Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, except in cases of extreme drought. There is no drought. There is snow on the ground."

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

American
Waterbury, Ct.

DEC 6 1935

Date

of Hitler and Mussolini in this country.

GOV. CURLEY LOOKS TO THE SENATE

To Marcus A. Coolidge, Democratic junior senator of the United States for Massachusetts, as far as his own position as a prospective candidate for reelection is concerned, the political outlook for 1936 must appear somewhat murky these days. Gov. James M. Curley has thrown his hat into the ring. In an after-dinner speech before a society for the promotion of total abstinence, in Rockland, Mass., Tuesday evening, the governor announced that he meant to oppose the renomination of Sen. Coolidge in the Democratic party primary elections next year.

No Massachusetts Democrat needs to be told, as if it were news, that the Hon. James Michael is a formidable campaigner. If his record as a candidate for the mayoralty of Boston, on three separate occasions, had left any doubt of that in anyone's mind, he proved it conclusively last year by putting the Walsh-Ely faction of his party to rout in a gubernatorial primary election and subsequently defeating the Republican candidate, Gaspar C. Bacon, in the final showdown. Next year, as a contestant in the Democratic senatorial primary election, circumstances may give him a special added advantage.

Many loyal Democrats, although opposed to his party leadership, will nevertheless vote for him, not with any particular enthusiasm about his qualifications for a seat in the Senate but with the object of hastening his retirement from the governorship. The only factor that might deter them would be the nomination of Gov. Curley's own candidate to succeed him in his present office.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

REVIEW
Winthrop, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Elks Line-A-Day

Congratulations to our Past Exalted Ruler Charles W. and Mrs. Howard on the observance of their golden wedding anniversary held at the home of their son, Webster, also a brother Elk.

Charlie, as we love to call him, was our "War Exalted Ruler," serving at the time most of the boys were enlisting in the World War. He had several losses in that year, among the boys who enlisted and the result of the flu.

It was my pleasure to be one of his officers for a short time, and found him to be a wonderful Elk.

May his years be extended and his happiness continued, a wish we all hope will be his. He always gives his best for the welfare of Winthrop Lodge.

Our Bingo game during Thanksgiving week was a tribute to the committee in charge. The Tuesday night monster bingo had one of the largest gatherings on record.

As chairman, I want to thank them for enabling the Relief Committee to do such a great work on Thanksgiving Day. We were able to spread cheer among all who applied.

Sunday, December 1, was observed as Memorial Service Day, in every lodge throughout the country. Winthrop Lodge was up to its standard of attendance, and Exalted Ruler Harry Blazo, assisted by the officers, conducted the services. Rep. D. J. Honan was orator.

In my notes of last week, I failed to mention the name of our Esteemed Lecturing Knight Andrew A. Biggio as one of the boys who has battled for 100 per cent in his visits with the District Deputy.

The Four Horsemen are in form for another great drive for a touchdown, and while holding secret practice sessions, I have not been able to get the full details. But, I can assure you it will be a bombshell, for those boys know how to put things over.

Exalted Ruler Harry Blazo, that keen-witted barrister, has scored another hit, in appointing his committee for the New Year's party; and with our Esquire "By" Wasson, as chairman, we can bank on a good time. More about this later.

Harry also appointed a committee to make arrangements for the homecoming of District Deputy Dan Honan on Jan. 19th, and what a reception that is going to be.

The problem, before the committee, is where are we going to put them all. From all indications, we will need a much larger hall.

Among the notables will be none other than His Excellency, Gov. James M. Curley.

Another visit of the District Deputy has been completed, making the sixth on his list. This time it was Attleboro, and the boys had a wonderful time. We were received in great style and the social session was enjoyed by all.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

REVIEW
Winthrop, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Urge Governor To Name Local Doctor

Representative Daniel J. Honan and Senator John F. Donovan headed a delegation of 25 Members of the Legislature on last Tuesday and conferred with Edmund J. Hoy, Gov. Curley's secretary, and urged the appointment of Dr. Henry C. Kennington, 152 Bartlett road, Winthrop, Mass., as Director of the Division of Fisheries and Game, to succeed Raymond J. Kenney, whose term has expired.

Dr. Kennington is regarded as an authority on the sport of hunting and fisheries and is well known as a lecturer on this subject.

Over 1000 splendid endorsements have poured in to the governor's office endorsing him for the position.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TELEGRAM

Worcester, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

mouth game during the past two football seasons.

FARNSWORTH STAR IS BOSTON WINNER

Sprig Leaf Triumphs in Model Hunter Class

Special to the Telegram

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—Sprig Leaf, chestnut gelding owned by Mr. and Mrs. Calvin B. Farnsworth of Sterling Junction defeated Erin's Son, owned by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kennedy of Brookline to capture first place in the Model Hunter Class shown at hand and judged standing, one of the feature divisions of the first evening's program of the eighth annual 110th Cavalry horse show tonight at the Commonwealth Armory.

Tonight was Governor's Night and Gov. James M. Curley of Massachusetts and Gov. Louis J. Brann of Maine made addresses to the huge throng which crowded the armory.

Brian O'Lynn, another standout of the Farnsworth stable was in third place in the Green Hunter, heavyweight division. This class featuring a competition among a colorful group of entries was won by Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy's Bachelor Flower.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

GAZETTE

Worcester, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

FARNSWORTH HORSE HUB SHOW WINNER

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. Calvin B. Farnsworth's chestnut gelding, Sprig Leaf, defeated Erin's Son, owned by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kennedy, and won first place in the Model Hunter Class shown at hand and judged standing in one of the features of the first night's program of the eighth annual 110th Cavalry Horse Show last night at the Commonwealth Armory.

Gov. James M. Curley of Massachusetts and Gov. Louis J. Brann of Maine addressed the crowd.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

POST

Worcester, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Asks Curley to Free Daughter

Aged Mother Makes Appeal to Governor

SALEM, Dec. 6 (P)—A 70-year-old mother today sought the freedom of a daughter who stole $20,000 to aid the man she loved.

Mrs. Ada Vickery, said she would appeal to Gov. James M. Curley today to free her daughter, Mrs. Pauline Crabtre from jail.

Mrs. Crabtre, 37-year-old former assistant treasurer of the Lynn Co-operative Bank, pleaded guilty last February to stealing $20,000 from the institution.

The money, she testified, was given to George W. Bishop, who is serving a long term for his part in the theft. Bishop's feeling toward her changed, Mrs. Crabtre testified, after she gave him the money and he abused her.

County officials told Mrs. Vickery her daughter would not be eligible for parole until she had served a year of her 18 month sentence.

The mother said Mrs. Crabtre's father was seriously ill and that she would ask Gov. Curley for a pardon.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

GAZETTE

Worcester, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

FARNSWORTH HORSE HUB SHOW WINNER

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. Calvin B. Farnsworth's chestnut gelding, Sprig Leaf, defeated Erin's Son, owned by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kennedy, and won first place in the Model Hunter Class shown at hand and judged standing in one of the features of the first night's program of the eighth annual 110th Cavalry Horse Show last night at the Commonwealth Armory.

Gov. James M. Curley of Massachusetts and Gov. Louis J. Bran of Maine addressed the crowd.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TELEGRAM

Worcester, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

REP. DEAN WILL KEEP TWO JOBS

Curley's Conservation
Head Won't Resign
From House

TAKES YORK POST

Fifth State Legislator to Hold Elective and Appointive Berths

By Telegram State House Reporter

BOSTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Rep. Ernest J. Dean of Chilmark, Republican and staunch supporter of the Curley thirteen million dollar "work and wages" bond issue in the last Legislature will not resign as a member of the Legislature, although he today began his duties as commissioner of conservations at an annual salary of six thousand dollars.

Dean announced his decision today after he had been sworn into office by Governor Curley, succeeding Samuel A. York in whose behalf a retention campaign had been waged.

The Chilmark man said he would draw his salary as commissioner of conservation, but would not take his salary of two thousand dollars as a member of the Legislature.

As Dean took over dual duties mingling the legislative with the administrative, he made the fifth member of the Legislature holding an elective and an appointive post at the same time.

For several months Sen. Joseph C. White of Boston has headed the telephone division of the Department of Public Utilities. Senator William S. Conroy of Fall River serves on the Industrial Accident Board under appointment by Governor Curley.

Recently Sen. Charles T. Cavanagh of Cambridge was appointed a district court clerk in his district by the Governor. Another legislator retaining two posts is Sen. Edgar C. Erickson of Worcester, recently appointed head of the Oakdale Training School by the Worcester County Commissioners.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TELEGRAM

Worcester, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

police, and then fled by an outside door. Nothing was taken.

DEFY CURLEY HUNT BAN

NANTUCKET, Dec. 5 (AP)—In defiance of Governor Curley's edict closing the season on deer in Nantucket before the full week was out, a group of local hunters, including Probate Judge George M. Poland of Wakefield, announced tonight they would hunt deer tomorrow.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TELEGRAM

Worcester, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

MOTHER TO PLEAD FOR JAILED WOMAN

Plans to See Curley in Bid
For Mercy

SALEM, Dec. 5 (AP)—A 70-year-old mother said tonight she would appeal to Governor Curley tomorrow to free from jail a daughter who stole $20,000 from a bank to aid the man she loved.

Mrs. Ada Vickery, the mother, conferred with county officials in behalf of her daughter, Mrs. Pauline Crabtre, 37-year-old former assistant treasurer of the Lynn Cooperative Bank. Mrs. Crabtre pleaded guilty last February to stealing twenty thousand dollars from the bank.

The money, she testified, was given to George W. Bishop, now serving a long term for his part in the defalcation. After she had given him the money, she testified, Bishop's feelings toward her changed and he abused her.

County officials told the mother Mrs. Crabtre would not be eligible for parole until she had served a year of her 18 months sentence. She then decided to ask the Governor tomorrow for a pardon.

Mrs. Crabtre's aged father, George P. Vickery, the mother said, was seriously ill.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

GAZETTE
Worcester, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

AL BANX PUZZLED BY DEMOCRATIC BANQUET

Cartoonist Suddenly Shifts from Pen to Typewriter—Says Orators at Fitchburg Event Praised Everybody Except U. S. Senator Coolidge, Who Was Expected to Be Boomed

By AL BANX
Gazette Cartoonist

I've been around this paper going on 15 years and I've been out on a lot of assignments, putting big noses on guys I thought ought to have 'em, and making Chinese charts so that subscribers could know where the bloody axe was found. But the other night I got an assignment to cover a Democratic dinner in Fitchburg where a United States Senator was expected to be boomed, but where every Democrat in the state was boomed except the guy himself.

It seems the County League are giving a banquet and Sen. Marcus Coolidge has been made the toastmaster. His friends figure to make it a bit of a boom for him. Other candidates for the Senate are popping up here and there, so why not give Marcus a dash of spotlight? is the way they reckon it out.

We are all standing around the lobby waiting for some politician to give us a little inside stuff. By that I mean information. Well, they all get their pictures taken together, shaking hands and what not and all the time they are thinking of the blast they are going to put on the guy when they get up to speak.

Well, then the speaking started, somebody introduced the toastmaster and from the way he did it I figured he must have been afraid there was somebody there who might not like Coolidge.

No Sense Repenting

He said we all knew about the Senator and that there was no sense in going all over his record again, etc. So when Marcus stood up he looked like a guy caught between second and third.

They gave him a pretty good hand for a man who represents maybe a couple of million people; well, in the meantime we newspaper men had taken seats right behind the speakers' table and I had got hold of a dish of celery and olives which all of us were munching while the senator was trying to speak. It got so we didn't know whether the audience was interested in the way Coolidge was speaking or the way we were chewing on the celery.

The Senator reads a few telegrams from Charlie Hurley and the other Hurley and also Jim Curley and every time he reads one of them there was a whoop went up from the audience and the first thing he knew, Coolidge was clapping too. It wasn't what you would call a vigorous clap though and all the time he was kind of glancing around to see where the boys were who supported him last election. Then he called on a big, tall guy by the name of Backus who has a voice like a minor league manager and this Backus, who is a Curley secretary, starts off by telling us that this is just such a place as his good friend Postmaster General Farley would like to be.

Backus Lauds Curley

In fact, he says, "If my pal, Farley, could put his head in that door right this minute, etc.," which will give you an idea. Now everybody who reads the papers knows that Senator Coolidge is about to be given the old run-around by no less than a half a dozen lads who don't want any more from him than his seat in the Senate and there are some at that head table who are there to help them do it, too. Well, anyway, Backus starts to tell us what a great man Governor Curley is and what a privilege it is to have him as governor or maybe a higher office. He don't say anything about Coolidge. Another by the name of Haggerty arises with 18 sheets of statistics in his hands and reads the riot act on the Republicans.

He tells us about the billions and billions the government has spent, is spending and is going to spend, and the funny part of it all is that it will not cost the taxpayers—he says "wage earners" of course—a cent. We're going to get it all back, he says. I bet there were a lot of people in that hall who would have liked to have gotten theirs then. Then Mr. Haggerty started in to boost Joseph P. Carney, and told what a swell fellow he was. And still nothing about Coolidge.

"What a Guy!"

Then State Auditor Buckley got up and covered the State House and everybody in it with moonlight and roses. Curley, what a guy; Hurley, what a guy; the other Hurley—what a guy he was!

We haven't heard about Coolidge yet!

Congressman Joe Casey was introduced and they nearly tore the walls down with the cheers they gave him, it made Coolidge's applause sound like a whisper.

We were expecting that SOMEBODY would say something about the United States Senator but Coolidge didn't seem to be running in the money at all. Even HE wouldn't say anything about himself. I don't know YET why he was there. I'll bet he looked in the paper the next morning to see if he was listed among those present.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

POST
Worcester, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Barley—Dec. 40½, May 43.

Goes "Gunnin' for Deer" Despite Ban

NANTUCKET, Dec. 6 (P)—Despite a ban placed on deer hunting on this island and while the state director of fisheries and game was announcing arrest would follow violation of the law, Judge George M. Poland, his household said, went "gunnin' for deer" today.

Last night Judge Poland declared his intention of hunting deer although the season here had been closed by Gov. James M. Curley because of a fatality.

"Nobody," said the judge, "has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the Governor to close the season, except in cases of extreme drought."

While many of the townspeople gathered in the snow and bitter cold on Main Street this morning, each apparently waiting for the other to make a move in line with the judge's suggestion, the probate justice had gone off alone from his own house.

In answer to a telephone query, a man who described himself as a caretaker said the judge "has gone gunnin' for deer." He said he carried a shotgun and was not expected home until dark.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

TELEGRAM
Worcester, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

WASHBURN AND CURLEY JOUST

Former Gestures Toward Possible Candidacy for U. S. Senate

GOVERNOR 'CHEERED'

'Always Entertaining,' Is Comment on Head of Roosevelt Club

By CLINTON P. ROWE
Telegram State House Reporter

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—The Senatorial situation was livened today with a brief tilt between Governor Curley and Robert M. Washburn, president of the Roosevelt Club (T. R.) of Massachusetts, who gestured toward his own possible candidacy for the Republican nomination.

Brief exchanges of pointed character between the two served to divert attention, for the moment, from the question raised—there are always persistent question raisers in any political situation—as to whether Governor Curley really intends to be a Senatorial candidate and, if he is, whether Senator Marcus A. Coolidge of Fitchburg will go to the mat with him.

"Now that the Senatorial scenery has completely shifted, I may yield to that popular wave which seems to be overwhelming everyone and get into the melee myself," said Mr. Washburn, who was the Republican Senatorial candidate at the last election.

"Always Entertaining"

"No announcement from any citizen of the Commonwealth could be more gratifying to me than his," the Governor said in commenting on the Washburn statement. "He is always entertaining, and I am quite sure that his candidacy will prove the most valuable contribution to what otherwise promises to be a very orderly and quiet campaign."

Whereat Mr. Washburn came back thusly: "Jim is on a diminuendo. I have no inclination to drag out cannon to kill woodchuck."

Ex-Cong. Joseph F. O'Connell has jumped into proceedings to doubt that the Governor will run for Senator and to reaffirm his own candidacy. Senator Coolidge made his position no clearer at last night's meeting of the Worcester County Democratic Club in Fitchburg than it had been before. There is an assumption that he will run, but Mr. Coolidge doesn't say definitely that he will or will not.

Governor Curley seems to be trying to impress on the electorate that he really is a candidate. He has picked up a brand new platform for the Senatorial campaign as distinguished from his work and wages gubernatorial slogan. He is out of Senate on a social security platform, which may be the same thing, but is dressed up differently.

Senator Coolidge, attending a National Emergency Council coordination meeting here today, declined to further comment on his candidacy.

Exchange Greetings

Senator Coolidge and Governor Curley, both speakers at the meeting, exchanged formal greetings on the platform.

Just in case the Governor should hear a call to seek renomination, either he or Lieut. Gov. Joseph L. Hurley would be in a fearful fix. The Lieutenant Governor lost no time in announcing his candidacy after the Governor said the Senatorial announcement would stick.

Obviously, the Curley forces hope to maneuver things so that Mr. Coolidge will withdraw. And, obviously, the Coolidge forces may maintain a non-committal attitude as long as possible to annoy Mr. Curley.

In claiming with considerable emphasis public labor record No. 1, Governor Curley may have been hitting into territory of Rep. Henry Cabot Lodge of Beverly, a candidate for the Republican nomination. Lodge's legislative labor record, plus his efforts along social security lines, are being emphasized in his speeches.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

GAZETTE
Worcester, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

JUSTICE WILL DEFY CURLEY HUNTING BAN

Judge Poland Will Hunt on Nantucket Island Despite Edict

NANTUCKET, Dec. 6 (AP)—A Probate Court Justice announced he would hunt deer today despite Governor James M. Curley's edict closing the season on Nantucket Island.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the Governor to close the season, excepting in cases of extreme drought," Judge George M. Poland told the Associated Press. "And there is no drought here," the justice added. "There is snow on the ground."

A group of islanders oiled their rifles and planned an early rising to join the judge in the hunt.

And another Nantucketer—Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon—did some rifle oiling, but he planned to stalk the hunters not the deer.

Anyon said he had heard Judge Poland and some islanders were planning to defy the Governor, and explained he had no alternative but to enforce the law.

The Massachusetts season on deer opened at sunrise Monday for a week, but Tuesday Governor Curley closed the season on Nantucket Island after one hunter was killed and another wounded.

Visiting hunters left the island and Nantucketers contend the danger of casualties was greatly lessened by their departure. In fact, they said today, since no emergency exists, the deer season is open, despite the Governor's ban.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

GAZETTE
Worcester, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Sacred Cod Takes Issue On Nantucket Deer Ban

NANTUCKET, Dec. 6 (AP)—Despite a ban placed on deer hunting on this island and while the State Director of Fisheries and Game was announcing arrest would follow violation of the law, Judge George M. Poland, his household said, went "gunnin' for deer" today.

By CLINTON P. ROWE
Gazette State House Reporter

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—It may mean war and it may mean secession and perhaps it will be of no consequence to anybody except the deer, but the fact remains that the waves which pounded Nantucket shores today boomed with a martial note. And the wooden codfish which hangs in the House of Representatives, synthetic fish that it is, practically was wiggling a defiant and warlike fin at its wiggling brothers of the shining Nantucket littoral.

The sacred codfish was siding with Governor Curley. Supporting the codfish was Raymond J. Kenney, director of Fisheries and game, and the Governor apparently was hoping that Attorney General Paul A. Dever also would line up in a threatening effort to whack a deer slaying judge of probate into line with the laws of the Commonwealth as officials see them.

In brief, the situation is that George Poland of Wakefield, who serves as probate judge on the Island of Nantucket whenever the noted longevity of inhabitants makes necessary the handling of wills or associated instruments, flatly has defied, or says he has, the Governor's order closing the deer hunting season on the island.

Calls Governor's Bluff

Asserting that he was calling the bluff of the Governor and Kenney, Judge Poland said nobody has shown him where there is anything in the laws that allows the Governor to halt the deer hunting season. The Governor cut the season short when Nantucket selectmen had asked that it be done after one man had been killed and another wounded.

As the Judge, who presumably hunts with modern lethal weapons, and not the bow and arrow, was asserting he would continue hunting, Curley said he would consult the Attorney-General regarding the situation.

Director Kenney didn't bother to consult anyone. He said there would be an arrest if the law was violated.

Whether the judge is in for it by merely hunting, or whether he actually has to produce a deer with all four feet pointing stiffly upward in the direction of the North Star, Sirius or some other constellation, appears to be a hazy issue.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

REGISTER
Yarmouthport, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

BREWSTER

A number of new books are now available at the Library.

Mr and Mrs E. K. Nash and family were holiday guests of Mr and Mrs Irving Olmstead.

Mr and Mrs Desmond Crowell of Newton were holiday guests of Mr and Mrs Arthur Crowell.

A yellow and white furred skunk, said to be the second seen on the Cape in a decade, was run over and killed by an auto driven by George Cobb of Cobb Village, Barnstable.

Howard Haines Murphy of Osterville has been nominated by Governor Curley for the post of Commissioner of Agriculture in Massachusetts. Mr Murphy maintains a 25-acre farm in Osterville, more as a hobby than as a business, with the aid of his sons.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
BOSTON MASS.

REGISTER
Yarmouthport, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

"ROSES IN BLOOM ON CAPE COD"

Following the reference at the recent meeting of the New England Council by Governor Curley to the advertising possibilities of Cape Cod roses, the Cape Cod Advancement Plan last week sent the Governor a framed copy of its 1935 advertisement "The Roses Are In Bloom on Cape Cod". This advertisement was used in seven metropolitan cities as far west as Detroit on July 14 when the roses were blooming in profusion in every Cape Cod town. This advertisement resulted in more inquiries than any advertisement used in the two years' operation of the Advancement Plan.

The Advancement Plan had sent the Governor the first copy of the "Book of Legends" but had failed to send him copies of the newspaper advertisements, so that he did not know this subject had been covered.

The Governor's comment at the Massachusetts State dinner of the New England Council was on the fact that Portland, Oregon, advertises "a handful of roses whereas we have on Cape Cod the most beautiful roses in the country."

2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

This Boy Knows His 'Nickels'

Little Albert Granger, four, of 41 Marshfield road, Roxbury, was today the recipient of a shiny silver dollar from Governor Curley. But he thought it was a nickel.

The youngster was accompanying his mother, Mrs. Ethel Granger, on a visit to the State House when the Governor, who was leaving, noticed him.

"Hello, Sonny," he said.

And the sturdy little fellow answered, "Hello."

And then the Governor drew out one of the silver dollars which it is his custom to give women visitors to the executive office.

"Do you know what this is?" he queried.

"Sure," the boy answered.

"What is it?" asked the Governor.

"A nickel," said the boy.

"Twenty!" said the Governor.

"But you win!"

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square

Boston

Mass.

AMERICAN

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Knight Bachelor Captures Feature at Armory

KENNEDY

TWO BLUES TO BROOKLINE STABLE

Time Table

FOR TONIGHT

- 7:45—Class 20, Saddle horses 15.2 hands and under.
- 8:05—Class 10, Single harness ponies over 13.2 hands.
- 8:15—Class 32, Five-gaited mare.
- 8:30—Class 54, Lady's hunter, Copley Plaza trophy.
- 8:50—Gay Nineties, masquerade.
- 9:10—Class 3, Single harness horse (lady's phaeton).
- 9:25—Class 22, Lady's saddle horse, Dale McDonald trophy.
- 9:40—Class 47, Polo pony, heavy-weight.
- 10:00—Class 50, Lightweight hunters.
- 10:15—Class 14, Pair harness ponies.
- 10:30—110th Cavalry drill.
- 10:40—Class 6, Pair harness horses.
- 10:50—Class 58, Hunt teams.
- 11:10—Class 62, Second division, open jumping.

By Walter Kiley

Strangers in our midst, national champions both, captured top honors and captivated the fancy of the generous opening night crowd as the eighth annual 110th Cavalry Horse Show broke away to an auspicious debut at Commonwealth Armory.

More than living up to their reputations gained when they carried off the blues at Madison Square Garden two weeks ago, Judy King's Knight Bachelor from Atlanta, Georgia, and Mr. and Mrs. Lois Kaiser's Gold Digger from Bethel, Ct., added new laurels amidst a welter of applause.

Knight Bachelor, five-year-old brown gelding and identified by one white anklet on its off hind leg, was driven by Patrick J. O'Connell to an impressive triumph in the single harness horse class. Seaton Sappho, from Huntington Valley, Pa., took runner-up honors.

ERINS SON

Gold Digger, a beautiful five-year-old chestnut gelding, ridden by Earl Peters, was the class in the featured five-gaited stallion or gelding division, its victory meeting with the whole hearted approval of the pew-holders.

Cocktail Hour of the Audrey's Choice Stables of Providence, R. I., was a close second.

Numerically, socially and from a viewpoint of horse show standards, the opening night performance was voted a huge success.

A crowd estimated at from 3500 to 4000 attended, better than usual for a first night and indicative of what is in store for the remaining nights and the Saturday and Sunday afternoon matinees.

The program with its heavy fields ran far behind schedule, the last event being concluded in the wee small hours of the morning.

IRONY

The Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kennedy Stable of Brookline hard pressed the two national champions for outstanding honors.

Contenders in the show horse field for only a year, the Kennedys saw their Erin's Son, six-year-old chestnut gelding, lift the much coveted Lincoln Trophy in the lightweight division of the Green Hunter class, and their Bachelor's Flower walk off with a similar bule in the heavyweight division, one of the notable triumphs of the evening.

Curiously enough, Erin's Son finished ahead of Richard Sheehan's Lucky Star, which was second, and his Wonderbar, which took fourth.

Sheehan, who returns to this country with a string of four fine Irish horses from County Cork, Ireland, sold the Kennedys their stable of four brilliant performers at the 1934 110th Cavalry show.

Meeting with genuine approval for its novelty and color was the Gay Nineties' Class, harness division, won by Lois Driscoll and John Elliott, a pair of youngsters who drove an ancient Russian sleigh to which a tiny white pony was attached.

Continued

concluded
FIRST LADY

AWARDS TROPHY

TO KENNEDY STABLE

(Picture from International News Photograph Service.)
Arthur "Mally" Maguire, ace rider of the Kennedy stable from Brookline, receives Lincoln trophy from Mary Curley Donnelly for winning the green hunters' lightweight division with Erin's Son at Armory show. The Kennedy stable also won the green hunters' heavyweight

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

AMERICAN

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

'TAKE OATH OR GET OUT!' CURLEY TELLS REBEL TEACHERS

'TAKE OATH OR GO!' CURLEY TO REBELS

Educators, who love some other country should bless the United States by getting out of this country, Governor Curley said today in a caustic attack on teachers' oath delinquents.

He instructed Payson Smith, commissioner of education, to confer with Attorney-General

Paul A. Dever regarding plans to compel observance of the oath law.

"My thought," he said, "is this: —that they either get the oath in here or get out of the teaching profession.

"If the reason for their failure to take the oath is because of their love for some other country, the United States will be blessed by their leaving.

"I have notified Commissioner Smith to confer with Attorney-General Dever with a view to determining what action may be taken to compel the observance of the teachers' oath by the educators of various institutions.

"From the President of the United States down to municipal office holders, all persons having contact with the public are required to take an oath of allegiance to the constitution.

"There is no reason for any group of individuals in colleges or schools of this state to set themselves up as superior to the President or the laws of the land."

WAY FOUND BY DEVER

Admitting that the oath law lacks teeth, the Governor said he, nevertheless, understood that Dever has found some way of compelling its observance.

Facing a possible legislative move, toward revocation of the college charter, Harvard officials were understood today to be consulting legal authorities on the failure of Professor Kirtley F. Mather to take the oath in the form prescribed by the Legislature.

The Mather oath and those of two other Harvard instructors were among the nearly two score oaths returned to various colleges and schools because the oaths departed from the prescribed form.

Their makers have been given another opportunity to sign the legal form, but thus far Dr. Mather has not signed and he revealed today that he had heard nothing from his superiors regarding the alleged dereliction.

Continued

SMITH AUTHORITY LIMITED

Commissioner Payson Smith, in commenting today on the absence of approximately 5000 oaths whose receipt at his office had been expected, explained that while the deadline for signing oaths was Dec. 1, there is no deadline for filing of the oaths with his department.

He said that he expects the greater part of the missing 5000 will be filed ultimately.

The commissioner admitted that his department has "little or no jurisdiction over private schools," and that there was no list of private schools available when his office began sending out blanks.

State officials pointed out that if the law is not carried out to the letter, and all teachers sign the oath in the wordage provided for in the law, proceedings can be instituted against those institutions holding state charters.

Furthermore, it was indicated that those universities out of state jurisdiction could be included under a proposed amendment to the state constitution.

Whether steps seeking an amendment will be taken will depend on the final disposal of the questionable oaths already received, and whether or not the remaining 5000 teachers submit their oaths.

A reported petition started among the faculty of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for repeal of the bill was not expected to gain much headway in view of the fact that 35,000 teachers have signed the oath to date.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

SUFFOLK COURT PLAN SPEEDED

Under urging from Governor James M. Curley, the commission preparing plans for the New Suffolk County courthouse today worked rapidly to complete their plans before December 15, when they must be in Washington.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

BAY STATE POLL VOTE AGAINST DEAL 4-1

In the most smashing indictment of the Raw Deal registered so far, the third tally of the Literary Digest poll today showed Massachusetts opposed nearly four to one to the present administration policies.

The first returns from this state in the 10,000,000 nation-wide test vote, shows the Bay State registering the heaviest protest of any of the 18 states reporting.

Massachusetts returns covered a total of 3362 votes, of which 2646, or 78.70 per cent were cast in opposition to the Roosevelt policies. Only 716, or 21.30 per cent professed to support his regime.

Other states were similarly shown as opposed, but not to the extent that Massachusetts registered her disapproval. The Raw Deal was approved by only five states in the South, and rejected by the votes of 13 other states, mainly in the East and West.

Significance of the vote here, as based on the accuracy of previous polls conducted by the Literary Digest, was seen as putting Massachusetts once again in the list of doubtful states as far as the national election is concerned.

The intense appeal of Al Smith and Governor Curley's smashing campaign for Roosevelt put the state in the Democratic column in the last two presidential elections, but Republicans are said to feel hopes of regaining the state by the Digest poll result.

The latest tally reports a total of 421,560 votes, of which 234,404, or 55.6 per cent were marked "No" on the question: "Do you approve the acts and policies of the Roosevelt New Deal to Date?"

Initial returns also were received from California and South Dakota, which states joined with Massachusetts in voting against the Raw Deal, and Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, which showed majorities in favor of the Roosevelt acts and policies.

The initial tally of Kentucky indicates that 59.64 per cent of the 14,402 votes from there are in support of the Roosevelt policies. The count of the first 13,854 votes from Virginia is divided 52.15 per cent for and 47.85 per cent against the Raw Deal.

Georgia, the home state of Governor Eugene Talmadge and the "other home state" of President Roosevelt, continued to show more than a 2 to 1 vote for the Raw Deal. Tennessee ranks next with better than a 3 to 2 majority for the administration's policies.

Oklahoma and Florida, states that gave Roosevelt a 3 to 1 plurality when he was elected, now indicate a majority of their voters have turned against the President. Minnesota went 3 to 2 for Roosevelt in 1932 and thus far in the poll it is 3 to 2 against him. It is the same in Nebraska.

CALIFORNIA OPPOSES

An analysis of the first batch of votes from California shows 57.85 per cent against the Raw Deal and 42.15 per cent for it. South Dakota gave the President better than a 3 to 2 plurality in 1932, but now it is balloting 3½ to 2 against him.

The voters in the poll thus far show that 55.43 per cent of them voted for Roosevelt in 1932, and 38.91 per cent voted for Hoover. The remainder either voted for others or did not vote.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Too Cold For Judge To Defy Curley Ban

Nantucket, Dec. 6.—Freezing weather, not game wardens, kept Judge George M. Poland of Wakefield from setting out in search of deer today.

Despite Governor Curley's order closing the deer hunting season on this island, Judge Poland said he intended to go hunting—eventually—anyhow.

The season was closed when George Sylvia, a guide, was shot and killed and a hunter was wounded. The selectmen asked the governor to ban further hunting to avert accidents.

Judge Poland said today:

"I intend to hunt sometime, but not in this weather. No sir!

"It's 14 above down here this morning, and the wind is vicious. But as soon as it warms up, I'll go."

State Director of Fish and Game Raymond J. Kenney declared if the judge or any other hunter disobeyed the injunction against shooting he faced instant arrest.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

LEO CURLEY EAGER TO PLAY WITH ALL-STARS

College Boys Face Notre Dame Team Here Next Week

Warren Casey, Harvard center in 1933, today was invited to perform with the collegiate All-Stars against the all-Notre Dame eleven in Boston Garden next Wednesday night.

Joe Alvarez, chairman of the committee staging the game, expects telegrams of acceptance from Casey and Leo Curley, son of Governor J. M. Curley, today.

An invitation was extended to Curley, who concluded his collegiate gridiron career at Georgetown this season, last Monday.

Curley has advised Boston friends that he wants to play in the game but is awaiting consent of Georgetown officials before accepting the invitation.

If Casey and Curley agree to play, the Collegiate All-Stars roster will include 20 players which, Coach "Hiker" Joyce, believes, will be enough to carry them through the game with the Notre Dame club.

A majority of the Collegiate All-Stars played on this season's teams at their respective colleges, so should be in condition for next week's contest.

Chairman Alvarez, having made arrangements for 400 carloads of dirt to dump in the Garden, will meet officials of the game Wednesday morning, when the gridiron will be marked off.

The Notre Dame team will arrive in Boston Tuesday, a day ahead of the game, and go through a signal practice. The team has played and won five contests this year, one in New York and four in and around Chicago.

Chairman Alvarez today announced that each player on the two teams will be presented with a monogrammed sweater and a gold football.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

HURLEYS FACE MURPHY RACE

"Hurdle the Hurleys with Murphy" will be the slogan of United States Marshal John J. Murphy in event he tosses his hat into the ring as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor instead of opposing Governor James M. Curley for the nomination for United States Senator.

"Having announced my candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate to succeed Marcus Coolidge with the proviso that I would not choose to run if Governor Curley sought the office, I await a more formal announcement from the latter before declaring myself for the governorship nomination," said Murphy.

"There seems to be a doubt in the minds of many that Governor Curley will run for the senatorial nomination. Until I hear something more definite from Governor Curley on this senatorial situation, I'm still in a receptive mood for that job myself.

"But if Governor Curley does run for the United States Senatorial nomination, I will withdraw as prospective candidate for the latter and run for the Democratic nomination for Governor."

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

THRONG JAMS GEM STORE

Lining Washington street and overflowing into Bromfield street, an eager throng of shoppers visited the Washington Jewelry Company today at the opening of its 50th birthday anniversary sale.

Twenty police officers were necessary to keep the crowd in check and allow traffic to move through Washington street, but the throng was good-natured and in a holiday mood.

Shortly before noon, Governor Curley visited the store, and in an address to the force and customers said:

"Fifty years in the life of an individual is a great deal, in the life of a country but little, and in the life of a concern a whole lot, particularly the last six years.

"Any concern which has weathered the storm, any concern that has gone through wars and catastrophies, epidemics and depression, and has succeeded, deserves the unstinted commendation of its fellow men.

"Most certainly, the Washington Jewelry Co. is to be congratulated upon its indomitable spirit and phenomenal growth."

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

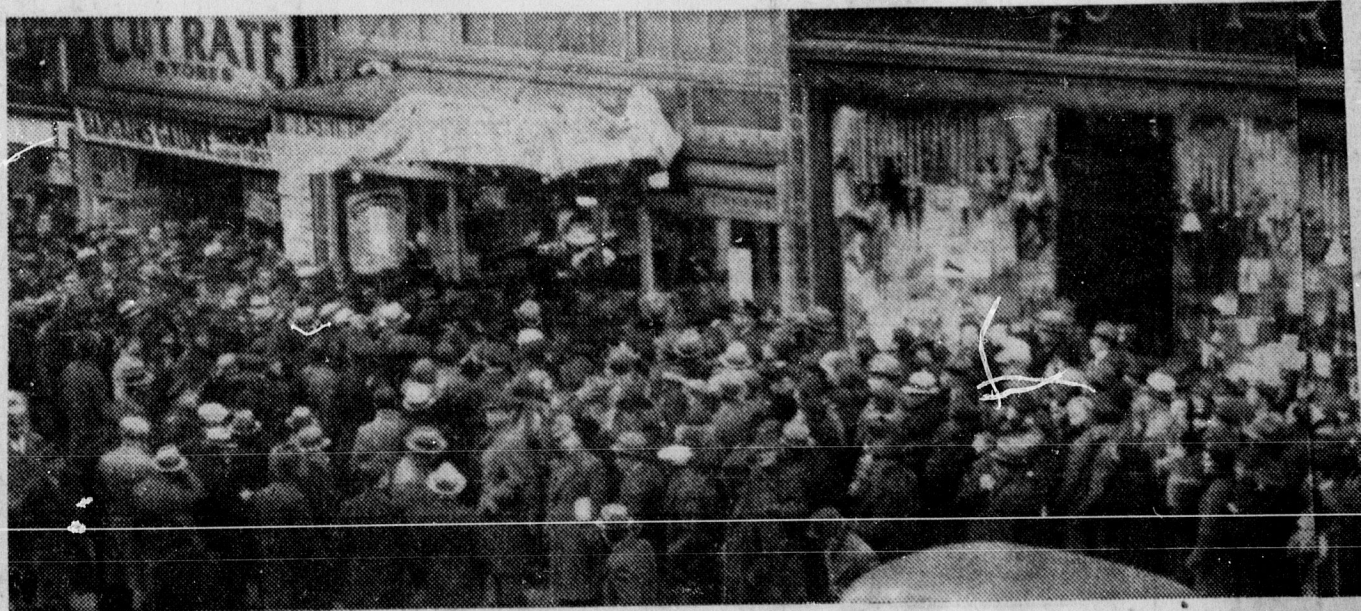

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Curley Asks Judge Set 'Good Example'

Nantucket, Dec. 6—While Judge George M. Poland was supposedly deer hunting here today in defiance of Governor Curley's order closing the deer season, the governor issued a statement asking that the judge "set a better example."

Throng Jams Washington St. at Jewelry Jub.

(Pictures from International Newservice)
A huge but good-natured throng of shoppers jammed the corner of Washington and Bromfield streets to take part in the "Golden Jubilee" of the Washington Jewelnor Curley, participating in the anniversary, gave

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Mass.

Boston

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

350 Club to Conduct Fashion Show

Mrs. E. C. Donnelly Guest

By MARGUERITE DOWNEY

A WHIRLWIND of knit fashion shows has hit town. 350 Club presents one this evening at the Hotel Westminster for its charity fund . . . Junior Philomatheia does its bit of style parading at its bridge tomorrow at the Chalet and Rosary Academy alumnae adds its name to the list when it features a fashion show of knitted goods tomorrow at its snack luncheon in the Embassy Room of the Fox and Hounds.

Mrs. Edward C. Donnelly . . . former Mary Curley . . . will be on hand to witness the 350 Club style parade. This marks one of her first appearances since her honeymoon trip around the world. Mrs. Donnelly was one of the organizers of the club, which combines social activity with philanthropic work.

Eleanor Sullivan of Salem, is in charge of the affair. Mrs. Edward F. Goode of Dorchester, president of the club, has appointed many sub-committees, who are assisted by Agnes Goode, treasurer; Kathryn Glynn, secretary and Dorothy Mullin, vice-president.

Chairmen of other committees include Mrs. Daniel J. Holland, Gertrude Shelly, Margaret Donovan, Madelaine O'Connor, Mrs. Richard Nolan, Rose Fitzgerald, Natalie Sullivan, Mrs. James Duane, Jr., Alice Ryan, Mrs. Henry Fitzpatrick, Mrs. John Dunphy, Mrs. Edward C. McCourt, Mrs. Stanton White, Miriam McCue, Mary Dolan, Mrs. Austin O'Connor and Loretta Robins.

Doing mannequin duty are an attractive group of Boston's young set . . . Helen Brennan, Eleanor Sullivan, Katherine Watson, Helene Crosby, Catherine Dooley, Mary Jane Kehoe, Phyllis O'Connell and Alice Barry.

Chances will be sold by a trio of younger club members . . . Mary Frances Connelly, Anne Holland and Edith Dooley.

Rosary Academy Announces Models

Attractive alumnae serving as models at the Rosary Academy show are Marie Jameson of West Newton, Helen Ryan of Waltham, Mrs. Frances Page of Malden, Dorothy Cooney of Watertown, Anna Powers of Cambridge and Anna Cosgrove of Belmont.

Chairman of the committee, Mrs. Frank Kelly is assisted in arranging the party by Helen Grace of Charlestown, Dorothy Cooney of Watertown, Mary Cooper of Watertown, Elizabeth McDonough of Watertown, Olive Poirier of Watertown, Frances Desrosiers of Everett, Alice Owens and Gertrude Kennedy of Watertown.

Mary Spencer has been spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Spencer of South Boston. Miss Spencer is an instructor in chemistry at Misericordiae College, Dallas, Pennsylvania, and has been active in affairs of Notre Dame alumnae and Junior Philomatheia club.

MRS. EDWARD C. DONNELLY, the former Mary Curley, one of the founders of the 350 Club, who will view the fashion show the club stages tonight at the Hotel Westminster.

Another smart party for Boston's young set was the tea Betty Cunningham, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthias Cunningham gave recently at her home in Waltham.

Betty is well-known member of Cecilian Guild and Emmanuel College alumnae.

Among her guests were Mary Powers Smith, the four Grodens from Cambridge . . . Eleanor, Alice, Mary and Dorothy . . . Margaret Culhane, Phyllis O'Connell, Katherine Donovan, Katherine Connell, Margaret Murray Flaherty and Irene McDonell.

Representative Michael Ward will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Algonquin Women's Club slated for Tuesday evening. Sheila O'Donovan Rossa as president of the club, will direct the meeting.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Betty Alden on 'Beacon Hill' Ballet Lecture and Horse Show Hold Social Spotlight

By BETTY ALDEN

BEACON HILL is still echoing with favorable comments on the performances of the Ballet Russe, which was in our midst about a month ago, and many of the socialites who have been most enthusiastic in its praise went to the Junior League yesterday afternoon to hear a lecture on the Ballet by one closely identified with it, Madame Romola Nijinska . . . She is the wife of the famed

HARRIET MOSELEY

Nijinski, Russian ballet dancer, whose brilliant career was cut short by mental illness 16 years ago, and whose biography, written by his wife, has given a new insight into the story of the great days of the Russian Ballet.

Stirring up mental pictures of the lives and accomplishments of the great masters of the Ballet, Madame Nijinska held her large group of listeners in rapt interest . . . and added to the pleasure of her subject was her attractive personality and decidedly foreign accent . . . Her very youthful appearance was accented by a fetching little black turban and a simple black dress with wide silver link bracelets on both wrists, and a brilliant green handkerchief, the only color in her outfit . . .

Among the listeners were Mrs. Richard Sears with Mary Elizabeth; Mrs. Frederick S. Moseley with her two daughters, Harriet and Helen, all three in very modish outfits . . . Mrs. Whiting Willauer, Mrs. Augustus Lowell Putnam, Mrs. George Lyman, Jr., Mrs. John Yerxa, chin snuggled in a huge fluffy lynx collar on her light green suit; Janet Forbes and a large group of this year's debs . . . Mrs. Charles Hibbard, Jr., Katherine Townsend, in dark green from head to toe; Mrs. William Phelps Allis, in another of her individual and attractive costumes, a deep red belted coat trimmed with gray Persian and a tiny hat of the same two materials . . . Mrs. Hamilton Osgood, Mrs. Robert Steinert, Mrs. Alexander Steinert, Mary Morison, Geraldine Field, Mrs. William Ellison, Mrs. James C. Gray with her daughter, Catherine Cunningham Gray; Hope Blanchard and Margaret Little . . .

Continued

The League's "Water Babies," mostly all Provisionals, were listening from a good vantage point in the balcony . . . In the group were Joan Chapin, May Gilbert, in a vivid red sweater and a matching hat; Connie Matless, Mimi Little, Reinette Plimpton, Polly Olney, and Betty Watson, in a coral wool dress.

Fashionables Gather at Horse Show

MRS. WILLIAM C. COX was one of the members of this audience who later turned up at the Armory for the opening of the Horse Show . . . she is a judge of harness horses and ponies, and therefore wore a day-time outfit of black wool with a Persian lamb hat, a three-quarter coat made in Russian style with Persian, and white kid gloves . . . While she was busy in the ring her box was occupied by Mrs. Bartlett Harwood, Helen Moseley and Mrs. Frederick Dearborn, all of whom were cosily wrapped in minks or some other costly fur . . .

Mrs. George Saltonstall West and Dorothy were in their box and, nearby, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bramwell Shaw kept a watchful eye on the clock, a little anxious for the strain of exhibiting their entries to be over . . . Eleonora Sears insisted on being a railbird with the rest of the mob in spite of the fact that her name appears on one of the best boxes . . .

Of course, being "Governor's Night," Governor Curley was host to a great many officials in his box . . . His daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Donnelly, and Governor Louis Brann of Maine were among his most important guests . . .

Mrs. Malcolm Bradley French was a guest of the Harold Sawyers . . . Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, Jr. kept close watch over their entries by sitting outside their stalls . . . though no one could mistake them for stablehands as Marjie was swathed in mink and gardenias and Hugh wore the latest in gentlemen's riding togs . . .

The big surprise of the evening was furnished by two well known matrons who were rigged out as belles in the Gay Nineties class, with fluffy white wigs, gaudy dresses with sweeping trains, and feather fans. They were absolutely unrecognizable until their familiar smiles gave them away as Mrs. William H. Coburn and Mrs. William Danforth . . .

Harvard Dance Tonight

STUDENTS AT THE Harvard Business School will have a welcome change from studies of endless facts and figures at their winter formal this evening at the Somerset . . . A lively committee of business school students, headed by William H. Hadley, have had their heads together for several weeks deciding on plans for the dance . . . The others are Robert Sims of Cambridge, Gilbert Bursley of Washington, D. C., Thomas Mead of Boston and James Blaine of Cambridge . . .

Preceding the dance there will be several dinner parties . . . one given by Paul Furlough at his family's home in Brookline and another by Clyde Knowles, whose family will give a party for some of his friends, at their Watertown home . . .

continued

concluded

Members of the Parents' League are signing up with Mrs. Roger I. Lee for the meeting at the Chilton Club on December 16 at 3 o'clock at which Dr. Bronson Crothers will give them the latest tips on child guidance . . . Incidentally, the Parents' League is the most influential power in regulating the social customs of debutantes and their beaux and very few mothers and hostesses would think of disregarding the decisions of this body in regard to debutante entertaining . . .

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

AMERICAN

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

BAY STATE POLL VOTE AGAINST DEAL 4-1

In the most smashing indictment of the Raw Deal registered so far, the third tally of the Literary Digest poll today showed Massachusetts opposed nearly four to one to the present administration policies.

The first returns from this state in the 10,000,000 nation-wide test vote, shows the Bay State registering the heaviest protest of any of the 18 states reporting.

Massachusetts returns covered a total of 3362 votes, of which 2646, or 78.70 per cent were cast in opposition to the Roosevelt policies. Only 716, or 21.30 per cent professed to support his regime.

Other states were similarly shown as opposed, but not to the extent that Massachusetts registered her disapproval. The Raw Deal was approved by only five states in the South, and rejected by the votes of 13 other states, mainly in the East and West.

Significance of the vote here, as based on the accuracy of previous polls conducted by the Literary Digest, was seen as putting Massachusetts once again in the list of doubtful states as far as the national election is concerned.

The intense appeal of Al Smith and Governor Curley's smashing campaign for Roosevelt put the state in the Democratic column in the last two presidential elections, but Republicans are said to feel hopes of regaining the state by the Digest poll result.

The latest tally reports a total of 421,560 votes, of which 234,404, or 55.6 per cent were marked "No" on the question: "Do you approve the acts and policies of the Roosevelt New Deal to Date?"

Initial returns also were received from California and South Dakota, which states joined with Massachusetts in voting against the Raw Deal, and Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, which showed majorities in favor of the Roosevelt acts and policies.

The initial tally of Kentucky indicates that 59.64 per cent of the 14,402 votes from there are in support of the Roosevelt policies. The count of the first 13,854 votes from Virginia is divided 52.15 per cent for and 47.85 per cent against the Raw Deal.

Georgia, the home state of Governor Eugene Talmadge and the "other home state" of President Roosevelt, continued to show more than a 2 to 1 vote for the Raw Deal. Tennessee ranks next with better than a 3 to 2 majority for the administration's policies.

Oklahoma and Florida, states that gave Roosevelt a 3 to 1 plurality when he was elected, now indicate a majority of their voters have turned against the President. Minnesota went 3 to 2 for Roosevelt in 1932 and thus far in the poll it is 3 to 2 against him. It is the same in Nebraska.

CALIFORNIA OPPOSES

An analysis of the first batch of votes from California shows 57.85 per cent against the Raw Deal and 42.15 per cent for it. South Dakota gave the President better than a 3 to 2 plurality in 1932, but now it is balloting 3½ to 2 against him.

The voters in the poll thus far show that 55.43 per cent of them voted for Roosevelt in 1932 and 38.91 per cent voted for Hoover. The remainder either voted for others or did not vote.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

AMERICAN

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

ALLEY ENTRANCE TO NAVY YARD DRAWS FIRE

A movement aimed at improvements for the navy yard was under way today following the open charge that the approach to the historical site was "up an alley by a couple of grog shops."

Captain Frederick H. Cooke, veteran navy officer who has visited navy yards throughout the world, told 250 officers of alphabetical agencies that the approach to the yard was the "worst in the world." Cooke, recently transferred here to head public works at the Charlestown yard, declared that under WPA projects work is being done in improvements and repair.

The work, he insisted, should not be on a relief basis, but should have a regular and adequate appropriation from the federal government for improvement.

Speaking at the gathering at the Parker House, he called on Boston Congressmen to see that this is made possible.

As a result, a strong appeal to Boston's Democratic Congressmen, John W. McCormack and John P. Higgins was planned.

Cooke pointed out that many of the buildings at the navy yard were built in the early 1800's, and although they have a Queen Ann front they have a "Mary Ann" back.

Cooke's remarks startled the gathering and acting Postmaster Peter Tague was quick to answer him, declaring that a navy man himself, and an admiral at that, balked his efforts to secure the improvement when he was serving a congressman.

Governor Curley, who called the conference to reveal the work of the administration, declared that the session was a wise step at this time "to make known the great work our leader is doing."

Reports from different branches of the Raw Deal were submitted and a long list of speakers was heard.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

State Pays $4100 for Accident

Settlement of $4100 has been made by the state of Massachusetts in the claim of Mrs. Garnet McKee of Waltham, for personal injuries and damage to her auto last April when the machine was struck by the official car of Adjutant-General William I. Rose, it was learned today.

Of this amount $100 was for property damage.

Her companion, Mrs. Esther Perkins of Weston, previously settled her claim for $200.

The accident occurred at Beacon and Hereford streets, Back Bay. Mrs. McKee, who is a technician at Waltham Hospital, was backing her car when the collision happened.

The state car was returning to the State House from the opening game of the Boston Red Sox. Staff officers were occupants of the state car.

The settlement with Mrs. McKee, who asked for $15,000, recently was approved by Governor Curley and Council.

Mrs. McKee was said to have suffered paralysis as a result of the accident, but is reported to be in improved health now. She was removed to Waltham Hospital following the accident and remained there several weeks under treatment.

Governor Curley when asked to comment today on the $4100 settlement to Mrs. McKee said he regarded it as "a most equitable one."

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

beano permits.

Curley Welcomes Canada Official

Greetings of the state today were extended by Governor Curley to J. L. Ilsley, minister of national revenue of Canada. The Dominion official is in Boston to address the Canadian Club at the Hotel Vendome tonight.

The governor expressed gratification at the signing of the recent trade agreement with Canada which, he predicted, will be beneficial to both countries and ultimately help to stabilize living costs.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Judge Defies Ban On Deer Hunting

Nantucket, Dec. 6—Judge George M. Poland faces instant arrest today if he tries to carry out his threat to go deer hunting in defiance of the order of Governor Curley closing the season here.

State Director of Fish and Game Raymond J. Kenney declared that such an act by Judge Poland or any other hunter would be met by arrest and a court appearance.

Declaring that there was nothing in the state statutes which gave the governor the right to close the season in any one section except a drought, Judge Poland urged other hunters to follow his lead.

The island deer season was abruptly halted last Tuesday by Governor Curley at the request of the local board of selectmen after George Sylvia, a guide, was shot and killed and a hunter wounded.

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes au-

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Judge Defies Ban, Goes Hunting

Nantucket, Dec. 6 (AP)—Despite a ban placed on deer hunting on this island, and while the state director of fisheries and game was announcing arrest would follow violation of the law, Judge George M. Poland, his household said, went "gunnin' for deer" today.

Last night Judge Poland declared his intention of hunting deer although the season here had been closed by Governor James M. Curley because of a fatality.

"Nobody," said the judge, "has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the governor to close the season, except in cases of extreme drought."

While many of the townspeople gathered in the snow and bitter cold on Main street today, each apparently waiting for the other to make a move in line with the judge's suggestion, the probate justice had gone off alone from his own house.

Governor Curley today conferred with Attorney General Paul A. Dever on the alleged rebellion of Judge Poland over the edict closing the hunting season on ree prior to regular closing time.

thorizing the governor to close the season, except in cases of extreme drought," said Judge Poland. "There is no drought, there is snow on the ground."

Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon declared that if anyone went out hunting for deer today or any other time when the season was closed, he had nothing to do but enforce the law.

Judge Poland, who frequently holds court here, replied by offering to defend free any hunter arrested by the warden.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

the offer.

Bruno Plea, Hint Seen in Curley Note

Possibility that Bruno Richard Hauptmann may be allowed to plead personally for his life before the New Jersey Court of Pardons was seen today in a request of the court for advice from Governor Curley.

Instead of a governor's council, such as in Massachusetts, New Jersey has the court of pardons to consider clemency pleas by convicted persons.

From Albert D. Herman, clerk of the New Jersey court, Governor Curley, it was revealed today, received a letter, in which the New Jersey official asked:

"When the Court of Pardons in your state is considering a case where capital punishment is involved—in other words, a death sentence—does the court allow the prisoner to appear in person before the court to plead his case in the hope of having the death sentence commuted?"

In reply, Governor Curley wrote to Clerk Herman, explaining that in Massachusetts the prisoner is allowed to appear before the State Board of Parole—usually in a session at State Prison—and make his plea in person.

Boston

Mass.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Fr. O'Connell Made Guard Chaplain

Governor Curley today announced commissioning of the Rev. Father George P. O'Connell, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Dedham, as major-chaplain of the 102nd F. A., Massachusetts National Guard.

Father O'Connell, widely known as the former head of the Charitable Bureau of the Boston archdiocese, had a distinguished World War record overseas where he served with the 301st Field Artillery as chaplain from Sept. 27, 1917, until June 3, 1919. He returned to the National Guard with the rank of captain, July 5, 1923, and has been attached to the 181st Inf.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

SUFFOLK COURT PLAN SPEEDED

Under urging from Governor James M. Curley, the commission preparing plans for the New Suffolk County courthouse today worked rapidly to complete their plans before December 15, when they must be in Washington.

AMERICAN
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Miss Murray Given Oath By Curley

While her 81-year-old mother looked on, Miss Mary E. Murray, dean of junior girls at Cambridge High and Latin school, today was administered the oath of office as a member of the advisory board of the State Department of Education.

The ceremony of taking the oath of office was held in Governor James M. Curley's office at the State House. Governor Curley administered the oath.

Miss Murray was appointed to the post a week ago by Governor Curley. The appointment was confirmed last Wednesday by the Governor's Council. Miss Murray replaces Miss Grace Mansfield, sister of Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield of Boston, as a member of the advisory board.

Miss Murray is widely known as an educator. She served for five years as a member of the college entrance examinations board in New York. She has been a member of the Cambridge school system as a teacher for many years, the majority of which have been spent at Cambridge High and Latin school.

She was graduated from Radcliffe College with the degree of bachelor of arts. She also holds the degrees of master of arts and master of education.

Miss Murray is a native of Cambridge. She resides with her mother at 1 Merrill street, Cambridge.

Boston

Mass.

GLOBE

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

MOTHER, 70, SEEKS DAUGHTER'S FREEDOM

Mrs Vickery Will Appeal to Curley Today

Special Dispatch to the Globe

SALEM, Dec 5—After having been told that local authorities can do nothing to obtain the release of her daughter, Mrs Ada Vickery, 70-year-old mother of Mrs Pauline Crabtree, 37-year-old Lynn assistant bank treasurer, who is serving an 18-months sentence in the House of Correction here for larceny, stated today that she will seek an audience with Gov James M. Curley tomorrow.

Mrs Vickery called on Probation Officer Charles A. Salisbury today seeking the release of her daughter from the local institution, but was told that he could do nothing until the former woman bank official is eligible for parole next February.

Mrs Crabtree was given an 18-months sentence for the larceny of $20,000 from a Lynn bank, where she was employed, last February. George Bishop, 32, formerly of the Hotel Edison, Lynn, was given a long term in State Prison allegedly for conspiring with Mrs Crabtree in taking the money from the bank.

GLOBE
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

CURLEY NOT TO ACT UNTIL PAROLE TIME

Mrs Crabtree's Mother
Trying to Aid Her

Gov Curley said this afternoon he would not consider taking action on the case of Mrs Ada P. Crabtree, former Lynn assistant bank treasurer now serving an 18-month sentence for larceny from a Lynn bank, until the legal time for consideration of her parole comes next February.

He made this statement after his attention had been called to a report to the effect that Mrs Crabtree's mother, 70-year-old Mrs Ada Vickery, planned to appeal to him, after the Essex County Commissioners had declared themselves unable to release her daughter from the Salem Jail.

Last February, Mrs Crabtree was sentenced to serve 18 months in the House of Correction for the larceny of $20,000.

DEC 6 1935

Bebee's Basket Phaeton, Winning Gay Nineties Senior Turnout, Novelty to Horse Show Followers

GAY NINETIES RIGS AMUSE SHOW THRONG

Judy King's Knight Bachelor Wins Easily—Erin's Son Scores Over Green Hunters

By FRANK G. TROTT

Boston is again the home of a splendid horse show, the eighth annual exhibition sponsored by 110th Cavalry at Commonwealth Armory. The opening last night was brilliant, surpassing expectations of the most optimistic.

The transformation of the huge dr 11 hall foretold a successful show ever before contestants in the first event were called into the ring. The seating, enlarged and much improved, was of itself a pleasing factor. The promenade, however, was the change from past years which drew the most favorable comment. These improvements cut the size of the ring, and this, as the judging started, also added to the enjoyment of spectators.

The attendance was a surprise to Col Philip Brown and his junior officers of the 110th, being about double their estimates. Had all patrons wished to be seated some could not have been accommodated.

First Blue to Jamboree

The first blue of the show was pinned to the halter of Jamboree, a chestnut gelding from the Audrey's

Choice Stable of Mr and Mrs E. P. Cassell, Providence. This was in the class for model saddle horses shown in hand and judged standing still. The red rosette was taken by Wonderman from Dr Wallace L. Orcutt's Morgan Horse Stable, West Newbury. Third prize was awarded Dwight's Choice, owned by Miss Pearl Campbell of Winchester, and fourth to Storm At Daybreak, the entry of Ursula and Elsie Burkard of Arlington.

The second blue went to the entry of Mr and Mrs Calvin B. Farnsworth of West Boylston, whose Sprig Leaf was the best of the field of model hunters which also were shown in hand. Mr and Mrs William J. Kennedy's Erin's Son was the runner-up. Later in the night Erin's Son won in the competition for green hunters shown over jumps.

The high steppers of Webster Knight 2d, West Warwick, R I, exhibited under the cognomen of Greyholm Stable, were first, second and fourth in the class for horses which had not previously won more than six ribbons at any recognized show. The winner was Broom Park Chancellor. Seaton Rags was second, with Seaton Belinda fourth. Cutting in for third was Excelsior, owned by Manor Hackney Farm, Jordon, Ont.

Gay Nineties Big Hit

The Gay Nineties Class with its varied vehicles of a generation ago and occupants dressed in the vogue of that era was the hit of the evening and gave the judges, Richard C. Heathes and Samuel J. Shaw, a tough hair hour. The class was divided in two groups senior and junior.

Lois Driscoll and John Elliott, riding in a miniature comfort sleigh drawn by a white pony, were awarded first prize in the children's division. The red ribbon went to Carolyn Elliott, Barbara Driscoll and William Elliott, in a governess cart and the third prize to Helen Danforth and Priscilla Murphy in a Meadowbrook cart.

Unfamiliar to most of the onlookers was the turnout that won in the senior division. The carriage was a canopy top spider basket phaeton. Seated beside the driver, Charles C.

Bebee of Wellesley, was Miss Louise McKinney and in the rumble seat was "Joe," the Negro attendant. The horse, a daughter of the all-time queen of saddlers, Bohemian Actress, was bred by Mr Bebee at his Hollis, N H, estate.

Elsie and Ursula Burkard won second prize with a single horse turnout such as the young women of the Nineties used for an afternoon drive by themselves. Third prize had a genuine touch of yesteryear as Miss Eleanor Dodge and her brother, George, rode in the rig of the well-known "cabby," Fred Kenney. Fourth prize went to Miss Barbara McGoldrick's sporting tandem hitch with John Ahearn as whip.

Gov Brann Presents Trophy

Gov Brann of Maine, donor of the cup for novice hunters, presented the trophy in person, attended by Gov Curley, to Miss Dorothy Storer, who rode the winner, Lucky Star, a sparkling chestnut timber topper owned by Richard Sheehan of Annabell County, Cork, Ireland.

Knight Bachelor, national champion harness horse from the stable of Miss Judy King, Atlanta, Ga, made his first appearance at the show in mid-evening in a class for horses not exceeding 15.2 hands. The grand brown gelding, driven by the veteran, Patrick O'Connell, filled the ring as he high stepped and, of course, was easily the choice of the judges, Mrs William C. Cox and Charles J. Barrie.

The summary:

MODEL SADDLE HORSES. Over 14.2 Hands—Won by Audrey's Choice Stable's Jamboree; second, Morgan Horse Stable's Wonderman; third, Pearl Campbell's Dwight's Choice; fourth, Ursula and Elsie Burkard's Storm at Daybreak.
MODEL HUNTERS. Won by Mr and Mrs Calvin B. Farnsworth's Sprig Leaf; second, Mr and Mrs William J. Kennedy's Erin's Son; third, Mr and Mrs William J. O'Sullivan's Clifton; fourth, Mrs Herbert B. Shaw's Lord Nelson.
LIMIT HARNESSES HORSES (Open to Horses Which Have Not Won More Than Six First Ribbons at Any Recognized Horse Show)—Won by Greyholme's Stable's

Continued

Concluded

Stable's Seaton Rags; third, Greyholme
Stable's Excelsior; fourth, Manor Grey-PAIR OF DRAFT HORSES (to Welsh
Not Less Than 1300 Pounds Each)—Won by H. P. Hood & Sons' Milk Company's Shorty and Dizzy; second, Nobles Milk
Company's Pal and Dawn; third, Whiting
Milk Company's Ted and Ned; fourth, sey, Whiting Milk Company's John and Bet-
NOVICE SADDLE HORSES, 15.2 and
Under—Won by Helen Balfour's Cardinal
Chief; second, Charles Beebe's Bohemian
Melody; third, Kay and Mae Murphy's En-voxy; fourth, Marni Mitchell's Ukraine.
NOVICE SADDLE HORSES, Over 15.2—
Won by Jack Lewis' Victor Rex; second,
Oldtown Hill Farm's May Morn; third,
Pearl Campbell's Dwight's Choice; fourth,
Marjorie Diehl's Don Quixote.
POLO PONIES, Lightweight—Won by
Rufus Wesson's Sinaway; second, Ralph P.
Symmes' Fairly Wild; third, Dudley Milli-ken's Brown Jug; fourth, Leo Boyle's
Corky; fifth, Leo Boyle's Rhea; sixth,
Ralph Symmes' Go Get It.
GREEN HUNTERS, Lightweight Division
—Won by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kennedy's Erin's Son; second, Richard Sheehan's Lucky Star; third, Mark Duff's
Artid Gallop; fourth, Richard Sheehan's Wonder Bar.
GREEN HUNTERS, Heavyweight Division—Won by Mr. and Mrs. William J.
Kennedy's Bachelor's Flower; second, Mrs.
Wilbert Smith's Erin's Glen; third, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin B. Farnsworth's Brian O'Lynn; fourth, Jane Garland's Golden Glen.
NOVICE HUNTERS—Won by Richard Sheehan's Lucky Star; second, Mrs. Herbert B. Shaw's Lord Nelson; third, Mark
M. Duff's Artid Gallop; fourth, Teela
Woolet Camp's Racketeer; fifth, Miss Ruth
H. and James H. Montgomery's Waconda.
SINGLE HARNESS HORSES, over 14.2
hands and not exceeding 15.2 hands—Won by Miss Judy King's Knight Bachelor; second, Woodridge Farm's Seaton Sappho;
third, Greyholme Stable's Broompark
Chancellor; fourth, Greyholme Stable's
Sanderstead Empress; fifth, Manor Hackney Farm's Excelsior.
FIVE-GAITED STALLIONS OR GELD-
INGS—Won by Terre Haute Farm's Gold
Digger; second, Audrey's Choice Stable's
Cocktail Hour; third, Mason E. Cook's
Brilliant Knight; fourth, John J. Mc-Carthy's Easter Parade.
SADDLE PONY—Over 13.2 Hands and Not Exceeding 14.2 Hands—Won by Miriam
Winslow's Hob Nob Girl; second, Jane
Callahan's Hob Nob; third, Mrs. Harold R.
Sawyer's On Parade; fourth, Green Arbor's Stables' Distant Dawn; fifth, Ursula and Elise Burkard's Jack of Hearts; sixth,
Ursula and Elise Burkard's Tramp.
OFFICERS' CHARGERS—Won by Lieut.
John A. Hanson's Amber; second, Mai
Abbot Peterson's Shannon Lass; third, Lieut.
Edwin Cushman's Pismitt; fourth, Lieut.
George E. Deyermund's Dot.

As They Were in the Gay Nineties

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

GLOBE
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

DOUGLAS TO ASK CLARK'S SENTENCE BE COMMUTED

Atty George A. Douglas, counsel for Miller Frank Clark, now in the death cell at the State Prison awaiting execution for the murder of Ethel Zuckerman, said yesterday that he will petition Gov. Curley today for a commutation of Clark's sentence from death in the electric chair to life imprisonment. He declared that he believes his client is insane.
Clark was convicted by a Suffolk County jury of the murder of the girl who was found slain in a South End bakery where she worked. Recently the Superior Court denied a motion for a new trial in which Douglas claimed that on the evidence the jury should have found Clark insane.

JUNIOR VICTORS IN 110TH CAVALRY COSTUME CLASS

Above—Little Barbara Driscoll, age 6, of Lexington. Below—Lois Driscoll, 7, of Lexington, and John Elliott, 7, of West Roxbury, in the sleigh in which they rode to first prize in the Gay Nineties junior division.

GLOBE
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

CANADIAN MINISTER ILSLEY PAYS COURTESY CALL ON GOV CURLEY

Reciprocal Trade Agreement Praised by Both—Visitor to Be Guest of Canadian Club

"HANDS ACROSS THE BORDER"

Left to Right—Gov Curley, J. Lorimer Ilesley, Canadian Minister of National Finance, and Frank C. Turner.

James Lorimer Ilesley, Minister of National Revenue of the Canadian Government in Ottawa, called on Gov Curley at the State House today on a "courtesy visit."

Mr Ilesley is in Boston to be the principal speaker tonight at the Canadian Club dinner at the Hotel Vendome.

He and the Governor exchanged pleasant remarks about the recent reciprocal agreement entered into by the United States and the Dominion of Canada.

"I can't think of anything more beneficial to the peoples of both countries than the recent agreement reached between Canada and this country," Gov Curley told his guest from the north.

"Our trade with Canada has fallen off more than $600,000,000 in the past 10 years, and perhaps we will get some of that back now."

"I believe that we almost have more persons of Canadian origin in New England today than there are in all Canada. It sometimes seems that way."

The Governor expressed a desire to revisit Western Canada through which he twice traveled during the Great War. He also said that he wanted to pay a visit to Nova Scotia, one section of the Dominion he has never seen.

Mr Ilesley agreed with the Governor that the reciprocal agreement was a "great thing" and revealed that his talk tonight before the Canadian Club will be largely devoted to that topic.

Accompanying Mr Ilesley on his call on the Governor were Frank C. Turner, chairman of the reception committee of the Canadian Club of Boston; Asa R. Minot, secretary of the Canadian Club; J. Ernest Kerr, vice-president of the club; former Representative Richard E. Johnston, and Harry Wickwire.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

GLOBE

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

GOV CURLEY SEEKS OPINION ON RIGHT TO BAN HUNTING

Gov Curley said today that he would ask Atty Gen Paul A. Dever for a legal opinion as to the Governor's right to ban the hunting of deer on the island of Nantucket.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

GLOBE

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

MINISTER ILSLEY COMES TO ADDRESS CANADIANS

J. Lorimer Ilesley, Minister of National Revenue for Canada, will arrive in Boston this morning from Hants, Kings County, N S, to address the Canadian Club of Boston at its annual dinner this evening at Hotel Vendome.

He will be met at the North Station by Frank C. Turner, chairman of the club's reception committee and local manager of the Canadian National Steamships and will call on Mayor Mansfield at City Hall at 11 a m, going to the State House a half-hour later to pay his respects to Gov Curley.

GLOBE

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

GREEN TAKES NEW JOB; TO KEEP OLD

Civil Service Head Stays
Payless in House

After taking the oath of office, City Councilor Thomas H. Green of Charlestown took over his new position as Civil Service Commissioner yesterday, his desk banked with flowers. He succeeds James M. Hurley of Marlboro, an Ely Democrat.

Department heads, City Councilors and friends crowded Commissioner Green's office to wish him success.

Floral tributes were received from Mr and Mrs Samuel Silverman, Senator Joseph A. Langone, Judge Emil Fuchs, Mr and Mrs Henry Myers, Mr and Mrs Henry J. Bailey, Boston Public Works employes, the Thomas H. Green Associates, Miss Edna M. Finnegan, Redmond Walsh, Edward Morey, Frank Winnett and Roy Green, the Commissioner's brother.

The employees of the Civil Service Department sent a large basket of chrysanthemums.

Gov Curley also administered the oath of office yesterday to Representative Ernest J. Dean of Chilmark, who thus became Conservation Commissioner in place of Samuel A. York; to Charles F. Connors of Boston, reappointed State Racing Commission chairman, and Dr John L. O'Toole, 3d Essex medical examiner.

Commissioner Green will continue to serve in the House of Representatives, but without compensation.

"REBELLION" IS ON AT NANTUCKET

Judge Poland Delayed Going Out on Deer Hunt, Owing to Cold

NANTUCKET, Dec 6—Open rebellion against executive fiat forbidding deer-hunting on Nantucket broke out at dawn on this little island, 40 miles off the Massachusetts coast, with the well-known jurist, Judge George M. Poland, in the ranks of the conscientious objectors.

As the sun came up its rays picked up a little band of determined sportsmen in red caps stalking deer through the coverts and swamps with a single representative of the powers-that-be, Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon stalking the hunters.

Judge Poland said last night:

"Certainly I intend to go out tomorrow morning and try and get a deer. Nothing I can find in the statutes authorizes the Governor to close the season except in cases of extreme drought. There is no drought on Nantucket now."

Judge Delayed His Start

Judge Poland delayed his start into the deer haunts this morning on account of the weather, but reasserted his intention of going out. In a telephone conversation from his Nantucket home he told the Globe:

"Yes, I'm going out pretty quick. It is down to 14 here with little snow squalls. I'm going as soon as it moderates."

"I don't expect to get a deer, but I'm going, so I can say I went. I can't find any authority whatever for Gov Curley closing the season."

"A lot of fellows around the island have been calling me up. I told them I was going and that if they want to go and get into any trouble, I'd defend them."

"We might as well call Curley's bluff."

"There have been a lot of deer around here. They've been devastating my garden, trimming it up for me, and I think they ought to be thinned out a little."

Anyon Has His Orders

Game Warden Anyon has orders to arrest anyone who shoots at a deer. The sportsmen are bent on upholding the constitutional right of Massachusetts citizens to hunt deer in the open season decreed by the Legislature, despite the decree of Gov Curley and Director Raymond J. Kenney of the Fish and Game Department banning hunting on Nantucket because one man was killed and another wounded in hunting accidents.

At the State House in Boston it was pointed out that Game Warden Gordon Spofford of Marthas Vineyard had been ordered to Nantucket for the week before the deer season opened, and it was believed this pair of experienced game sleuths would be able to control the situation on the island.

Judge Poland, whose interpretation of the law in the matter is followed devoutly by local sportsmen, is a bona fide Summer resident, with a home on aristocratic Orange st in Nantucket Village. He also frequently sits in Nantucket Probate Court, impressive in his black robes of office. His Winter home is in Wakefield.

According to the judge, the authority to declare open or closed seasons on game is vested in the Legislature and the Governor's authority to close the forests is limited to emergencies in times of drought. With snow on the ground and plenty of rain in November, it is generally conceded that no drought exists in the "forests" of Nantucket.

The hunters who have paid for their licenses are determined to force an issue as to whether the Legislature or the Governor governs deer hunting on Nantucket.

If Game Warden Anyon makes any arrests today, the case will come up in the local District Court and by virtue of its precedent-setting issue, it is believed that prominent lawyers who Summer on Nantucket will take a hand in the case.

KENNEY WARNS HUNTERS LAW WILL BE ENFORCED

Informed that hunters on Nantucket plan today to defy the ban on deer hunting and enter the swamps and woodlands there, Raymond J. Kenney, director of the State Department of Fisheries and Game, stated that as far as his department is concerned the season on Nantucket is closed and a $100 fine per deer is still the law.

"I know no reason why the law should not be enforced," Director Kenney said last night. "I think the fine is $100 per deer. Of course, we never cross any bridge until we come to it and so I can't say anything until I learn definitely the ban has been violated."

"On Tuesday there were about 50 off-islanders there. Even if they are gone and even if the residents know the locality, that does not mean there will not be fatal accidents."

There is one warden on the island, Ernest Anyon. He is acquainted with most of the residents. In cases of violation he usually takes the names and license numbers of the violators and later swears out complaints. In cases of persons he does not know, or who refuse answers, he makes arrests.

Director Kenney could not say when there will be another deer season on the island. He estimated there are about 300 or 400 deer there now. He said that in all likelihood the situation will be discussed by the next Legislature, because of the concern of the Nantucket farmers and hunters.

Only twice in the history of Nantucket has there been a deer season. The first was last February, when, by special act of the Legislature, the season was opened because the herd, grown from two deer rescued off the island about 15 years ago, was destroying the crops.

The second season opened this week, but lasted only two days because during that time one man, George Sylvia, whose funeral was held yesterday, was killed, and another man was seriously wounded. The small area of the island was blamed for both casualties. The Selectmen petitioned Gov Curley to call off the season, and their petition was honored.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

GLOBE

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

CURLEY NOT TO ACT UNTIL PAROLE TIME

Mrs Crabtree's Mother
Trying to Aid Her

Gov Curley said this afternoon he would not consider taking action on the case of Mrs Ada P. Crabtree, former Lynn assistant bank treasurer now serving an 18-month sentence for larceny from a Lynn bank, until the legal time for consideration of her parole comes next February.

He made this statement after his attention had been called to a report to the effect that Mrs Crabtree's mother, 70-year-old Mrs Ada Vickery, planned to appeal to him, after the Essex County Commissioners had declared themselves unable to release her daughter from the Salem Jail.

Last February, Mrs Crabtree was sentenced to serve 18 months in the House of Correction for the larceny of $20,000.

GLOBE

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

110TH CAVALRY HORSE SHOW OPENS WITH '90S FEATURE

Dinner For Gibson-Bucklin Bridal Party Tonight— Member Exhibit at Boston Art Club

A box party of interest at the Commonwealth Armory last evening for the opening of the four-day horse show of the 110th Cavalry, included, left to right, Miss Helen Moseley of Beacon st, Mrs Bartlett Harwood of Commonwealth av, and Mrs Frederick M. Dearborn Jr of Cambridge. They were the guests of Mr and Mrs William C. Cox of Cohasset.

Despite the bitter cold, the Eight Annual Horse Show of the 110th Cavalry opened with an auspicious attendance last evening at the Commonwealth Armory. The many box parties included that of Mrs William C. Cox, whose guests were Miss Helen Moseley wearing a luxurious mink coat over her flame gown, Mrs Bartlett Harwood in chinchilla-trimmed velvet, and Mrs Frederick M. Dearborn Jr (Pauline Moore) wearing a hat and gown of deep red velvet, her long coat collared in silver fox.

Mrs Cox, who is judging harness horses and ponies, wore a fascinating drum major hat trimmed with black Persian with her severe smart black wool frock and pearls. Other front row boxes included those of Mr and Mrs Herbert Bramwell Shaw, with Mrs Shaw gowned in suave black, her black velvet wrap made with a high round collar of ermine; Mr and Mrs George Saltonstall West and Miss Dorothy West, Mrs West wearing simple chic black and Miss Dorothy wrapped in black velvet and silver fox as they talked horses with Miss Eleanor Sears, who wore a diamond clip in her slanting black hat that topped a black gown and a coat of black caracul collared in sable. Mrs Malcolm Bradley French wore a mink coat over her gown of bittersweet satin as she chatted with Mrs William H. Danforth and Mrs William Coburn, who rode last evening in a shiny black hack in the featured Gay Nineties class with trailing sparkling gowns made in the famous mode of the 90's. Mrs Hugh Bancroft Jr wore a mink coat over her gleaming black satin gown as she visited the paddock with Mr Bancroft.

Other boxholders included Mr and Mrs Sidney Winslow, the latter in black and silver gown; Mr and Mrs Arthur H. Lovesy and Mr and Mrs William H. Driscoll, Mr and Mrs Louis M. Ather-ton, Capt and Mrs Wesley A. Young, Maj and Mrs Everett Jenkins, Maj and Mrs Richard Anthony, Dr and Mrs John Elliott, Mr and Mrs Harold R. Sawyer, Mr and Mrs Cutler B. Downer, Col and Mrs Philip Brown, Col and Mrs Dana Gallup, Mr and Mrs Webster Knight 2d, Mr and Mrs Allan R. White, Mr and Mrs Allan J. Wilson, Mr and Mrs William J. Kennedy, Lieut and Mrs Allan Dick and Lieut and Mrs Clifford Perham, Mr and Mrs Harry Good, Mrs Oren Cheney Sanborn and Mrs Freeman Hinckley and Mrs Phineas W. Sprague. Members of the honorary committee attending last evening included Gov James M. Curley and a party including Lieut Col and Mrs Edward C. Donnelly and Miss Katharine Donnelly, Maj Gen Fox Connor and Maj Gen Daniel Needham and a special guest was Gov Louis J. Brann of Maine.

The show will continue through Sunday evening and there will be many dinners before this and Saturday evening's program.

For Providence Bride

Mr and Mrs Hubert Phipps of Middlebury, Va., who are in Providence for the wedding tomorrow of Mrs Phipps' sister, Miss Jane Bucklin, to Mr Kirkland H. Gibson of Chestnut Hill, are entertaining with a dinner this evening at the Agawam Hunt for the bridal party and out-of-town guests. The wedding attendants include Miss Eleanor Gibson of Chestnut Hill, Mrs George Hall Waterman Jr (Helen Marshall) of Chestnut Hill, and another sister of Miss Bucklin, Mrs Pearce Bailey of Paris. Also Mr George Gibson of Chestnut Hill, who will be best man for his brother, Mr Robert Warner and Mr William S. Warner Jr, of Milton, Mr George H. Waterman Jr of Chestnut Hill, Mr Reginald Phelps of Boston, Mr Harris Bucklin Jr of Providence, and Mr William J. Gordon of New York. Miss Meredith Marshall and Miss Louise Chaffee were hostesses at luncheon this noon in honor of Miss Bucklin, who is a daughter of Mr and Mrs Harris H. Bucklin of Providence. Mr Gibson is the son of Mrs Kirkland H. Gibson of Boylston st, Chestnut Hill.

Art Club

A pleasant tea opened the Members' Exhibit of small pictures and sculptures at the Boston Art Club yesterday afternoon, with the pourers at the candle-lit table including Mrs Joseph B. Russell in chrysanthemum red wool frock and hat and fur jacket, Mrs Russell Wight, Miss Amiee Lamb, Miss Margaret Fitzhugh Browne, Mrs Reginald Smith and Mrs Royal Robbins. Mrs Russell's daughter, Miss Isabel, whose landscape, "Blue Hill," is among the pictures exhibited, was also present yesterday, wearing a small hat to match her purple wool frock.

Other artists whose works are in this representative collection include Mrs Channing Frothingham, Mrs Albert F. Bigelow, whose peaceful snow scene is titled "Midwinter"; Mr Arthur I. Musgrave, whose "Moonlit Path" is a study in cool greens; Miss Zaydee Dejonge, with two vivid paintings; Miss Isabella Grandin, with her fresh "October Morning"; Mrs George R. Fearling with her serene water color, "Garden Pool," and Mr Philip Sears and Mrs Robert B. Stone with interesting sculptures.

Christmas Market

The annual St Andrew's Christmas Market will be held in Parish Hall, Wellesley, tomorrow from 10 a m to 10 p m, with Mrs Edgar F. Hathaway in charge.

Some of the special features of the market this year are: "The Yule Log" where, by the open fire, one may enjoy coffee, luncheon or afternoon tea. Mrs William Sutcliffe is the hostess and has genuine antiques, interesting Christmas gifts and greens for sale. Miss Edith Kellogg has planned the Children's Room and arranged a Fishing Well and Post-office with "Grabs" to delight the children. Mrs Lewis Babcock and Mrs Randolph Sides have their usual unique table with articles priced from five to fifty cents. Mrs Arthur C. Harvey is in charge of the supper.

Continued

Concluded

Other chairmen assisting Mrs Hathaway are: Mrs C. B. Hodges, Mrs John Nicholl, Mrs Russell Stearns, Mrs Lester Gurney, Mrs P. W. Havenstein, Mrs W. E. Stanwood, Mrs Merle Saunders, Mrs William Cliff, Mrs Murray Harvey, Mrs Lucius Pratt, Miss Welch, Mrs F. A. Edmands, Mrs F. E. Buxton and Mrs Paul Bacon.

Women's City Club

Mrs Rita Halle Kleeman will be the guest of honor at luncheon at the Women's City Club tomorrow at 1 o'clock. Mrs Kleeman will speak on "Gracious Lady," the biography of Sara Delano Roosevelt, mother of the President. Mrs Reeve Chipman will preside and others attending will be Miss Rose L. Dexter, Mrs C. Guy Lane, Mrs Lorenz F. Muther, Mrs Butler and Mrs Carl Dreyfus.

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square

Boston

Mass.

GLOBE

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

CURLEY AGAIN WILL ASK NEW COURTHOUSE

Initial steps toward resubmitting a P. W. A. project the construction of a Suffolk County Courthouse were taken yesterday by Gov Curley and the Courthouse Commission.

The Government has never taken action on the original project and it is felt enough data was not submitted. A number of P. W. A. projects approved for municipalities throughout the State have since been rejected by the cities and towns and Gov Curley feels the courthouse may now be approved to replace some of those.

The commission has until Dec 15 to place the revised project before the P. W. A. in Washington. Because of the short time left Herbert Parker, a member of the commission, suggested that the project be submitted immediately although the City Council has not yet approved paying 45 percent of the cost which the city must bear.

The commission, headed by Bentley W. Warren, agreed that the project could be submitted without council approval. After a few more details are completed the project will be sent to Washington. Gov Curley said he saw no reason why the project could not be started within 60 days if everybody cooperates.

GLOBE
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

NO DEER KILLED YET IN "REVOLT"

Nantucket Residents Reported Ready To Defy Curley Ban on Hunting

NANTUCKET, Dec 6—"Rebellion" against Executive fiat forbidding deer hunting on Nantucket, which broke out at dawn today, under the leadership of Judge George M. Poland, assumed more amiable proportions early this afternoon, when no deer had been reported killed and state authorities pointed out that rabbit hunting is a lawful pursuit on the island.

Redcapped sportsmen, who stalked their quarry in the coverts and swamps of the island town, soon after the break of a gray, snow-spattered day, might have been legally in search of scampering hares and rabbits, a state official pointed out, when the situation was called to his attention.

Numerous Nantucket residents contacted by a Globe reporter had seen hunters at large and had heard determined statements by hunters that they were going to disregard Gov Curley's mandate closing the deer season here, but this afternoon no arrests had been made and no one had actually been seen shooting at a deer.

In the meantime, bitter winds, a temperature of 12 degrees above zero and a lively snow flurry had kept all but the most venturesome hunters indoors until noontime.

Judge Poland's Statement

Judge Poland, in an earlier statement to the press, had left no doubt of his willingness to test the legality of the state executive ruling which closed the island to deer-hunting Tuesday night after one hunter had been accidentally killed and another dangerously wounded.

"Certainly I intend to go out deer-hunting as soon as the weather moderates," he said. "The Legislature voted an open season on deer and nothing I can find in the statutes authorizes the Governor to close the season except in cases of extreme drought. There is no drought on Nantucket now."

"I don't expect to get a deer, but I'm going, so I can say I went. I can't find any authority whatever for Gov Curley closing the season."

"A lot of fellows around the island have been calling me up. I told them I was going and that if they want to go and get into any trouble, I'd defend them."

"We might as well call Curley's bluff."

"There have been a lot of deer around here. They've been devastating my garden, trimming it up for me, and I think they ought to be thinned out a little."

"Boys Going By With Guns"

During the bitter morning blow Registrar of Probate John Gardner's office became the clearing-house for information on how the "rebellion" was developing.

"Well," said he to the Globe, "I just saw a bunch of boys going by with guns in their car. I don't know whether they had been hunting or not, or what they'd been hunting for. Since Judge Poland made his statement last night, a lot of hunters have been calling me up and asking me about it. I told them the judge promised to defend them and they said: 'That's good enough for me. I'm going.' Irving Wyer, the horse man, said he was going, but I haven't checked up on him yet."

"The game warden (referring to Warden Ernest P. Anyon) was in here for a while this morning and he said he guessed he'd be out looking the boys over this afternoon. There's another carload of them going by now. The weather's clearing up. I guess they'll be at it this afternoon."

Anyon Has His Orders

Game Warden Anyon has orders to arrest anyone who shoots at a deer. The sportsmen are bent on upholding the constitutional right of Massachusetts citizens to hunt deer in the open season decreed by the Legislature, despite the decree of Gov Curley and Director Raymond J. Kenney of the Fish and Game Department banning hunting on Nantucket because one man was killed and another wounded in hunting accidents.

At the State House in Boston it was pointed out that Game Warden Gordon Spofford of Marthas Vineyard had been ordered to Nantucket for the week before the deer season opened, and it was believed this pair of experienced game sleuths would be able to control the situation on the island.

Judge Poland, whose interpretation of the law in the matter is followed devoutly by local sportsmen, is a bona fide Summer resident, with a home on aristocratic Orange st in Nantucket Village. He also frequently sits in Nantucket Probate Court, impressive in his black robes of office. His Winter home is in Wakefield.

According to the judge, the authority to declare open or closed seasons on game is vested in the Legislature and the Governor's authority to close the forests is limited to emergencies

Continued

Concluded

in times of drought. With snow on the ground and plenty of rain in November, it is generally conceded that no drought exists in the "forests" of Nantucket.

The hunters who have paid for their licenses are determined to force an issue as to whether the Legislature or the Governor governs deer hunting on Nantucket.

If Game Warden Anyon makes any arrests today, the case will come up in the local District Court and by virtue of its precedent-setting issue, it is believed that prominent lawyers who Summer on Nantucket will take a hand in the case.

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

GLOBE

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

WIFE DENIES STORY TOLD BY HUTCHINGS

Says Curley's Son in Her
Riding Class

Mrs Mary E. Hutchings, 32, contesting a divorce suit brought by Clarence J. Hutchings, 34 Parker st, Waretown, in Middlesex Probate Court, testified yesterday that she and Gov Curley's son, Francis, were two of a group of six who took riding lessons under the tutelage of a Mr McDonald, riding school master.

She denied previous testimony given by her husband that she sat in McDonald's lap and that they were hugging and kissing at a social affair in a Boston hotel. She asserted she was sitting on the arm of McDonald's chair merely because there were no other vacant chairs in the room. She referred to McDonald as "Hughie," testifying she took riding lessons from him, but did so in a class of six people.

In reference to previous testimony that she came from the Newton restaurant of Harry Gath Jr during the early morning hours of Oct 13, 1933, Mrs Hutchings testified she was passing Gath's restaurant and in a friendly spirit stopped to drive Gath home. She said Gath was in the rear of the restaurant putting away the receipts, and she was waiting for him in front. She heard someone knock on the door, she said, but did not know who it was. Gath told her not to open the door because he was putting away money, she said.

According to previous testimony Hutchings rapped on one of the restaurant windows on that occasion and called his wife's name, but received no response.

The hearing will be resumed today.

GLOBE
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

HUNTERS DEFY NANTUCKET BAN

Say They'll Shoot Today
Despite Warning

Kenney Says Office Will Act on Reported Violations

Threat to Test Power of Decree Scorned Here

Special Dispatch to the Globe

NANTUCKET, Dec 5—Nantucket sportsmen are agitated tonight over a movement to defy the ban on deer hunting placed by the Division of Fisheries and Game by order of Gov Curley. A number of Nantucket gunners say that they will start shooting deer in the morning.

Off-island gunners having returned to their homes, the island fellows claim the danger of casualties among the gunners is over, as they are familiar with roads and swamps.

The claim is made that inasmuch as no emergency exists, the deer season is still open in spite of the Governor's order.

Claim Legal Advice

Hunters here say they have legal advice and if they start shooting in the morning it will be with the understanding that they will be defended in court should arrests follow. Just what action local Game Warden Anyon will take if hunting is resumed no one knows tonight. The order from Director Kenney is that the deer season has been closed indefinitely.

Funeral services were held this afternoon for George Sylvia, the man who was shot Monday and whose death caused the Selectmen to ask the Governor to close the season. There was no delegation of sportsmen in attendance at the services.

HUNTERS IN ATHOL REPORT MORE DEER KILLS IN DAY

ATHOL, Dec 5—Deer hunters were fairly successful in the Athol area today. Lee Dresser and Ray Cole of Spencer killed a 100-pound doe in Petersham.

Maurice Hunt of Gardner a 13-point buck in Phillipston, George Simula of Gardner a 150-pound doe in Royalston and Waino Himmottu of Athel was lucky and killed a 175-pound does in Phillipston.

GLOBE
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Curley Swears in Two

Gov Curley today administered the oath of office to Mary E. Murray of Cambridge as a member of the advisory board of the State Department of Education and to Anna E. Pigeon of Belmont as a member of the advisory board of the State Department of Public Welfare.

GLOBE
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

COOLIDGE TO TELL HIS PLANS JAN 25

He and Curley, Near at
Table, Don't Speak

Refusing to say definitely whether or not he will be a candidate for reelection, United States Senator Marcus A. Coolidge said last night he would make his plans known on Jan 25.

"Two years and a half ago I promised a certain person to tell him on Jan 25, 1936, my future plans," the Senator said. "I believe in keeping an agreement and what anybody says about my future plans at this time is guesswork. I haven't told anybody what I am going to do."

Senator Coolidge was sitting at the head table of the coordination meeting of Federal officials yesterday at the Parker House, when Gov Curley, who this week announced his candidacy for the Senator's seat, came in. Neither spoke as the Governor was escorted to a seat a short distance from Coolidge. The Senator drew his chair back from the table until after the Governor had spoken and left the hall.

CURLEY ADMITS HUNTING BAN VOID

GOVERNOR TAKES JUDGE TO TASK

Appeals to Him to Refrain From Gunning

Although admitting that Judge George M. Poland of Wakefield was within his legal rights in hunting deer on Nantucket Island, despite the closing of the season there by Director of Fisheries and Game Raymond J. Kenney, Gov Curley this afternoon took the Wakefield jurist to task for inviting "others to follow his example and defy public opinion and disregard the safety of the public."

The Nantucket woods were closed Tuesday of this week, the second day of the deer season, after two hunters were shot, one fatally. The move was made by Director Kenney after a storm of protest from islanders.

In a statement this afternoon, Gov Curley admitted that Judge Poland might hunt deer on the island without molestation, despite the ban on shooting there, but reiterated that the toll of dead and injured would not justify the maintaining of the open season during the season originally allotted. The statement follows:

"The statement made by Judge Poland to the effect that there is no law under which he may be prosecuted while shooting deer in the open season in Nantucket is true. The position, however, taken by the judge, who at one time was president of the Massachusetts Fish and Game Association, is most unfortunate, constituting as it does an invitation to other citizens, well intentioned and law abiding and desirous of unholding government, to follow the example set by Judge Poland and defy public opinion and disregard the safety of the public.

"The director of fish and game in Massachusetts, Mr Kenney, estimates that the total number of deer on the island was not in excess of 300 at the time the open season was declared, and that in the first two days, provided all the deer that had been killed had been reported, probably one-third of the entire herd would have been wiped out, and if the same percentage obtained of killed and injured among the citizenship for the remainder of the open season that obtained during the first two days the toll of dead and injured would not justify the maintaining of the open season during the period originally allotted.

"I sincerely trust that Judge Poland, because of the judicial position which he occupies, will recognize that there is a duty to the community and to the public welfare that, even in the absence of law, should be respected by the ordinary citizen

NO DEER KILLED YET IN NANTUCKET "REVOLT"

NANTUCKET, Dec 6—"Rebellion" against Executive fiat forbidding deer hunting on Nantucket, which broke out at dawn today, under the leadership of Judge George M. Poland, assumed more amiable proportions early this afternoon, when no deer had been reported killed and state authorities pointed out that rabbit hunting is a lawful pursuit on the island.

Redcapped sportsmen, who stalked their quarry in the coverts and swamps of the island town, soon after the break of a gray, snow-spattered day, might have been legally in search of scampering hares and rabbits, a state official pointed out, when the situation was called to his attention.

Numerous Nantucket residents contacted by a Globe reporter had seen hunters at large and had heard determined statements by hunters that they were going to disregard Gov Curley's mandate closing the deer season here, but this afternoon no arrests had been made and no one had actually been seen shooting at a deer.

GAME WARDEN E. P. ANYON

In the meantime, bitter winds, a temperature of 12 degrees above zero and a lively snow flurry had kept all but the most venturesome hunters indoors until noon.

Judge Poland's Statement

Judge Poland, in an earlier statement to the press, had left no doubt of his willingness to test the legality of the state executive ruling which closed the island to deer-hunting Tuesday night after one gunner had been accidentally killed and another dangerously wounded.

"Certainly I intend to go out deer-hunting as soon as the weather moderates," he said. "The Legislature voted an open season on deer and nothing I can find in the statutes authorizes the Governor to close the season except in cases of extreme drought. There is no drought on Nantucket now."

"I don't expect to get a deer, but I'm going, so I can say I went. I can't find any authority whatever for Gov Curley closing the season."

"A lot of fellows around the island have been calling me up. I told them I was going and that if they want to go and get into any trouble, I'd defend them."

"We might as well call Curley's bluff."

"There have been a lot of deer around here. They've been devastating my garden, trimming it up for office became the clearing-house for information on how the "rebellion" was developing.

Continued

Concluded

"Well," said he to the Globe, "I just saw a bunch of boys going by with guns in their car. I don't know whether they had been hunting or not, or what they'd been hunting for. Since Judge Poland made his statement last night, a lot of hunters have been calling me up and asking me about it. I told them the judge promised to defend them and they said: 'That's good enough for me. I'm going.' Irving Wyer, the horse man, said he was going, but I haven't checked up on him yet.

"The game warden (referring to Warden Ernest P. Anyon) was in here for a while this morning and he said he guessed he'd be out looking the boys over this afternoon. There's another carload of them going by now. The weather's clearing up. I guess they'll be at it this afternoon."

Anyon Has His Orders

Game Warden Anyon has orders to arrest anyone who shoots at a deer. The sportsmen are bent on upholding the constitutional right of Massachusetts citizens to hunt deer in the open season decreed by the Legislature, despite the decree of Gov Curley and Director Raymond J. Kenney of the Fish and Game Department banning hunting on Nantucket because one man was killed and another wounded in hunting accidents.

At the State House in Boston it was pointed out that Game Warden Gordon Spofford of Marthas Vineyard had been ordered to Nantucket for the week before the deer season opened, and it was believed this pair of experienced game sleuths would be able to control the situation on the island.

Judge Poland, whose interpretation of the law in the matter is followed devoutly by local sportsmen, is a bona fide Summer resident, with a home on aristocratic Orange st in Nantucket Village. He also frequently sits in Nantucket Probate Court, impressive in his black robes of office. His Winter home is in Wakefield.

According to the judge, the authority to declare open or closed seasons on game is vested in the Legislature and the Governor's authority to close the forests is limited to emergencies in times of drought. With snow on the ground and plenty of rain in November, it is generally conceded that no drought exists in the "forests" of Nantucket.

The hunters who have paid for their licenses are determined to force an issue as to whether the Legislature or the Governor governs deer hunting on Nantucket.

If Game Warden Anyon makes any arrests today, the case will come up in the local District Court and by virtue of its precedent-setting issue, it is believed that prominent lawyers who Summer on Nantucket will take a hand in the case.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

GLOBE
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

ELECTRIC RATE SLASH ALLOWED IN MALDEN

Reduction to Be Effective
Jan 1—Saves $105,000

Special Dispatch to the Globe

MALDEN, Dec 5—The Malden Electric Company announced today its second reduction in electricity rates within eight months, through general manager Joshua T. Day.

Details of the new schedule were not revealed, but it is understood that it will represent a saving both to the private and the commercial consumer. The first reduction last April represented a saving of $105,000.

The present reduction will be filed on or before Dec 16, and go into effect on Jan 1, 1936. It will represent approximately a saving of $100,000. Mr Day said today that the company hoped to make up most of the loss through increased use of electricity and the new trade the reduction should stimulate.

Both reductions have been worked out in conjunction with Gov Curley's special public utilities commission.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

GLOBE
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

WOULD FIX INTEREST ON HOME LOANS AT 5 PERCENT

A bill to set a limit of five percent interest on home mortgages was filed in the Legislature yesterday by Representative Katherine A. Foley of Lawrence. The prevailing rate is 5½ percent, a figure set voluntarily by bankers last Winter on the recommendation of Gov Curley. Prior to that the rate was six percent.

GLOBE
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

KENNEY WARNS HUNTERS
LAW WILL BE ENFORCED

Informed that hunters on Nantucket plan today to defy the ban on deer hunting and enter the swamps and woodlands there, Raymond J. Kenney, director of the State Department of Fisheries and Game, stated that as far as his department is concerned the season on Nantucket is closed and a $100 fine per deer is still the law.

"I know no reason why the law should not be enforced," Director Kenney said last night. "I think the fine is $100 per deer. Of course, we never cross any bridge until we come to it and so I can't say anything until I learn definitely the ban has been violated.

"On Tuesday there were about 50 off-islanders there. Even if they are gone and even if the residents know the locality, that does not mean there will not be fatal accidents."

There is one warden on the island, Ernest Anyon. He is acquainted with most of the residents. In cases of violation he usually takes the names and license numbers of the violators and later swears out complaints. In cases of persons he does not know, or who refuse answers, he makes arrests.

Director Kenney could not say when there will be another deer season on the island. He estimated there are about 300 or 400 deer there now. He said that in all likelihood the situation will be discussed by the next Legislature, because of the concern of the Nantucket farmers and hunters.

Only twice in the history of Nantucket has there been a deer season. The first was last February, when, by special act of the Legislature, the season was opened because the herd, grown from two deer rescued off the island about 15 years ago, was destroying the crops.

The second season opened this week, but lasted only two days because during that time one man, George Sylvia, whose funeral was held yesterday, was killed, and another man was seriously wounded. The small area of the island was blamed for both casualties. The Selectmen petitioned Gov Curley to call off the season, and their petition was honored.

GLOBE
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

stocks of trousers tailored with talon

CURLEY SIGNS WARRANT
TO EXTRADITE RALPH PICO

Gov Curley today signed a warrant for the extradition of Ralph Pico to Maine, where he is wanted for alleged unreasonably neglecting to support his wife and his minor child.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

GLOBE
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

Governor's Mail Heavy
Gov Curley said today that he received more than 150 pieces of mail at his home this morning. "I guess 75 of them must have been requests for Christmas baskets, and at least 50 of them requests for jobs."

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

HERALD
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

PATRICK H. BRENNAN

Former Boston Councilman Dies at Home in Canton

CANTON, Dec. 5—Patrick H. Brennan, former Boston city councilman, and at the time of his retirement seven years ago custodian of the Grover Cleveland school, Dorchester, died today at his home, 441 Walpole street. He was 77 last Sunday.

The funeral will be held from the home on Saturday morning, with a solemn high mass of requiem at St. John's Church at 10 o'clock. Burial will be in Mt. Benedict cemetery, West Roxbury.

Mr. Brennan was born in Dorchester, the son of Patrick and Margaret (Condry) Brennan. He was a lifelong resident of the Roxbury and Dorchester districts until his removal to this town seven years ago. His service in the old Boston City Council in 1898-9, from old ward 17, preceded the present Gov. James M. Curley's term, which immediately followed Mr. Brennan's. He was a member for years of the old Dudley council, Knights of Columbus, of Roxbury.

Surviving him are four daughters, three sons, 17 grandchildren and a great grandchild. His daughters are Mrs. William L. Brennan of Hingham; Mrs. Victor Nosiglia, also of Hingham; Mrs. John Waldman and Miss Edith L. Brennan, both of this town. The sons are Henry S. Brennan of Brighton; James A. Brennan of New York city, and George W. Brennan of Dorchester.

HERALD
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

Freedom Sought

MRS. ADA P. CRABTREE
Former assistant bank treasurer of Lynn, who is serving an 18-months sentence in the house of correction in Salem for larceny.

SEEKS PAROLE FOR DAUGHTER

Mother of Lynn Woman
Jailed for Larceny Will See Curley Today

SALEM, Dec. 5—Told by county authorities here today that they could do nothing to effect the release of her daughter, Ms. A. Vickery, 70, mother of Mrs. Ada Pauline Crabtree, 37-year-old former Lynn assistant bank treasurer, who is serving an 18-months sentence in the house of correction here for larceny, said that she would seek an audience with Gov. James M. Curley tomorrow. Mrs. Vickery asked Charles A. Salisbury, probation officer to free her daughter, but was told he could do nothing until the former woman bank official is eligible for parole next February.

Mrs. Crabtree was sentenced for the larceny of $20,000 from a Lynn bank, where she was employed, last February. George Bishop, 32, formerly of the Hotel Edison of Lynn, got a state's prison term on a charge of conspiring with Mrs. Crabtree in the larceny.

Mrs. Vickery, who lives at 23 Dearborn avenue, said that her husband, George A. Vickery, is ill and grief-stricken because of their daughter's imprisonment. Her daughter has also lost weight because of the punishment, she said. She said her daughter received letters from Bishop, which stated that he was responsible for the theft of the money and was willing to take full blame for the offence.

The elderly mother said she will seek the aid of Senator Benjamin Cole of Lynn, in presenting her plea before the chief executive. A number of leading citizens of Lynn have promised their support, she said.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

HERALD
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

DEMOCRATIC WOMEN TO MEET

The All-Boston Women's Democratic Club will hold its monthly meeting at the Hotel Brunswick Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The speaker will be Rep. Michael J. Ward, and there will be a musicale under the direction of Madame Shari de Lys.

It is expected the announcement of Gov. Curley's candidacy for senator will be unanimously approved by the club members.

HERALD
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR DENNIS REARDON

State and City Officials Attend Roxbury Services

Representatives of state and city as well as a large number of friends and associates in public and fraternal life attended the funeral mass for former Representative Dennis F. Reardon of 200 Riverway, at the Mission Church, Roxbury, yesterday morning.

The Rev. John Keegan, C. SS. R., was celebrant of the requiem high mass, with the Rev. John Breslin, deacon, and the Rev. Mark DeCoste, sub-deacon. Interment was at St. Joseph's cemetery, West Roxbury. The bearers were City Treasurer John H. Dorsey, Michael H. Looney, Jeremiah Crowley, John Casey, Richard Hickey and Arthur Lennon.

Officials present included Mayor Mansfield, Councillor Daniel H. Coakley, Civil Service Commissioner Thomas H. Green, Col. Thomas F. Sullivan of the transit commission, Judge Frank Burke, Chairman David B. Shaw of the election commission, Maj. Joseph Timilty of Gov. Curley's military staff, and Park Commissioner William P. Long.

DEC 6 1935

Audrey Thomas's Jamboree Annexes First Blue at 110th Cavalry Exhibition Knight Bachelor, National Champion, Wins Blue for Single Harness Horses For Judy King at 110th Cavalry Show

By ART WALSH

Judy King's National heavy harness champion, Knight Bachelor, occupied the center of the ring at the colorful opening session of the eighth annual 110th Cavalry horse show at Commonwealth Armory last night, as Patty O'Connell rode the Atlanta ace to the blue ribbon and the cash award in the class for single harness horses between 14.2 and 15.2 hands for the most significant triumph of the affair.

PERFORMANCE EFFORTLESS

The country's standout harness performer was arrayed against Woodridge farm's Seaton Sappho from Huntington, Pa.; Greyholme stable's Broompark Chancellor and the same stable's Sanderstead Empress but its effortless way of going and its faultless make-up won for it the top award from Mrs. William C. Cox and Charles Barrie.

Another standout, oGld Digger, Terre Haute farm's five-gaited stake winner at the Madison Square Garden affair, also lived up to expectations with a victory in the event for five-gaited stallions or geldings, with such ace performers as Audrey Thomas's Cocktail Hour, Mason Cook's Brilliant Knight and John J. McCarthy's Easter Parade trailing her. The Connecticut chestnut gelding was as much the class of his field as was the Georgia brown gelding.

These and other conquests made the opening session the most attractive of any Boston show of recent years, with only failure to adhere to the set time schedule detracting. Presentations by Gov. Curley of Massachusetts, Gov. Brann of Maine and Mrs. Edward Donnelly, exhibitions of old-time horse-drawn fire apparatus and the appearance of Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey's premiere equestrienne were some of the extra curricula activities which made the 15-class affair something more than merely a horse show.

Slow to get rolling, the early events presented several classes of real interest, with Helen Balfour's victory on her newly acquired Cardinal Chief, in the novice saddle group for horses under 15.2 hands, one of the outstanding achievements. The Chatham girl, one of the best riders in New England, any age, put the chestnut gelding, which stands 15.134, through his paces in faultless manner to annex the blue rosette.

Charles Beebe's Bohemian Melody took the red here, with Kay Murphy riding Envoy to the yellow and Marni Mitchell's Ukraine in for fourth, Sam James guided Jack Lewis's Victor Rex to the blue in the class over 15.2 to share early laurels with Miss Balfour.

The harness division of the Gay Nineties group created the usual keen interest, being divided into junior and senior groups.

The blue went to Lois Driscoll and John Elliot in their red sleigh with Carolyn Elliot, Barbara Driscoll and Billy Elliott taking second in a pony cart. Helen Danforth and Priscilla Murphy were third here.

The senior competition was captured by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beebe in a spider phaeton, second going to Ursula and Elise Burkard, third to George and Eleanor Dodge, fourth to Barbara McGoldrick, fifth to Mildred Place and Nancy Shea and sixth to Dr. and Mrs. Wallace Orcutt.

Replete with color, this split division brought out the usual antiquated vehicles and costumes which make this class so unique. And tomorrow night, when the costume division is presented, the effect should be multiplied tenfold.

AROUND THE RING

The first blue of the 1935 cavalry horse show went to Audrey Thomas's Jamboree, the best model saddle horse over 14.2 hands. This class brought out some excellent mounts and was a fitting start to the exhibition.

The new set-up is a 100 per cent. improvement over last year's layout. The promenade was used extensively and the Boston Garden jumps and rails are both practical and attractive.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin B. Farnsworth started off where they finished a year ago, and their Sprig Leaf, one of the section's better hunters, beat out Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kennedy's Erin's Son in the model hunter division.

The limit harness horse event was a near-sweep for Greyholme Stable, with Broompark Chancellor, Seaton Rags and Seayon Belinda taking first, second and fourth, with Manor Hackney Farm's Excelsior from Ontario breaking in for third place.

Jackie Lewis's Victor Rex was the best novice saddle horse over 15.2 hands. There were six awards here, with May Morn, Dwight's Choice, Don Quixote, Prairie Fire and Vigilon also in for Rosettes.

Lightweight polo ponies gave a really interesting exhibition, providing many spectators with a glimpse of something entirely new. The class of the group was Rufus Wesson's Slipaway, 2nd, with Wesson riding. Ralph Symmes guided his Fairly Wild to the red.

The Malden American Legion post 69 bugle and drum corps gave an exhibition midway through the program, with Ernest Place as drum major. And of course the 110th Cavalry band did its share on the musical end.

Dorothy Herbert, circus equestrienne and the horse drawn apparatus of the Waltham fire department added to the color of this inaugural, with each meriting the enthusiastic applause received.

Esther James's gray mare received her first New England defeat last night, getting only fourth place in the saddle pony class for performers between 13.2 and 14.2 hands. Miriam Winslow's Hob Nob Girl, Georgia Faulkner up, was tops here with Jane Callahan's Hob Nob. Winslow star, in for second ahead of Mrs. Harold E. Sawyer's On Parade. Elise Burkard on Jack of Hearts and Ursula on Tramp were next in line here.

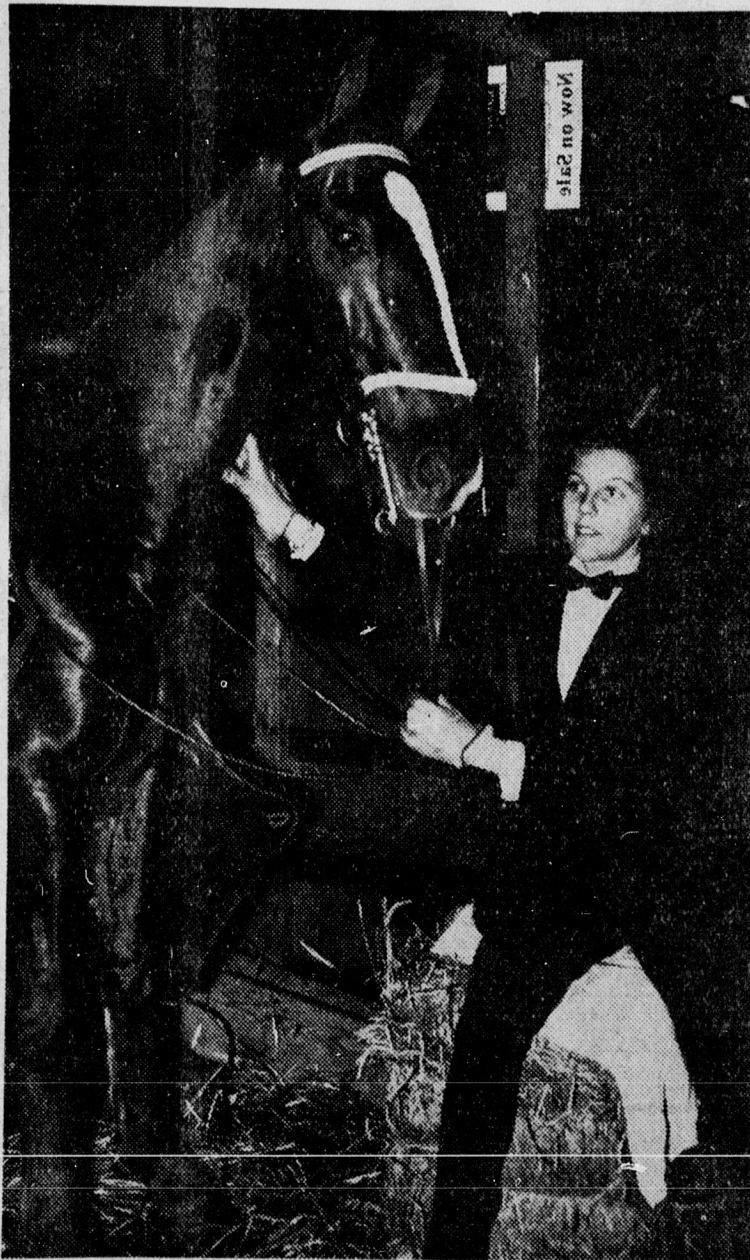

Malley McGuire and Kennedy jumpers monopolized the green hunter class. Bachelor's Flower took the heavy division over a smart field and Erin's Son, Ace of the Brookline string, led the light weight field.

Dress uniform, dress suits and the latest in evening wear for the ladies was on display in all quarters, with the many flags and other decorations transforming the usually drab armory into a gaudy and gay arena.

And the officers chargers event, while not as colorful as the military classes at New York and Toronto, nevertheless contributed a note seen too seldom in local shows. The ordinary is always welcome in an affair of this kind.

concluded

EARLY WINNERS IN OPENING OF 110TH CAVAL

Left—Helen Balfour of Chatham with Cardinals Chief, which she rode to victory in the second event of last night. The event was for novice saddle horses under 15.2 hands and Miss Balfour handled her newly acquired champion. Right—Mrs. Calvin Farnsworth of Sterling Junction with her winning model hunter, Sprig Lea.

DEC 6 1935

Audrey Thomas's Jamboree Annexes First Blue at 110th Cavalry Exhibition Knight Bachelor, National Champion, Wins Blue for Single Harness Horses For Judy King at 110th Cavalry Show

By ART WALSH

Judy King's National heavy harness champion, Knight Bachelor, occupied the center of the ring at the colorful opening session of the eighth annual 110th Cavalry horse show at Commonwealth Armory last night, as Patty O'Connell rode the Atlanta ace to the blue ribbon and the cash award in the class for single harness horses between 14.2 and 15.2 hands for the most significant triumph of the affair.

PERFORMANCE EFFORTLESS

The country's standout harness performer was arrayed against Woodridge farm's Seaton Sappho from Huntington, Pa.; Greyholme stable's Broompark Chancellor and the same stable's Sanderstead Empress but its effortless way of going and its faultless make-up won for it the top award from Mrs. William C. Cox and Charles Barrie.

Another standout, oGld Digger, Terre Haute farm's five-gaited stake winner at the Madison Square Garden affair, also lived up to expectations with a victory in the event for five-gaited stallions or geldings, with such ace performers as Audrey Thomas's Cocktail Hour, Mason Cook's Brilliant Knight and John J. McCarthy's Easter Parade trailing her. The Connecticut chestnut gelding was as much the class of his field as was the Georgia brown gelding.

These and other conquests made the opening session the most attractive of any Boston show of recent years, with only failure to adhere to the set time schedule detracting. Presentations by Gov. Curley of Massachusetts, Gov. Brann of Maine and Mrs. Edward Donnelly, exhibitions of old-time horse-drawn fire apparatus and the appearance of Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey's premiere equestrienne were some of the extra curricula activities which made the 15-class affair something more than merely a horse show.

Slow to get rolling, the early events presented several classes of real interest, with Helen Balfour's victory on her newly acquired Cardinal Chief, in the novice saddle group for horses under 15.2 hands, one of the outstanding achievements. The Chatham girl, one of the best riders in New England, any age, put the chestnut gelding, which stands 15.13/4, through his paces in faultless manner to annex the blue rosette.

Charles Beebe's Bohemian Melody took the red here, with Kay Murphy riding Envoy to the yellow and Marni Mitchell's Ukraine in for fourth, Sam James guided Jack Lewis's Victor Rex to the blue in the class over 15.2 to share early laurels with Miss Balfour.

The harness division of the Gay Nineties group created the usual keen interest, being divided into junior and senior groups.

The blue went to Lois Driscoll and John Elliot in their red sleigh with Carolyn Elliot, Barbara Driscoll and Billy Elliott taking second in a pony cart. Helen Danforth and Priscilla Murphy were third here.

The senior competition was captured by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beebe in a spider phaeton, second going to Ursula and Elise Burkard, third to George and Eleanor Dodge, fourth to Barbara McGoldrick, fifth to Mildred Place and Nancy Shea and sixth to Dr. and Mrs. Wallace Orcutt.

Replete with color, this split division brought out the usual antiquated vehicles and costumes which make this class so unique. And tomorrow night, when the costume division is presented, the effect should be multiplied tenfold.

AROUND THE RING

The first blue of the 1935 cavalry horse show went to Audrey Thomas's Jamboree, the best model saddle horse over 14.2 hands. This class brought out some excellent mounts and was a fitting start to the exhibition.

The new set-up is a 100 per cent. improvement over last year's layout. The promenade was used extensively and the Boston Garden jumps and rails are both practical and attractive.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin B. Farnsworth started off where they finished a year ago, and their Sprig Leaf, one of the section's better hunters, beat out Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kennedy's Erin's Son in the model hunter division.

The limit harness horse event was a near-sweep for Greyholme Stable, with Broompark Chancellor, Seaton Rags and Seayon Belinda taking first, second and fourth, with Manor Hackney Farm's Excelsior from Ontario breaking in for third place.

Jackie Lewis's Victor Rex was the best novice saddle horse over 15.2 hands. There were six awards here, with May Morn, Dwight's Choice, Don Quixote, Prairie Fire and Vigilon also in for Rosettes.

Lightweight polo ponies gave a really interesting exhibition, providing many spectators with a glimpse of something entirely new. The class of the group was Rufus Wesson's Slipaway, 2nd, with Wesson riding. Ralph Symmes guided his Fairly Wild to the red.

The Malden American Legion post 69 bugle and drum corps gave an exhibition midway through the program, with Ernest Place as drum major. And of course the 110th Cavalry band did its share on the musical end.

Dorothy Herbert, circus equestrienne and the horse drawn apparatus of the Waltham fire department added to the color of this inaugural, with each meriting the enthusiastic applause received.

Esther James's gray mare received her first New England defeat last night, getting only fourth place in the saddle pony class for performers between 13.2 and 14.2 hands. Miriam Winslow's Hob Nob Girl, Georgia Faulkner up, was tops here with Jane Callahan's Hob Nob. Winslow star, in for second ahead of Mrs. Harold P. Sawyer's On Parade. Elise Burkard on Jack of Hearts and Ursula on Tramp were next in line here.

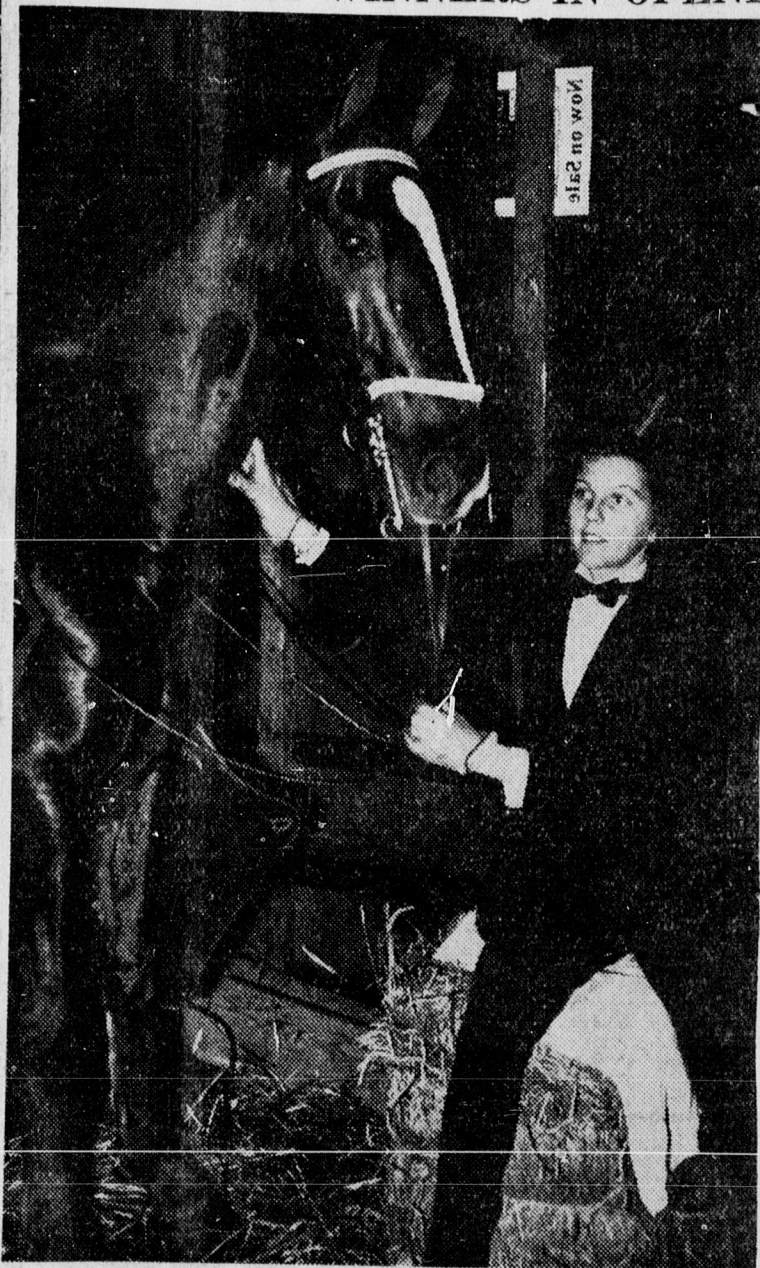

Malley McGuire and Kennedy jumpers monopolized the green hunter class. Bachelor's Flower took the heavy division over a smart field and Erin's Son, Ace of the Brookline string, led the light weight field.

Dress uniform, dress suits and the latest in evening wear for the ladies was on display in all quarters, with the many flags and other decorations transforming the usually drab armory into a gaudy and gay arena.

And the officers chargers event, while not as colorful as the military classes at New York and Toronto, nevertheless contributed a note seen too seldom in local shows. The extraordinary is always welcome in an affair of this kind.

concluded

EARLY WINNERS IN OPENING OF 110TH CAVALRY SHOW

Left—Helen Balfour of Chatham with Cardinals Chief, which she rode to victory in the second event of last night's program at Commonwealth armory. The event was for novice saddle horses under 15.2 hands and Miss Balfour handled her newly acquired charger faultlessly. Right—Mrs. Calvin Farnsworth of Sterling Junction with her winning model hunter, Sprig Leaf.

HERALD
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

BENEFITS LAID
TO NEW DEAL43 U. S. Agencies Put on
One-Day Exhibit at Parker House

By EDWARD ALLEN

Forty-three bureaus, agencies, and divisions of the federal government staged a one-day exposition of the New Deal at the Parker House yesterday in an attempt to show they had helped to obtain a measure of recovery in Massachusetts.

Replete with speeches, charts, and statistics, the exhibition presented the following claims:

Massachusetts made more shoes this year than in 1929.

Imports of raw wool are up 700 per cent. in a single year.

Collection of miscellaneous federal taxes in October reached a new all-time high, showing record collections on gasoline, jewelry, amusements, radios, toilet preparations, and luxuries. They were $3,000,000 higher than in October 1934.

Automobile registrations for corresponding periods of the year in the state were 915,549 in 1933; 929,86 in 1934; 937,211 this year.

Deposits in Boston federal reserve member banks increased from $989,000,000 Nov. 20, 1934 to $1,066,000,00 this year.

Weekly check transactions in 1 New England cities for the week of Nov. 20 were $533,200,000 as compared with $426,100,000 a year ago.

All sales in Massachusetts were $19,291,531 in September compared with $17,824,740 in the corresponding period a year ago.

Total federal tax collections in this state for corresponding periods were $43,781,495 in 1933; $70,272,953 in 1934; and $106,662,220 this year.

Collection of customs jumped from $7,615,995 during the period, July 1 to Nov. 30, 1934, to $10,945,263 for the same period this year.

Wool imports in the same periods jumped from 3,603,212 pounds in 1934 to 28,366,745 pounds this year.

The HOLC at Boston saved the homes of 23,000 property owners and lent $100,000 after sifting 51,000 applications, of which 18,000 were received during the first six weeks of its existence.

The ERA since April 1, 1934, has spent $103,469,000 toward 30,000 projects in this state and has distributed an additional $5,627,000 in surplus commodities.

This distribution amounted to $19.12 per capita in 1934, causing the tax rate in one Massachusetts town to stay at $42 this year instead of jumping to $92, and preventing an increase of $40 in the tax rate of another town, which set its tax rate at $51 instead of $91. For towns and cities representing half the population of the state, the average tax rate was $38 in the larger cities instead of a possible $52 without federal help; $39 in the medium-sized cities instead of a threatened $61, and $42 in the towns instead of a threatened $68.

After lending $181,000,000 in New England, the RFC has been repaid $110,000,000, and has only $71,000,000 in loans outstanding. The national RFC, after collecting $3,100,000,000 of $5,700,000,000 lent, now shows a profit of $113,000,000.

Textile machinery company payrolls in this state were: $5,153,252 in 1932; $7,987,840 in 1933; $9,375,405 last year.

Textile payrolls in this state in 1932 were $60,277,698; in 1933, $79,209,975; in 1934, $85,478,243.

Shoep production in this state for corresponding periods was 311,203,395 pairs in 1929; 310,067,519 pairs in 1933; 306,591,943 pairs in 1934; and 320,811,980 pairs this year.

Construction contracts in Massachusetts awarded during the first 10 months of 1933 were $44,164,300; in 1934, $60,949,000; in 1935; $72,199,100.

Private building permits in Massachusetts have jumped from $8,114,019 in 1933 to $10,037,139 for the same period this year.

Life insurance sales in this state climbed from $226,283,000 for 10 months in 1933 to $229,187,000 this year, although they are $5,000,000 below the corresponding period last year.

ARRIVAL OF CURLEY

Gov. Curley, who arrived late accompanied by Lt. Gov. Joseph L. Hurley, said that what the new deal needed was more advertising and better salesmanship. He described two trips through Iowa, one during the campaign of 1932 and the second a few weeks ago. He said there were paint on the houses, screens on the windows, smoke in factory chimneys, flesh on the cattle, and profits in crops, and attributed this condition to the new deal.

Joseph A. Maynard, collector of customs, appealed to the federal officials attending the meeting to publicize the fact that the government was offering rewards of 25 per cent. of the appraised value of seized goods and fines in an attempt to stop rum-running which reduced the income of the legitimate liquor business and the government.

Although the meeting and display was ordered by President Roosevelt in conjunction with similar meetings in each of the 48 states, Frank H. Foy, regional co-ordinator for the national emergency council, avoided advance publicity, and described it as a get-together for the federal family to create a better understanding of the functions of the various bureaus.

Speakers were Senator Coolidge, representing the congressional delegation present; Mayor Mansfield, William M. Welch, collector of internal revenue; Joseph P. Carney, RFC administrator; Peter Ham, of the FCA; Edmund J. Brandon, of the SEC; Col. John J. Kingman, of the army engineers corps.

Lt.-Col. Max A. Elser, of the army quartermaster corps; Capt. Frederick H. Cooke, of the U. S. navy; Col. William J. Blake, of the veterans' administration; Arthur G. Rotch, WPA administrator; Col. Frank Lenane, assistant PWA engineer; Ralph E. Tribou, of the bureau of public roads; Edward L. Casey, of the NYA; Miss Lauretta C. Bresnahan, of the CCC; Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert, of the AAA; Miss Mary H. Ward, immigration commissioner; Frederick P. Clark, of the national resources committee; Daniel J. LeHand, of the HOLC; John F. Malley, of the FHA, and Dwight L. Hoopingarner, of the PWA housing division.

Brandon praised the New England Power Association for being the first big public utility to register under the SEC. He said that after being hostile at first, the big brokerage houses of Wall street would now be the first to oppose its abandonment.

In reply to a statement of Lewis Douglas, former director of the budget, that the government would have to provide new financing because private companies wouldn't risk it under the SEC, Brandon said $2,200,000,000 in new financing was registered with the SEC in the first eight months this year to approach the peak of any new financing period in the country's history.

Capt. Cooke urged Massachusetts patriots to do something to obtain an improvement of the approach to the entrance to the Navy yard, which he described as "up an alley." Postmaster Peter F. Tague replied that when he and Gov. Curley were in Congress, it was a navy admiral who had opposed the project.

Miss Ward said that because of the present hue and cry of politicians against aliens in public jobs and on relief, many were applying for naturalization papers. She said 27,409 first papers have been issued this year as compared with 15,921 a year ago; and 22,539 second papers as compared with 13,974 a year ago.

There were admitted 17,322 new citizens in New England this year, compared with 12,757 a year ago.

concluded

AT MEETING OF FEDERAL AGENCY OFFICIALS

Gov. Curley and Congressman Edith Nourse Rogers enjoying a chuckle at yesterday's conference of federal agency officials at the Parker House.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

HERALD

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

CANADIAN MINISTER VISITS BOSTON TODAY

Will Visit Governor, Mayor and Address Canadian Club

J. Lorimer Isley, minister of national revenue of the Canadian government, is due to arrive in Boston at 8 A.M. today to be the guest speaker tonight at the 35th annual banquet and ladies' night of the Canadian Club of Boston. The affair will be at the Hotel Vendome.

The cabinet minister, who hails from the Hants-Kings constituency in Nova Scotia, will be met at the train by a reception committee of the club, the chairman of which is Frank Turner, manager of the Canadian National Steamships. The committee includes E. Gordon Goudey, president of the Club; J. Ernest Kerr, its vice-president; Richard Joinstone, a Boston attorney, and Harry Wickwire, a personal friend of the minister.

The official program arranged for him this morning consists of a call on Mayor Mansfield at the City Hall at 11 A.M., and a call on Gov. Curley at the State House at 11:30 A.M. Both the Governor and the Mayor and Mrs. Mansfield have accepted invitations to attend the banquet and reception tonight. The reception will take place at 6:30 P.M., the dinner at 7 o'clock, to be followed by the speaking, with dancing from 10 P.M. to midnight.

This noon there will be a luncheon to the visitor at the Copley-Plaza Hotel.

HERALD
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Judge to Defy Curley's Nantucket Hunting Ban

Poland to Hunt Deer, 'Call Bluff' Of Governor

KENNEY IS READY TO ARREST HIM

[By a Staff Correspondent of The Herald]

NANTUCKET, Dec. 5—Defying the authority of Gov. Curley to close the deer hunting season on Nantucket, as was done last Tuesday, Judge George M. Poland of Wakefield announced here tonight that he would go out tomorrow morning and attempt to shoot a deer.

At the same time, Judge Poland, a probate court judge who presides here intermittently, urged local sportsmen to ignore the ban and offered to defend free any man arrested. It was indicated the Sportsmen's Club might follow his lead and begin firing again.

Declaring that he was "calling the bluff of Gov. Curley and Raymond J. Kenney, state director of fish and game," Judge Poland issued the following statement:

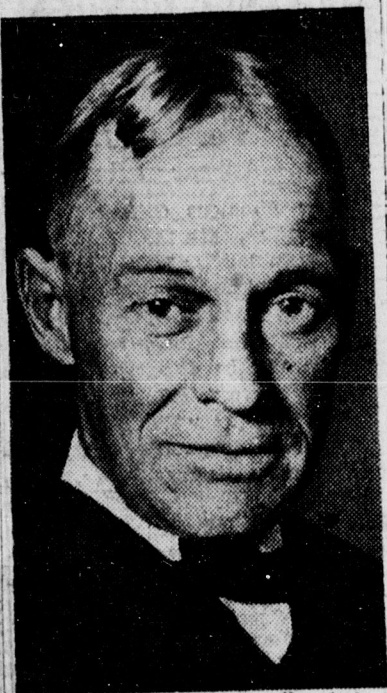

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the Governor to close the season, except in cases of extreme drought.

"There is no drought. There is snow on the ground."

Judge Poland said further that he had made several attempts during the day to communicate with Kenney to inform him of his intention of shooting a deer tomorrow, but was unsuccessful.

Game Warden Ernest P. Annyon of Nantucket said he had no alternative except to enforce the law. "Anyone hunting deer during a closed season may expect to face the court if caught," he said.

As a result of Judge Poland's defiance of the Governor, members of the Sportsmen's Club here were considering joining him in ignoring the ban on hunting. Leaders of this group have sent several wires to Gov. Curley since the Tuesday edict, but have not received a satisfactory reply, they said.

JUDGE GEORGE M. POLAND

Hunting enthusiasts here were outspoken in their condemnation of the ban. They charged that the Governor was catering for political purposes to the local board of selectmen, who requested that hunting be stopped.

Gov. Curley acted after the death of George Sylvia, a guide, who was shot by an unidentified hunter in the woods here, and after the wounding of William Medeiros, a hunter.

Judge Poland, a Harvard graduate, is 59 and has long been known as a sports enthusiast. In 1931 he and his son Warren were missing four days off the Massachusetts coast in a 34-foot schooner after they started from Boston for Nantucket, where the judge was scheduled to sit in probate court.

After a search by 26 coast guard vessels and several planes their craft was sighted off the shore of Chatham and towed to port.

READY FOR ARREST

Kenney Says Poland Will Be Prosecuted If He Hunts

Informed of Judge George M. Poland's announced intention of shooting a deer on Nantucket Island, despite the official ban on hunting there, Raymond J. Kenney, state director of fish and game, said last night at his Belmont home:

"If he does, we will proceed in the usual manner. He will be booked and summoned into court like anybody else.

"There is not the least question in my mind that there is ample authority for my order forbidding further hunting on the island. And I know nothing of any provision that would limit such a decree to a period of extreme drouth.

"It would be a silly situation indeed if the fish and game commission were charged with the preservation and conservation of wild life, and then left without the power to take steps necessary for this purpose.

"I issued this order after a consultation with the Governor. Inhabitants of the island had called his attention to the situation there, and asked him to do something about it. This is the answer.

"The prime reason for the order is the fact that we consider hunting by a large number of men in such a small area extremely dangerous, as proved by the two accidents that have already occurred this week. The order is therefore for the public safety. The fact that the 50 off-island hunters, who were on Nantucket Tuesday, have returned to the mainland does not alter the situation to any great extent.

"There is also every reason to believe that on an island like Nantucket too many deer are killed. Last February, for example, 65 were slaughtered in a single day. Just because Nantucket is an island, the hunters can literally surround their quarry and turn the place into a shambles. Unlike the mainland, the island affords the animals no chance to escape.

"I am firmly convinced that the fish and game commission has ample authority to forbid hunting in a given area in an emergency of this kind even when the Legislature has declared an open season. If Judge Poland wants a court test of this, he'll get it if he violates the order. Nantucket is small enough to give us a chance to 'arrest' every violator of the order."

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1935

REVOLT AGAINST THE NEW DEAL

The latest returns of the Literary Digest poll verify the opinion of many people that the political currents which were running in Rhode Island last August are strong in Massachusetts. The 78.7 percentage in Massachusetts against the New Deal's acts and policies as of today is higher than that of any other state vote yet compiled. President Roosevelt, it should be remembered, obtained 63,000 more votes here than Hoover in 1932, and the New Deal representatives were very popular in the 1934 congressional campaigns.

With Massachusetts and Rhode Island vigorously opposed to the New Deal, the chances are that the other four states will show a lusty anti-New Deal sentiment. They have been more sturdy in their Republicanism. The common remark of the last few months that Roosevelt could not carry a single New England state apparently expresses much more than wishful thinking.

As the Literary Digest has now polled about 422,000 voters in eighteen states, the figures are becoming more and more significant. The trend is still anti-New Deal to the extent of 55.6 per cent. In general the South is on one side, and none too enthusiastically. The rest of the country is decidedly on the other. The non-southern states now heard from for the first time are all critical of the administration. Massachusetts differs from them only in the vehemence of its protests.

The most partisan of Republicans will not argue that these early results indicate the outcome of the 1936 presidential contest. On the other hand, the most intense of Democrats will admit that the drift is away from the New Deal. In 1934, when a similar questionnaire was issued, sixty out of every hundred voters preferred the New Deal. Now, only about forty-four out of every hundred are endorsing it. The wording of the two questionnaires was so similar that a comparison between the results is entirely fair.

Does the Massachusetts vote in the Digest poll tell us anything about our own gubernatorial and congressional contests of next year?

Undoubtedly it does. The New Deal and the President are less unpopular in Massachusetts than the state Democracy and its leaders. The Governor and his associates were the beneficiaries of the pro-Roosevelt feeling in November, 1934. As the New Deal, which is the impersonal designation of President Roosevelt, is now in disfavor, obviously the local Democratic candidates are going to have hard sledding.

The outlook for approval in 1936 of the principles and practices which have made this commonwealth what it is is brighter than at any time since Gov. Ely took office in 1931. The prospects for Republicans who will administer affairs decently and properly are most promising.

HERALD
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

State House Briefs

By HENRY EHRLICH

The rebirth of activity that comes with preparations for a new session of the Legislature is nowhere more noticeable than in the final rush of department heads to complete their annual reports and recommendations to the Legislature. These are now being filed daily with the office of the secretary of state.

The most expensive program, to date, was filed yesterday by the division of metropolitan planning, which recommended that $6,500,000 be spent for highways and bridges and further asked that the 14 municipalities in the metropolitan district be assessed $1,000,000 a year for a Boston Elevated improvement fund. This assessment, it was estimated, would raise the tax rate of each city in the district by about 33 cents.

Among the recommended projects are: $2,000,000 circumferential highway around Boston, $1,600,000 highway to by-pass the center of Waltham along the Charles river, $1,400,000 highway from Quincy to Milton, and a $400,000 bridge over the Charles river at Gerry's landing.

The recommendations of the metropolitan district commission were substantially more conservative. As the result of a joint investigation undertaken with the state department of public works, the commission asked that only four of the 14 proposals studied be followed through, at a total cost of $363,400. The report agreed that a bridge over the Charles was necessary at some point between Cambridge and Watertown but recommended only $120,000 for the project.

Also suggested were the widening and reconstruction of highways in Medford and Stoneham, the acquisition for reservation purposes of land in Revere, and the construction of a beach and bath house at Houghton's pond in Milton.

Representative Katherine A. Foley of Lawrence seeks to reduce the maximum rate of interest on mortgage loans in Massachusetts from 5½ per cent. to 5 per cent.

in a bill which she filed yesterday with the clerk of the House. The present rate was set earlier in the year when Gov. Curley persuaded banking representatives to lop off half a per cent.

The state police are still maintaining a good average on the Southwest cut-off. Yesterday's report showed that 25 cars had been stopped in 24 hours, and of these, 13 violations were booked and eight summonses were issued. There were no arrests and no accidents.

The state infirmary at Tewksbury will be called the State General Hospital if the Legislature adopts the recommendation of Richard K.

Conant, former commissioner of public welfare, contained in his annual report.

In his report, Arthur T. Lyman, state commissioner of correction, asked that the minimum age requirement for appointment as correction officer in state penal institutions be reduced from 25 to 22. He also proposed that the commissioner be authorized to retire on a pension prison and penal institution employees at the age of 65, provided they have been in service 20 years.

A third recommendation would enable Massachusetts to come under the provision of the so-called Somers-Ashurst bill, which allows states to enter into compacts on the supervision of probationers.

Dr. Francis M. Cahill of Worcester, secretary of the state board of dental examiners, has been appointed a member of the committee on foreign colleges, President J. B. Carr of the national association of dental examiners, announced yesterday.

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square

Boston

Mass.

HERALD

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

PAGE TWENTY-TWO

NEW DUTIES BEGUN

BY GREEN AND DEAN

Councilman Thomas H. Green of Charlestown took over the duties of state civil service commissioner and Representative Ernest J. Dean of Chillmark began to function as state commissioner of conservation yesterday afternoon after they had taken the oaths of office before Gov. Curley.

The Governor also qualified Charles F. Connors of Brighton for a new three-year term as chairman of the state racing commission and Dr. John L. O'Toole of Haverhill as medical examiner of the fourth Essex district.

Commissioner Dean announced that he would continue to serve as a member of the House, where he sits as a Republican from Martha's Vineyard.

Commissioner Green was welcomed to his new office by many personal friends and political associates who loaded his desk with floral tributes.

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square

Boston

Mass.

POST

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

TRIES TO SAVE KILLER OF ZUCKERMAN GIRL

An appeal is to be made today to Governor Curley to save Miller F. Clark, who was found guilty of stabbing Miss Ethel Zuckerman, 18-year-old Harrison avenue bake shop attendant, to death in December, 1933.

His attorney, George A. Douglas, said yesterday that he always had some doubt as to Clark's mental condition and even had some doubt as to whether Clark was the one who killed the girl in spite of Clark's admission that he had done it. Clark has admitted the crime and in almost the same breath denied it. He was examined by alienists at the time of his trial and while it was agreed he had a reduced mentality yet he was found to be of sufficient mentality to appreciate right from wrong.

POST
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

BIG HORSE SHOW HITS HIGH MARK

Brilliant Scene, With Two Governors Attending

In satin and sables, ermine and silks, Boston society went to the 110th Cavalry Horse Show last night to watch blooded horses caper and canter and jump.

Gay music, the tempo fitted to the action in the tanbark, gave a happy spirit, almost that of fiesta, to the event, and the prancing steeds, with cropped manes and pleated tails, were forced to share the attention of the throngs with the parade of fashionably gowned women and their escorts, impeccably dressed.

TWO GOVERNORS THERE

When the band struck up "Hail to the Chief," and Governor Curley and his party swept in to join Governor Louis J. Brann of Maine with his group of friends the high point of the evening had been reached.

Rainbow-hued searchlights swung their beams from the corners of Commonwealth Armory and followed the State flag borne before the group.

In ermine and wearing a high collar gown of burgundy, with gold lace, was Mrs. Edward C. Donnelly, daughter of the Governor, and her beaming husband. Also in the party were Miss Catherine Donnelly in black velvet and a leopard coat, Mrs. Gertrude Dennis of Brookline, in black velvet and with an ermine collar framing her face, and accompanied by her husband, Mrs. G. W. Thompson of New York, wearing a black caracul coat, with a silver fox collar, which opened at the throat revealed a gown of black crepe, with a white satin blouse.

Distinguished Maine Men

Governor Brann had no women members of his party seated in the joint box held by the two State Executives, and with him were Wingate Cram of Bangor, treasurer of the Bangor and Aroostook railroad, who is one of the wealthiest men in the Pine Tree State; Colonel William N. Campbell of Sanford, Me., and Brookline; Colonel Henri Benoit of Portland, and George J. Stobie of Augusta, State commissioner of fish and game.

Around the rim of the ring were the boxes, draped in black and gold, from which the leaders of society watched the eighth annual presentation of the 110th Cavalry Company, a performance which outdid all past performances in color, planning and pleasure. Ermine was by far the most predominant fur, and it lent the glamor and glitter of wealth to the spectacle. Above were the galleries, hung with blue and gold hunting, which commanded an equal view with the boxes.

Many Society Leaders Late

Top-hatted and fur-clad, many of the society leaders were late in arriving, and when they made their entrance activity in the ring had already begun. Girls in shining hats and jodhpurs and men in derbies and riding suits were leading or riding their steeds about the tanbark, and the judges were scanning the entries.

Accompanied by her husband, tall and broad shouldered, Mrs. William J. Kennedy of Brookline, wearing a long ermine coat, led in her party. With them were Mrs. Elmer Ward of Newtonville, in black velvet and wearing a wrap of silver fox, and Mrs. James E. King of Brookline, in black velvet and a sable cape.

Following them were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bancroft of the Back Bay and Cohasset; Mrs. Bancroft was in black satin and soft pink. Then Mrs. Frederick M. Dearborn of Cambridge made her entrance with Mrs. William C. Cox of Cohasset, their gowns set off by ermine.

Clad in Attire of Gay Nineties

Mrs. Edward R. Place of Boston led in a large party to her box, and with her were two charming young women, both of whom took part in harness exhibitions representing the Gay Nineties. Both were clad in the costumes of that latter day, with sweeping bustles and old lace. They were Miss Mildred Smith of Richmond, Va., and Miss Nancy Shea of Brookline. Also with Mrs. Place was Miss Barbara Caldwell of Augusta, Me., in dubonnet and black velvet, topped by an ermine collar.

In her mink coat and smart but tiny hat, Mrs. Calvin B. Farnsworth of Worcester shared her time in the ring exhibiting her gelding "Gay" and watching the proceedings from her box.

Judge Wilford D. Gray of the Superior Court, with his wife and party, were tardy in arriving, but they enjoyed the spectacle none the less. With them were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bickford of Belmont and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Mahoney of Newton.

Among the younger women were Miss Marguerite Young and her companion, Mrs. Harley Ditmar, both of Greater Boston, the former in ermine, covering a gown in a soft nuance of purple, and the latter in ermine and black silk.

Also in ermine was Mrs. Edward P. Cassell of Providence, who with her husband, was among those who arrived early. With Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Burkhard of Arlington, were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Heather of New York city. Mrs. Burkhard was in white crepe and wore a silver fox cape.

DEC 6 1935

GAYETY REIGNS AT HORSE SHOW

Brilliant Scene With Society Out in Force---Gov. Curley and Gov.
Brann Present With Parties

BY FRANK M. FAY

The opening night of the four-day horse show of the 110th Cavalry Horse Show which is being held at the Commonwealth Armory, last night proved to be one of the gala events of that military organization. The large ring was beautifully decorated with American flags, along with bunting of gold and blue which gave a wonderful set-off to the officers in their dress military uniforms and society distributed about the ring wearing their gorgeous gowns. The show is to continue through to Sunday night with matinees Saturday and Sunday.

GOVERNORS ATTEND

It was "Governor's Night" and Governor Curley with his aides and Governor Louis Brann of Maine were on hand to help make the affair a success. Both Governors made short addresses and congratulated the 110th Cavalry on their undertaking in bringing about the privilege for many that rarely get a chance to see the "King" and "Queen" horse show off at their best.

A colorful event of the night was the Gay Nineties, which brought back memories to the older folks when most every kind of a vehicle, including phaetons, broughams, a sleigh which had small wheels attached with two tots riding in it, in fact all the old time carts that were used in the nineties with the occupants dressed in costume to correspond.

Two Divisions

The class was split into junior and senior divisions. The junior event was won by John Elliot and Miss Lois Driscoll in a sleigh, with the second prize going to Miss Carolyn Elliot, William Driscoll and Miss Barbara Driscoll in a go-cart, third ribbons went to Miss Helen Danforth and Miss Priscilla Murphy riding in a Meadowbrook cart. The winner in the senior division was Miss Louise McKinley and Mr. Charles Beebe in a spider phaeton with a shaded top, while the red ribbons went to Miss Ursula and Elise Burkard in a gig and the yellow ribbons was given to George A. Dodge and his sister

SCHEDULE OF CLASSES FOR HORSE SHOW

FRIDAY EVENING

- 7:45—Class 20, Saddle horses 15.2 hands and under.
8:05—Class 10, Single harness ponies over 15.2 hands.
8:15—Class 32, Five-gaited mare.
8:30—Class 54, Lady's hunter, Copley-Plaza Trophy.
8:50—Gay nineties, masquerade.
9:10—Class 3, Single harness horse (lady's phaeton).
9:25—Class 22, Lady's saddle horse, Dale McDonald Trophy.
9:40—Class 47, Polo pony, heavyweight.
10:00—Class 50, Lightweight hunters.
10:15—Class 14, Pair harness ponies.
10:30—110th Cavalry drill.
10:40—Class 6, Pair harness horses.
10:50—Class 58, Hunt teams.
11:10—Class 62, 2d division, open jumping.

Eleanor Dodge riding in a brougham driven by the veteran cabman Fred Kenney who has driven many notables during his day while he had a cab stand in Copley square.

Top Saddle Horse

The first class called into the ring was for model saddle horses over 14 hands shown in hand which was won by the beautiful chestnut gelding Jamboree from the Audrey's Choice Stable of Providence, beating out the Morgan Horse Stable's chestnut gelding, Wonderman, owned by Dr. Wallace Orcutt of Newbury, Vt., who was given the red rosette, with Pearl Campbell's Dwight's Choice carrying away the yellow ribbons while the white ribbons was given to Misses Ursula and Elise Burkard's Storm at Daybreak.

Like the first class the second was for model hunter shown in hand and was won by Mr. and Mrs. Calvin B. Farnsworth's chestnut gelding, Sprig Leaf, shown by Clarence Lapearl, forcing the Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kennedy's chestnut Erin's Son, to take the red ribbons. The yellow ribbons was given to William J. O'Sullivan's Clifton and Herbert B. Shaw's Lord Nelson had the white ribbons placed on its bridle.

Beats Stablemate

A pretty class and which brought in some of the finest harness horses was the third class for limit harness horses that had not won more than six blue ribbons at any recognized horse show. This event was won by the Greyholme Stable's chestnut gelding, Broompark Chancellor, driven by Mr. Fred Marden, beating out its stablemate, Seaton Rags, a brown gelding exhibited by Mrs. Fred Marden, while the yellow ribbons was given to the Morgan Hackney Farm's Excelsior, from Ontario, Can., and the white was pinned on Greyholme Stable's Seaton Belinda.

A class which interested the crowd was that for draft horses which was won by H. P. Hood and Sons' milk company's gray gelding Shorty, with the Noble Milk Company's black gelding Pal winning second money. Whiting Milk Company's roan gelding Ted the third and the fourth prize to Whiting Milk Company's black gelding, John.

Class Is Divided

One of the classy events of the night was the fifth, which called for novice saddle horses and which was split into two divisions, the first for horses 15.2 hands and over and was won by Jack Lewis' chestnut Rex, shown by Mr. Lewis beating out Oldtown Farm's May Morn, who was given the red rosette. In the division for horses under 15.2 hands, was won by Miss Helen Balfour's Vigilon, who hails from Arlington, taking the blue ribbons away from Charles Beebe's Bohemian Melody, who was awarded the red ribbons.

The next class was for lightweight ponies up to carrying 160 pounds going through the regular stunts and was won by Rufus Wesson's Slipaway from a large field, beating out Ralph Symmes' Fairly Wild who was given the red ribbons. This event was followed by music and drill by the Malden Post No. 69 of the American Legion bugle and drum corps under the direction of Linton Silliker, with Ernest Place as drum major.

Hunters Tested

The first jumping class of the night called for green hunters, which brought into the ring some of the best thoroughbred timber toppers in the United States with both the horses and riders offering a wonderful performance. The class was split into two divisions, first lightweight, and second division, middle and heavyweight hunters.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kennedy's stable succeeded in carrying away the blue ribbons in both divisions. The Kennedy entry Erin's Son, a chestnut gelding jumped by Mally Maguire performing in excellent style and giving a clean score won the lightweight while the Kennedy entry Bachelor's Flower also a chestnut gelding jumped by Mally Maguire also turned in a clean score in the middle and heavyweight division. Mrs. Edward Donnelly former Miss Mary Curley, daughter of Governor Curley presented the trophies which went with the ribbons to the winner.

The second ribbons in the middle and heavyweight hunters was given to Mrs. Wilbert Smith's Erin's Glen, jumped by Billy Moran, who had good style and made a clean performance. Richard Sheehan's Lucky Star, jumped by Miss Edith Hall, was awarded the red rosette in the division for lightweight hunters, showing good style and a clean performance.

In the novice hunter class Richard Sheehan's chestnut gelding, Lucky Star, jumped by Miss Dorothy Storer turning in a perfect performance, was awarded the Governor Brann trophy presented by him and the blue ribbons, while the red went to Mrs. Herbert B. Shaw's Lord Nelson, a chestnut gelding. The yellow ribbons was given to Mark M. Duff's Arid Gallop and the white ribbons to Teela Wocket Camp's Racketeer.

High-Class Stock

The five gaited stallion or gelding class brought some of the finest stock into the ring and was won by Terre Haute Farm's Gold Digger, ridden by Earl Peters, beating out the Audrey's Choice Stable's Cocktail Hour, ridden by Ray Harney, who was given the red rosette.

Knight Bachelor, a black mare, winner of the National championship at the New York horse show last month, again at the 110th Cavalry horse show lived up to her reputation last night when she entered the ring driven by Patrick O'Connell and won the feature honors event of the night.

Continued

This event was for single harness horses over 14.2 hands and was easily won by Knight Bachelor, beating out Woodridge Farm's bay mare, Seaton Sappho, driven by James Sheridan from Huntington, Penn., who was awarded the red rosette. The other ribbon winners in this class was Greyholme Stable's Broompark Chancellor, Greyholme Stable's Sanderstead Empress and the Morgan Hackey Farm's Excelsior. Miss Judy King, the owner of Knight Bachelor, hails from Atlanta, Ga.

Class 28, model saddle horses over 14.2 hands to be shown in hand and judged standing—Won by Audrey's Choice Stable's Jamboree; second, Morgan Horse Stable's Wonderman; third, Pearl Campbell's Dwight's Choice; fourth, Ursula and Elise Burkard's Storm at Daybreak.

Class 53, model hunter to be shown in hand to be judged standing—Won by Mr. and Mrs. Calvin B. Farnsworth's Sprig Leaf; second, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kennedy's Erin Son; third, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. O'Sullivan's Clifton; fourth, Mrs. Herbert B. Shaw's Lord Nelson.

Class 2A, limit harness horse open to horses which have not won more than six first ribbons at any recognized horse show—Won by Greyholme Stable's Broompark Chancellor and driven by Fred Marsden; second, Greyholme Stable's Seaton Rags; third, Morgan Hackney Farm's Excelsior; fourth, Manor Greyholme Stable's Seaton Belinda.

Class 18, pair of draft horses to weigh not less than 1300 pounds each—Won by H. P. Hood & Sons Milk Co.'s Shorty and Dizzy; second, Noble Milk Co.'s Pal and Dawn; third, Whiting Milk Co.'s Ted and Ned; fourth, Whiting Milk Co.'s John and Betsey.

Class 19, novice saddle horse 15.2 and under—Won by Helen Balfour's Cardinal Chief; second, Charles Beebe's Bohemian Melody; third, Ray and Mae Murphy's Envoy; fourth, Marni Mitchell's Ukraine.

Class 19, novice saddle horse over 15.2—Won by Jack Lewis' Victor Rex; second, Oldtown Hill Farm's May Morn; third, Pearl Campbell's Dwight's Choice; fourth, Majorie Diehl's Don Quixote.

Class 46, polo pony lightweight—Won by Rufus Wesson's Slipaway; second, Ralph P. Symmes' Fairly Wild; third, Dudley Milliken's Brown Jug; fourth, Leo Boyle's Corky; fifth, Leo Boyle's Rhea; sixth, Ralph Symmes' Go Get It.

Class 49A, green hunters, lightweight division—Won by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kennedy's Erin's Son; second, Richard Sheehan's Lucky Star; third, Mark Duff's Artid Gallop; fourth, Richard Sheehan's Wonder Bar.

Class 49A, heavyweight division—Won by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kennedy's Bachelor's Flower; second, Mrs. Wilbert Smith's Erin's Glen; third, Mr. and Mrs. Cathlin B. Farnsworth's Brian O'Lynn; fourth, Jane Garland's Golden Glen.

Class 49, novice hunter—Won by Richard Sheehan's Lucky Star; second, Mrs. Herbert B. Shaw's Lord Nelson; third, Mark M. Duff's Artid Gallop; fourth, Teela Wooket Camp's Racketeer; fifth, Mrs. Ruth H. and James H. Montgomery's Waconda.

Class 1, single harness horse over 14.2 hands and not exceeding 15.2 hands—Won by Miss Judy King's Knight Bachelor; second, Woodridge Farm's Seaton Sappho; third, Greyholme Stable's Broompark Chancellor; fourth, Greyholme Stable's Sanderstead Empress; fifth, Manor Hackney Farm's Excelsior.

Class 31, five-gaited stallion or gelding—Won by Terre Haute Farm's Gold Digger; second, Audrey's Choice Stable's Cocktail Hour; third, Mason E. Cook's Brilliant Knight; fourth, John J. McCarthy's Easter Parade.

NOTABLES AT ARMORY HORSE SHOW

Left to right, Governors Curley and Louis J. Brann, Mrs. George Dennis and Mrs. Mary Curley Donnelly at the 110th Cavalry horse show.

continue

concluded

NOVICE SADDLE CLASS WINNER

Miss Helen A. Balfour, winner of the novice saddle class at the 110th Cavalry horse show. With her is her mount, "Cardinal Chief."

POST

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

CASEY MAY BE ON ALL-STARS

Ex-Harvard Star Invited for Garden Game

Warren Casey, Harvard centre in 1933 has been invited to perform with the Collegiate All-Stars against the all-Notre Dame eleven in Boston Garden next Wednesday night, Dec. 11.

Joe Alvarez, chairman of the committee staging the game, expects telegrams of acceptance from Casey and Leo Curley, Georgetown tackle and son of Governor J. M. Curley, today.

Chairman Alvarez, having made arrangements for 400 carloads of dirt to dump in the Garden, will meet officials of the game Wednesday morning, when the gridiron will be marked off.

The Notre Dame team will arrive in Boston Tuesday, a day ahead of the game, and go through a signal practice. The team has played and won five contests this year, one in New York and four in and around Chicago.

POST
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

DEFIES BAN ON HUNTING BY CURLEY

Wakefield Judge to "Call Bluff," Hunt Deer Today

NANTUCKET, Dec. 5—Declaring that the Governor had no backing by law in ordering the sudden close of the deer season on this island, Judge George M. Poland of Wakefield, a probate court justice, announced tonight he would "call the bluff of Governor Curley and Raymond J. Kenney, State director of fish and game," and go out into the woods tomorrow in an effort to bring down a deer.

NO LEGAL BAN, HE SAYS

"Nobody has been able to show me anything in the statutes authorizing the Governor to close the season," said Judge Poland, an ardent sportsman, "except in cases of extreme drought. There is no drought. There is snow on the ground."

Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon of Nantucket, when informed of the judge's defy, declared, "Anyone hunting deer during a closed season may expect to face the court if caught."

Judge Poland's stand caused members of the Sportsmen's Club here to do much thinking tonight. They were opposed to the Governor's ending of the open season after one man had been killed and several of the members were reported considering the advisability of following Judge Poland's lead.

Hold Funeral of Victim

The justice declared that he attempted several times today to get in touch with Commissioner Kenney, but had been unsuccessful. He said he wished to tell the commissioner of his intentions.

Funeral services were conducted today for George Sylvia, who was shot when the season opened Monday. It was his death that led the local Board of Selectmen to call upon Governor Curley to end the season here. Sylvia, a guide, was shot by an unidentified hunter. On the same day William Madeiros, a hunter, was seriously wounded.

A year ago Governor Curley also halted hunting here after many protests from women on the island who termed the slaying of deer "the slaughter of innocents."

When informed of Judge Poland's defiance tonight, Governor Curley declared: "Well, that's interesting. Of course, I won't make any comment on it right now. I'd rather wait until something definite along those lines has occurred. Then I'll map my course."

GROG SHOP ENTRY TO NAVY YARD HIT

Naval Veteran Says Approach at Present "Worst in World"; Urges Improvement Be Demanded

MRS. ROGERS QUESTIONS NAVY OFFICER

Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers questioning Captain Frederick H. Cooke, U. S. N., at the National Emergency Council meeting at the Parker House yesterday. Captain Cooke declared the navy yard is located up a "back alley."

Captain Frederick H. Cooke, veteran United States Navy officer who has visited navy yards in all parts of the world, including those of Japan, declared at a meeting of 250 representative officers of alphabetical agencies of the New Deal, comprising the National Emergency Council, at the Parker House yesterday that the Charlestown navy yard was "up an alley by a couple of grog shops," and that it probably had the worst approach in the world.

His criticism, coming as it did, amid an avalanche of laudatory New Deal statistics, caused a stir of excitement and drew a retort from Acting Postmaster Peter F. Tague of Charlestown, that a navy man had blocked a previous attempt to improve the approach.

Captain Cooke said as far as he knows, the Charlestown navy yard is the only one in the world whose approach is by way of an alley, and he appealed to city and national officials present to see if they can do anything to improve the situation.

"For the love of Mike," Captain Cooke implored his listeners, "don't let the navy yard which has played such a long and prominent part in the history of this State be entered up an alley."

He declared that most people forget that the navy has a shore branch, as well as a sea-going one, and that it is amphibian in character.

Criticises Buildings

Many of the buildings at the navy yard, he said, were built in the early 1800's and although they have a Queen Anne front, they have a Mary Ann back.

He said that under WPA projects work is being done in replacing old sea walls and in improvements and repair. The work done for the armed services, he said, should not be on a relief basis.

and the shore work at the navy yard should have a regular and adequate appropriation to maintain it in fitting style.

Acting Postmaster Tague called on Governor Curley to refresh his memory to the time when both of them served in Congress and when he declared that an admiral had blocked an appropriation for the improvement of the navy yard.

Governor Curley merely smiled, but in his speech did not refer to the matter.

State Director Frank H. Foy, of the National Emergency Council, by whose efforts the meeting was organized, praised the co-operation of the heads of the various New Deal and permanent governmental agencies instrumental in arranging the details of the meeting the first of its kind ever to be held here.

Charts were shown that indicated an increase in imports of about 25 million pounds of wool over last year, a condition which it was said testified to the enormous increases of the woolen branch of the textile industry.

Other increases were noted in auto registrations, in bank deposits, textiles, shoe manufacture, building permits, and farming.

Charts on taxation indicated that had it not been for federal assistance on relief that tax rates in a number of the larger cities in the State which were not named would have averaged $51 a thousand instead of the $35, the actual tax figure.

Rate Would Have Been $62

In a group of medium size cities chosen for the study the tax rates, according to the chart, would have been $61 instead of $39 and for a number of towns $62 instead of the comparatively low figure of $42.

Arthur G. Rotch, ERA-WPA administrator, in his report summed up the work of the ERA which is now being cleaned up and outlined the aims of the WPA which succeeded it.

"The ERA will be entirely closed very shortly," he said. "We are now well into the WPA programme. We have gone beyond the quota set for us and our aim is to keep 120,000 men and women at work."

Other speakers were: Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield, Eugene S. Leggett, assistant in the National Emergency Council at Washington; Congressman Arthur D. Healey, Lynn; John W. McCormack, Boston; William P. Connery, Jr., Lynn; and Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers of Lowell.

Reports were read by the following: William M. Welch, collector of internal revenue; Joseph P. Carney, Reconstruction Finance Corporation; Peter Ham, Farm Credit Administration; Edmund J. Brandon, Securities and Exchange Commission; Colonel John J. Kingman, U. S. A.; Lieutenant-Colonel Max. A. Elser, Quartermaster Corps; William J. Blake, Veterans' Bureau; Frank Lezane, PWA; Ralph E. Tribou, Bureau of Public Roads; Edward L. Casey, National Youth Administration; Lauretta C. Bresnahan, Civilian Conservation Corps; Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert, Agricultural Adjustment Administration; Mary H. Ward, Immigration and Naturalization; Frederick P. Clark, National Resources committee; Joseph A. Maynard, collector of customs; Daniel J. Lehand, Home Owners Loan Corporation, and John F. Malley, Federal Housing Administration.

Captain Cooke said that, at the present time, six destroyers are being built at the Navy Yard. Other work, he said, is the making of chain and rope and in taking care of Constitution.

Governor Curley lauded the work of the National Emergency Council in advertising the New Deal both here and in similar meetings in many different cities.

continued

Concluded

"I find it difficult to understand the general condemnation of President Roosevelt and the New Deal," he said. "The only conclusion I can reach is that he has been a poor advertiser and that his friends have been even poorer." He declared that President Roosevelt should adopt for his New Deal slogan "Organize and educate; but, above all educate."

POST
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Says Bankers Must Aid New Business Activities

The greatest fight the bankers of New England must wage is not against taxes which are burdensome nor against Communism, but is to find a substitute for unemployment and the organization of new business activities to replace those which have gone to other parts of the country or have fallen into decay, John C. Makepeace, of Hvannis, president of the Massachusetts Bankers Association, told several hundred bankers at the annual dinner of that organization last night in the Hotel Statler.

MUST LEARN AGAIN

"Idle men cannot make good buyers, good business, good banking," President Makepeace declared. "Men on dole or relief, or working on projects of questionable value can never make thoughtful, responsible citizens. Idle factories do not furnish employment.

The communist, can never grow great on the factories that are torn down to save taxes.

"New England faces staggering problems, and no single formula can solve them. Some men can never go back to the employment at which they made handsome wages during the war and subsequent thereto. Those who are still young enough to do so must change and learn again and we must help them.

Not Getting Share

"Pick up any advertising medium and list the things which will be bought in your house and which might just as well be made in New England as elsewhere. Walk up and down the retail streets of this city and do the same. It is not the wage per hour which counts, but it is the wage per hour multiplied by the hours of employment per year which will produce the largest amount of annual income.

"Let no man tell me we are getting our share of the business. Heaven help the man who is satisfied with a quota made by some one else.

"We do not lack the means to acquire culture or technical education in New England. Do we lack in their application; do we lack vision, initiative, appreciation of the problem which we face? Do we lack salesmanship? Do we fail to sell ourselves to New England?

For New Activities

"And how does this affect 820 bankers? As custodians of the life-blood of industry and trade, as leaders in your respective communities, you cannot dodge your responsibilities and the more you claim leadership, as you should, the less you can dodge.

"You will fight taxes which are burdensome and which take from you where there is no income. You will fight communism, but bear in mind that these are minor compared with finding a substitute for unemployment and the organization of new activities to replace those which have gone to other parts of have otherwise fallen into decay.

"New England is in your lap. Which way? Communism won't work and we know it. The way to defeat it is a campaign of education, plus a better substitute, which means busy employment and better banking."

World Set Against War

The other speaker at the dinner was former Congressman Carroll L. Beedy of Maine, who predicted that the Italo-Ethiopian war will soon be settled and the settlement will result in a world improvement, with particular benefits to the United States.

"Unless Mussolini becomes utterly bereft of sanity," Mr. Beedy said, "he must soon acknowledge the futility of fighting a war single-handed and alone against a united Europe bolstered by the plighted co-operation of practically all civilized nations. Never before has there been evidenced such a worldwide spirit of co-operation to end war.

"It would seem that Mussolini's shrewdest move would be an early diplomatic step to secure what the Italian people can consider an honorable peace. In any event Italian operations in the war zone must cease in the early spring because of impossible climatic conditions. Termination of the war is now confidently predicted within the next four months. How much the wish is father to the thought, time alone will tell.

"Close upon the heels of peace in Europe will follow a succession of events pregnant with salutary consequences to the world in general and to the United States in particular."

Among the guests of the association were Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield, State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley, represented Governor Curley, John F. Malley, State director of the Federal

Continued

Concluded

Housing Administration; Henry H. Pierce, State bank commissioner; State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley, Joseph P. Carney, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; Thomas P. Cheney, president of the New Hampshire Bankers' Association; George H. Huddy, Jr., president of the Rhode Island Bankers' Association; Philip I. Milliken, president of the Maine Bankers' Association, and Roy A. Young, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston.

The affair was arranged by a committee which included William F. Augustine, Matthew Cushing, Raymond C. Dexter, A. George Gilman and Sidney M. Price.

POST
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

SEEKERS OF JOBS FORCE CURLEY OUT

Clamor of the Idle
Causes Him to Run for Senator

BY ROBERT T. BRADY

The tremendous pressure brought by thousands of unemployed men and women for work, coupled with his own inability to satisfy the demands, except in very small degree, caused Governor Curley to make up his mind to run for United States Senator instead of seeking reelection to his present office.

"No man could live four years on this job under present conditions," said the Governor in explanation of his decision.

"When I came out of my house on Tuesday morning, there were 52 men waiting in the bitter cold, some of them taking refuge from the wintry blasts in the garage. They were all looking for jobs, willing to take any kind of work that would help them to feed themselves and their families. They were all worthy people, but they were desperate, and of course I directed that their names be taken and everything possible will be done to help them.

"That was not an unusual gathering. It was along the line of what awaits me practically every morning when I come out to start on my day's work.

"Here at the State House the situation is just the same. Look at that crowd of men and women outside the door of the executive chamber. It was bad enough when I was Mayor of Boston, when I thought I was meeting every day as many people as it was humanly possible to see. But here it is many times worse. Now the problem is one which extends throughout the State, with its population of more than 4,000,000.

Careful of Health

"I repeat that no man could go through this thing for four years under present conditions. I could not have stood it to date, if it were not for the fact that I have regulated my living carefully during the past year. Four or five times a week I have to get a thorough physical rub-down. All this is stimulating, but it amounts to working on borrowed time.

"If it were humanly possible to effect any material benefit for these thousands of unemployed, it would, of course, be a source of gratification. But as a matter of fact the problem is one which is much too large to be accomplished by merely State legislation and State activity.

"It is a national problem. I am confident that the preservation of the American republic depends upon the setting up of an adequate social security programme, and I want to have a hand in the training and development of such a programme, in the hope that we shall never again have to face conditions such as exists today, not only here in our State but everywhere.

Has Studied Security

"I have put a lot of time and energy into study of this whole matter of social security. I have had considerable training and experience in connection with it. I feel sure that I can contribute something to the advancement of such a great programme. That's why I'm running for Senator."

Without referring to any particular comment regarding a possible change of mind on his part later in the coming year, the Governor reiterated that his statement at Rockland Tuesday night must be regarded as definite and final, and he said that he intends to develop his ideas of social security as the time for real campaigning for the office approaches.

The Governor and Senator Marcus A. Coolidge, whose seat he is seeking, met at the Parker House conference of the federal alphabetical services yesterday afternoon. They were cordial in their greetings, but the only real happenings were a clasping of hands and an exchange of "hellos."

Senator Coolidge was as silent as ever regarding his own political future. He refused to say whether or not he will seek renomination and re-election. He declined to comment on the impression, which is steadily gaining ground among Democrats generally, that he intends to retire from the Senatorial field and perhaps receive a federal appointment from the President.

Washburn Announcement

"I don't expect to say anything until about Jan. 25," said the Senator. "I told a newspaper reporter up in my section a long time ago that I would have something to say in about a year and a half. The time will be up about Jan. 25."

Robert M. Washburn, who was the Republican nominee for Senator in 1934 and lost to Senator David I. Walsh by more than 300,000, stated yesterday that because of a shift in the senatorial scenery, "I may yield to that popular wave which seems to be overwhelming everyone and get into the melee myself."

The Washburn announcement brought from Governor Curley a comment that Mr. Washburn "is always entertaining and I am quite sure that his candidacy will prove the most valuable contribution to what otherwise promises to be a very orderly and quiet campaign."

The exchange between the Governor and Mr. Washburn was brought to a close when the latter replied:

"Jim is on a diminuendo. I have no inclination to drag out cannon to kill woodchuck."

POST
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

SEEKING RELEASE OF MRS. CRABTREE

SALEM, Dec. 5—Efforts to secure the release of Mrs. A. Pauline Crabtree, 32-year-old former bank treasurer who figured in Lynn's "larceny-for-love" case a year ago, and who was sent to jail for a term of 18 months, are being made by her parents, it was learned here today.

"Anxious to have their daughter with them for Christmas, her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Vickery of 28 Dearborn street, Lynn, as well as friends of the woman, are endeavoring to bring about her parole.

Probation Officer Charles A. Salisbury, however, has informed friends of the woman that she will not be eligible for parole until a year of her sentence has expired next February. Her mother, Mrs. Ada A. Vickery, may seek a pardon for her daughter through Governor Curley, it was made known, so that Mrs. Crabtree may be released at Christmas.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

RECORD
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

DEAN WILL KEEP SEAT IN HOUSE

Sworn in as commissioner of conservation by Gov. Curley yesterday, Rep. Ernest J. Dean of Chilmark announced he will continue to serve in the House but will accept only his salary as commissioner.

Others sworn in by the Governor at the same time were Thomas H. Green, civil service commissioner; Charles F. Connors, chairman of the state aging commission and Dr. John O'Toole, medical examiner of the fourth Essex district.

RECORD
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

IGNORE COUNCIL ON COURTHOUSE

Gov. Curley announced yesterday that, after a meeting later in the day, the Suffolk Court House Commission would apply immediately for the PWA 45 per cent contribution to the construction cost of the proposed $5,000,000 courthouse without awaiting for the Boston City Council to act on the matter.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square

Boston Mass.

RECORD

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Bulova Watches . . .	FREE	→
Diamond Rings . . .	FREE	→
Radio Sets	FREE	→
Ronson Lighters . . .	FREE	→
Stone Rings	FREE	→
Umbrellas	FREE	→
Fountain Pens	FREE	→
Jewelry Gifts	FREE	→

WASHINGTON Jewelry Co.

SALE!

FRIDAY and SATURDAY

Sensational Golden Jubilee Values!

5 Striking Examples of the many that will startle the people of Boston!

WEBSTER'S DICTIONARY

59^c

- 55,000 words
- 1200 pages
- 32 colored maps
- Complete Atlas
- A wealth of valuable information

BUD VASES

9^c each

Beautifully carved with intricate

50th BIRTHDAY
1000
PRIZE BIRTH
CAKE

GOV. CURERE!

1000
ABSO

To th

Concluded
 Housing Administration; Henry H. Pierce, State bank commissioner; State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley, Joseph P. Carney, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; Thomas P. Cheney, president of the New Hampshire Bankers' Association; George H. Huddy, Jr., president of the Rhode Island Bankers' Association; Philip I. Milliken, president of the Maine Bankers' Association, and Roy A. Young, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston.
 The affair was arranged by a committee which included William F. Augustine, Matthew Cushing, Raymond C. Dexter, A. George Gilman and Sidney M. Price.

POST
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

SEEKERS OF JOBS FORCE CURLEY OUT

Clamor of the Idle Causes Him to Run for Senator

BY ROBERT T. BRADY

The tremendous pressure brought by thousands of unemployed men and women for work, coupled with his own inability to satisfy the demands, except in very small degree, caused Governor Curley to make up his mind to run for United States Senator instead of seeking reelection to his present office.

"No man could live four years on this job under present conditions," said the Governor in explanation of his decision.

"When I came out of my house on Tuesday morning, there were 52 men waiting in the bitter cold, some of them taking refuge from the wintry blasts in the garage. They were all looking for jobs, willing to take any kind of work that would help them to feed themselves and their families. They were all worthy people, but they were desperate, and of course I directed that their names be taken and everything possible will be done to help them.

"That was not an unusual gathering. It was along the line of what awaits me practically every morning when I come out to start on my day's work.

"Here at the State House the situation is just the same. Look at that crowd of men and women outside the door of the executive chamber. It was bad enough when I was Mayor of Boston, when I thought I was meeting every day as many people as it was humanly possible to see. But here it is many times worse. Now the problem is one which extends throughout the State, with its population of more than 4,000,000.

Careful of Health

"I repeat that no man could go through this thing for four years under present conditions. I could not have stood it to date, if it were not for the fact that I have regulated my living carefully during the past year. Four or five times a week I have to get a thorough physical rub-down. All this is stimulating, but it amounts to working on borrowed time.

"If it were humanly possible to effect any material benefit for these thousands of unemployed, it would, of course, be a source of gratification. But as a matter of fact the problem is one which is much too large to be accomplished by merely State legislation and State activity.

"It is a national problem. I am confident that the preservation of the American republic depends upon the setting up of an adequate social security programme, and I want to have a hand in the training and development of such a programme, in the hope that we shall never again have to face conditions such as exists today, not only here in our State but everywhere.

Has Studied Security

"I have put a lot of time and energy into study of this whole matter of social security. I have had considerable training and experience in connection with it. I feel sure that I can contribute something to the advancement of such a great programme. That's why I'm running for Senator."

Without referring to any particular comment regarding a possible change of mind on his part later in the coming year, the Governor reiterated that his statement at Rockland Tuesday night must be regarded as definite and final, and he said that he intends to develop his ideas of social security as the time for real campaigning for the office approaches.

The Governor and Senator Marcus A. Coolidge, whose seat he is seeking, met at the Parker House conference of the federal alphabetical services yesterday afternoon. They were cordial in their greetings, but the only real happenings were a clapping of hands and an exchange of "hellos."

Senator Coolidge was as silent as ever regarding his own political future. He refused to say whether or not he will seek renomination and re-election. He declined to comment on the impression, which is steadily gaining ground among Democrats generally, that he intends to retire from the Senatorial field and perhaps receive a federal appointment from the President.

Washburn Announcement

"I don't expect to say anything until about Jan. 25," said the Senator. "I told a newspaper reporter up in my section a long time ago that I would have something to say in about a year and a half. The time will be up about Jan. 25."

Robert M. Washburn, who was the Republican nominee for Senator in 1934 and lost to Senator David I. Walsh by more than 300,000, stated yesterday that because of a shift in the senatorial scenery, "I may yield to that popular wave which seems to be overwhelming everyone and get into the melee myself."

The Washburn announcement brought from Governor Curley a comment that Mr. Washburn "is always entertaining and I am quite sure that his candidacy will prove the most valuable contribution to what otherwise promises to be a very orderly and quiet campaign."

The exchange between the Governor and Mr. Washburn was brought to a close when the latter replied:

"Jim is on a diminuendo. I have no inclination to drag out cannon to kill woodchuck."

POST
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

SEEKING RELEASE OF MRS. CRABTREE

SALEM, Dec. 5—Efforts to secure the release of Mrs. A. Pauline Crabtree, 32-year-old former bank treasurer who figured in Lynn's "larceny-for-love" case a year ago, and who was sent to jail for a term of 18 months, are being made by her parents, it was learned here today.

Anxious to have their daughter with them for Christmas, her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Vickery of 28 Dearborn street, Lynn, as well as friends of the woman, are endeavoring to bring about her parole.

Probation Officer Charles A. Salisbury, however, has informed friends of the woman that she will not be eligible for parole until a year of her sentence has expired next February. Her mother, Mrs. Ada A. Vickery, may seek a pardon for her daughter through Governor Curley, it was made known, so that Mrs. Crabtree may be released at Christmas.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

RECORD
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

DEAN WILL KEEP SEAT IN HOUSE

Sworn in as commissioner of conservation by Gov. Curley yesterday, Rep. Ernest J. Dean of Chilmark announced he will continue to serve in the House but will accept only his salary as commissioner.

Others sworn in by the Governor at the same time were Thomas H. Green, civil service commissioner; Charles F. Connors, chairman of the state racing commission and Dr. John O'Toole, medical examiner of the fourth Essex district.

RECORD
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

IGNORE COUNCIL ON COURTHOUSE

Gov. Curley announced yesterday that, after a meeting later in the day, the Suffolk Court House Commission would apply immediately for the PWA 45 per cent contribution to the construction cost of the proposed $5,000,000 courthouse without awaiting for the Boston City Council to act on the matter.

Bulova Watches . . . FREE →
Diamond Rings . . . FREE →
Radio Sets . . . FREE →
Ronson Lighters . . . FREE →
Stone Rings . . . FREE →
Umbrellas . . . FREE →
Fountain Pens . . . FREE →
Jewelry Gifts . . . FREE →

WASHINGTON Jewelry Co.

SALE!

FRIDAY and SATURDAY

Sensational Golden Jubilee Values!

5 Striking Examples of the many that will startle the people of Boston!

THE BIGGEST DICTIONARY VALUE
IN THE WORLD

WEBSTER'S DICTIONARY

59¢

- 55,000 words
- 1200 pages
- 32 colored maps
- Complete Atlas
- A wealth of valuable information for students, office, home.

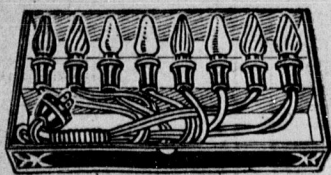

SILVER PLATED

BUD VASES

9¢ each

Beautifully carved with intricate designing. Ridiculously low priced!

XMAS TREE LIGHTS

18¢ 8 Lights in Box

Colorful, twinkling electric candles . . . complete with cord and plug. Fire Underwriters Approved!

GOLD and SILVER EDGED
U. S. PLAYING CARDS

16¢ Pack

New Beautiful Designs!
LIMIT 2 Packs to a Customer.

THE KIDDIES
Will Love
THIS

3 LITTLE PIG SET

Cereal Bowl, Dinner Plate and Mug decorated with Disney's jolly THREE LITTLE PIGS in colors.

37¢

WASHINGTON
Jewelry Co.

365
WASHINGTON ST.
503
WASHINGTON ST.

Both Stores Open EVERY NIGHT until 9 o'Clock

WASHINGTON
Jewelry Co.

50th ANNIVERSARY
GOLDEN JUBILEE
1000

DELICIOUS CAKES
Made By DOROTHY MURIEL'S
—Individually Packed

PRIZE BIRTHDAY CAKES

FREE

GOV. CURLEY WILL BE HERE!

1000 PRIZE CAKES ABSOLUTELY FREE!

To the First 1000 People
Entering Our Stores

FRIDAY MORNING Between 10:00 and 11:00

Lucky Cakes contain winning tickets redeemable immediately for

FREE Bulova Watches
Diamond Rings
Swank Sets
Chrome Gifts

FREE Waltham Watches
Toilet Sets
Leather Goods
Billfolds

FREE Radios
Novelty Jewelry
Fountain Pens
Dishes

ALSO $2500.00 in Merchandise Credit Checks!

NOTHING TO BUY! NO RED TAPE!
CAKES AND PRIZES ABSOLUTELY FREE!

At Both
Stores

WASHINGTON JEWELRY CO.
365 Washington St.—cor. Bromfield
503 Washington St.—near Temple Pl.

At Both
Stores

Press Clipping Service

2 Park Square

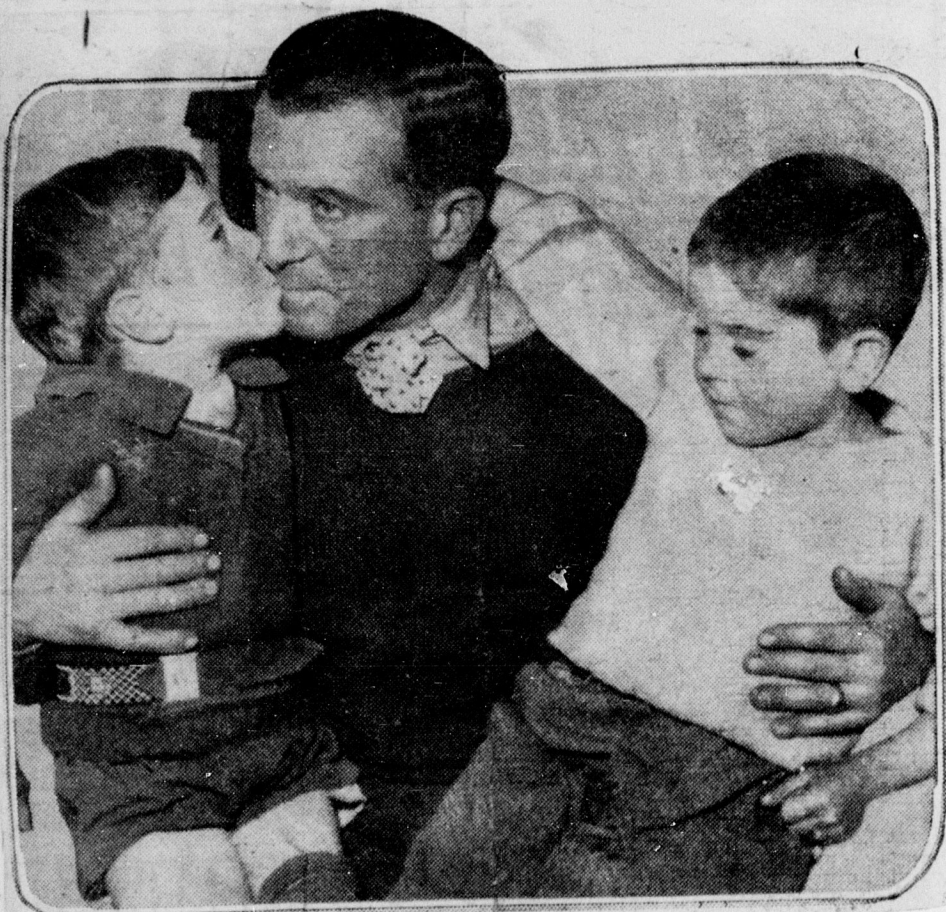

Boston Mass.

RECORD

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

PARDON SENDS FATHER HOME

Glad

hearts had Dominic La Sala of Revere, center, and his sons, Dominic, Jr., left, and Armand, when father got home yesterday after Governor Curley pardoned him. He had served four years at State prison.

RECORD

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

ASK PARDON FOR 'LOVE THIEF'

Alone, but confident, Mrs. Ada Vickary, aged Lynn woman, will go to Gov. Curley today and plead for a pardon for her daughter, Mrs. Pauline Crabtree, who stole for love and is serving 18 months in Salem jail for larceny from the Lynn Cooperative bank, of which she was assistant treasurer.

Mrs. Vickary's decision to go before the governor was reached yesterday after Essex County authorities pointed out to her that her daughter cannot become eligible for parole until she has served at least 12 months of her sentence, which will be sometime next February.

The mother told attaches of the probation office, the district attorney's office and newspapermen yesterday that her husband, George P. Vickary, the girl's father, is dying of a broken heart. He is seriously ill, she said, and doctors have told her that grief has caused his illness.

"The life of an old man is at stake," she said tearfully. "Yes, and my heart is breaking, too. Surely the saving of two lives is worth giving her her freedom."

Mrs. Vickary said the girl has a good job in a bank waiting for her when she comes out of jail.

"People who know her have confidence in her," the mother said.

Mrs. Crabtree, who pleaded guilty to theft of $20,000 from the bank of which she was a trusted employee, has lost 20 pounds since she came to Salem jail, the officials said.

She testified that she stole for love of George W. Bishop, who is now serving a long term in state prison for his part in the defalcations.

First she gave him her own money, she said during her trial.

Then she gave him money she got from her husband, and money she borrowed. Finally, she became a thief for him, while he beat her and burned her with cigarettes and threatened to disgrace her if she did not get him more.

Mrs. Vickary said that Bishop has several times written to the parents, expressing contrition for what he did to the girl, and offering to testify before any parole board.

RECORD
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

AGAIN IN DRIVER'S SEAT, BUT SO QUIET!

Softly the light throws shadow on Bossy's classic brow; so once again in N'bryport Gillis says, "And how!" All of which just describes the latest photo of Newburyport's latest mayor, above. H'ya! (International News Photo).

RECORD
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

IGNORE COUNCIL
ON NEW COURTHOUSE

Gov. Curley announced yesterday that, after a meeting later in the day, the Suffolk Court House Commission would apply immediately for the PWA 45 per cent contribution to the construction cost of the proposed $5,000,000 courthouse without awaiting for the Boston City Council to act on the matter.

The governor said this following a conference he held with Chairman Bentley W. Warren of the Court House Commission; Joseph A. Rourke, representing the state; A. Emmett Logue, representing the engineer; Andrew H. Peterson, federal PWA administrator, and former Atty-Gen. Herbert Parker.

"In the event," the Governor said, "that the federal authorities agree to contribute the 45 per cent, it will be the duty of the city to contribute 30 per cent of the remaining 55 per cent."

The conference was called by the Governor to determine whether application for the PWA grant could be made before the City Council acts on the city's share of the cost. Former Atty-Gen. Parker advised the Governor this could be done.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

TRANSCRIPT
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

Governor Greets
Canadian Minister

Governor Curley extended the greetings of the State today to J. L. Hilsley, minister of national revenue of Canada, who is in Boston to address the Canadian Club at the Hotel Vendome tonight.

During their conversation, the governor expressed his gratification at the recent signing of the trade agreement between the United States and Canada and said he believed the pact would benefit both countries.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

TRANSCRIPT
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

Two Women Given
Oaths by Curley

Governor Curley gave the oath of office today to Mary E. Murray of Cambridge as a member of the advisory board of the State Department of Education, and to Anna Pigeon of Belmont as a member of the advisory board of the Department of Public Welfare.

TRANSCRIPT
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935
Judge Poland Hunts,
Defying Governor
Game Warden, on Jurist's
Heels, to Arrest If Deer
Is Shot

Special to the Transcript:

Nantucket, Dec. 6 — Whether Judge George M. Poland would emerge from the woods here this afternoon in custody of game wardens appeared to hang on whether or not he encountered a deer.

The judge, shotgun in hand, left his quarters after luncheon with the avowed intention of meeting and shooting a deer, in disregard of Governor Curley's order closing the season.

Latest reports from the State House, at the same time, had it that neither the governor nor Attorney General Paul A. Dever would comment on the judge's defiance of the order.

Game Warden Ernest P. Anyon, who said he was under orders to arrest anyone shooting at a deer, was reported to be following Judge Poland, just in case.

The deer season opened Monday, but Governor Curley ordered shooting stopped after one hunter had been killed and another wounded.

Judge Poland's position was that the authority exercised by the governor is vested only in the Legislature, and that such an order is effective only in times of emergencies due to drought fire hazards.

The jurist, whose winter home is at Wakefield, is a summer resident of Nantucket.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

TRANSCRIPT
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

Refuses Clemency
for Mrs. Crabtree

Governor Curley said today that he had no intention of extending executive clemency to Mrs. Ada P. Crabtree, former assistant treasurer of a Lynn bank, now serving a sentence in the House of Correction for larceny.

The governor made this statement following reports that the prisoner's mother, Mrs. Ada Vickery, planned to make a personal appeal.

Mrs. Crabtree was sentenced last February to a term of eighteen months. She will become eligible for parole early next year. When that time comes, the governor said, her case will be given consideration, but not before.

Mrs. Vickery previously had appealed to the county commissioners of Essex County, but they informed her that they could do nothing.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

TRANSCRIPT
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

State Pays $4100
for Rose Car Crash

Waltham Woman's Injuries
Sustained When Adjutant General's Auto Collided with Hers

The State has paid $4100 to Mrs. Gertrude McKee, technician at the Waltham Hospital in settlement of her suit to recover for personal injury and damage to her automobile. The suit resulted from an accident in which the official automobile of Adjutant General William I. Rose was involved in the Back Bay last April.

A warrant calling for payment to Mrs. McKee was approved by the Executive Council last week after State Comptroller George Murphy had received an execution from the Boston Municipal Court, ordering the payment.

Of the settlement, $4000 was for personal injuries and $100 for damages to the car. The accident occurred when the adjutant general's car was returning from the opening baseball game of the season at Fenway Park.

Governor James M. Curley said the settlement was most equitable.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

TRANSCRIPT
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

Letters to • • • • the Editor

IT IS WISE TO MOVE

To the Editor of the Transcript:
According to press notices the Hon. James M. Curley has announced that he is a candidate for the United States Senate. Evidently the Democratic party of Massachusetts has hinted to James that it would be to his interest to move from Beacon Hill. TELFAIR M. MINTON
Boston, Dec. 4.

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

TRAVELER
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

NEW DUTIES BEGUN / BY GREEN AND DEAN

Councilman Thomas H. Green of Charlestown took over the duties of state civil service commissioner and Representative Ernest J. Dean of Chilmark began to function as state commissioner of conservation yesterday afternoon after they had taken the oaths of office before Gov. Curley.

The Governor also qualified Charles F. Connors of Brighton for a new three-year term as chairman of the state racing commission and Dr. John L. O'Toole of Haverhill as medical examiner of the fourth Essex district.

Commissioner Dean announced that he would continue to serve as a member of the House, where he sits as a Republican from Martha's Vineyard.

Commissioner Green was welcomed to his new office by many personal friends and political associates who loaded his desk with floral tributes.

TRAVELER
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

Nantucket Sportsmen Call Curley Hunt 'Bluff'

(Special to the Traveler)

NANTUCKET, Dec. 6—"That's all we want to know," declared Nantucket sportsmen today, when assured that Judge George M. Poland meant it when he said he would defend them in court—and they went deer hunting.

Judge Poland, probate justice of Nantucket, himself a dyed-in-the-wool sportsman, took exceptions to the order of Gov. Curley closing the deer hunting season on Nantucket; declaring that it could not be legally done by the chief executive, and then offered to defend, free, any Nantucketer arrested for defying the Curley edict.

"CALLS CURLEY'S BLUFF"

The deer season on Nantucket was closed Tuesday by Raymond J. Kenney, director of fisheries and game, when directed to do so by the Governor, after one man had been killed and another wounded by buckshot.

Today, Judge Poland, who announced that he was going to "call Curley's bluff," was ready to do a little deer hunting of his own, with his 10-bore shotgun and a fistful of shells loaded with buckshot.

John Gardner, Nantucket register of probate, was another ready to do a little hunting for deer, regardless of the orders of Gov. Curley and Director Kenney.

"JUDGE IS RIGHT"

"I expect to go out tomorrow," Gardner said today. "The judge is right. There is no statute providing for the closing of the season by the Governor. He can only do that by proclamation and with consent of the council, in case of severe drought. There's no drought here. There are two inches of snow on the ground and it's still snowing."

"He did the same thing last year and local hunters pulled in their horns. The deer hunting season was established here at the request of town officials because of the damage caused by the animals."

"Then a couple of old women saw a car with two dead deer tied to it. They got all upset and went to the selectmen. Somebody down here who fits with Curley called him up. He closed the season. No one did anything about it."

SPORTSMEN IN ARMS

"Sportsmen here have just as much right to hunt as those in other sections of the state. When a hunter is killed or injured in some other county they don't close the season."

Press Clipping Service
2 Park Square
Boston Mass.

TRAVELER
Boston, Mass.
DEC 6 1935

LATE NEWS

The greetings of the commonwealth were extended today by Gov. Curley to the Hon. J. L. Ilsley, minister of national revenue of Canada, who is in Boston to make a speech tonight.

The Governor expressed gratification at the signing of the recent trade agreement between the United States and Canada. He said the agreement will benefit both countries.

TRAVELER
Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Gov. Curley today announced that no parole would be granted to Mrs. Ada P. Crabtree, former assistant treasurer of a Lynn bank, who is serving 18 months for larceny of $20,000, until she regularly becomes eligible for parole. His statement was made to spike reports of an earlier parole.

U. S. Marshal John J. Murphy today announced his candidacy for governor. The announcement is a revision of his previous announcement that he would be a candidate for the United States Senate. But, as in the case of that announcement, there is a proviso, dependent on the final choice that Gov. Curley will make regarding the office for which he will run. Murphy's slogan is "The Murphys hurdle the Hurleys." He said that the Murphys are stronger than the Hurleys who may run for governor.

DEC 6 1935

Teas, Exhibits, Lectures and Horse Show Draw Society

Nijinska at Junior League; 110th Cavalry Show Thronged

By ELEANOR FREEMAN

IN SPITE OF yesterday's dreary, winter atmosphere, the program of social activities was an unusually full one. Several teas, exhibits and lectures in the afternoon, as well as the opening night of the 110th Cavalry Horse Show at the Commonwealth armory, kept society members in a state of turmoil. As we strolled across the Public Garden to attend a lecture at the Junior League, we were further reminded of winter's not too subtle presence by a steely coating of ice, where the swan boats had sailed only a month or so ago, and gleeful school children with their ice skates.

The ever cheerful ballroom of the Junior League was crowded for the interesting talk which Madame Nijinska gave on "Maitres de Ballet." She is the wife of the famous Russian ballet dancer and choreographer, Nijinsky, whose brilliant career was ended by his sad retirement. His name is being carried on by his sister, Nijinska, one of the great choreographers of modern times. Her views, however, are in direct opposition to his. Many of you have seen some of her recent work in the ballets of the moving picture, "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Traces History Of Ballet

Madame Nijinska traced the history of the ballet and its great "Maitres de Ballets" from the earliest times. Strangely enough one of the first famous men in that line was the founder of a great Eastern religion—Confucius. The Roman, later Italian, and French schools were also described.

It was in her references to the Russian school, that the audience appeared most interested. Nijinsky, whose purpose in life was a humanitarian one, will long be remembered as the choreographer of "L'Après Midi d'une Faune."

The best known of modern masters are Russians—Nijinska and Massine, who visited Boston only a month ago with the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe. Madame Nijinska admitted that in the world of the ballet, Massine is known as "the Moliere of the ballet," as evidenced by his humor in "The Three Cornered Hat," now familiar to Boston audiences. His comic ballets are preferred by them to his romantic ones with the exception of "The Beautiful Blue Danube."

Madame Nijinska is a very attractive person. Slender and dark, she was gowned yesterday in severe and simple black. Her frock, with its small turned over collar, was relieved only by two heavy silver chain bracelets on either wrist. Her hat had a flaring fan, which extended from the back to a peak over her eyes, and her only concession to color was the jade chiffon handkerchief she carried.

Among the many attending were Miss Rachael Warner, president of the league, who listened intently from the balcony; Mrs. George F. Bemis, Mrs. Frances H. Cummings, chairman of the arts and interests committee which sponsored the lecture; Miss Elizabeth Saltonstall, Mrs. James Cunningham Gray and her daughter, Miss Katharine C. Gray, and Mrs. Theodore Lyman Eliot.

Mrs. William C. Cox looked extremely chic in a dark green suit, collared with Persian lamb and a high matching fur hat with a tiny flat crown. Another who wore a smart costume was Mrs. Hamilton Osgood, 2d. Her green felt hat with its Cleopatra lines matched in color her skirt and the square buttons on her bright tile jacket. Miss Harriet Moseley and her sister, Miss Helen Moseley, were both present, the former wearing black with a mink coat, and the latter in Dubonnet costume suit with a snowy gardenia on her lapel.

Still others there were Mrs. Alexander Steinert, Mrs. George H. Lyman, Jr., Mrs. Edward H. Byron with her debutante daughter, Miss Mark Byron, Miss Lee Marston, Mrs. Ben Ames Williams, Miss Marion Little, Miss Josephine Emery, Miss Virginia Ellis, Mrs. Henry McB. Parker, Mrs. John C. Rice, Jr., Mrs. Charles F. Hovey, Miss Hope Blanchard, Miss Catherine Pentecost, Miss Mary Pentecost, Miss Margery Richardson, Mrs. Henry F. Colt, Miss Geraldine Field, Miss Alison Chapple, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Sears, whose leopard coat was brightened by a geranium felt hat.

Debutantes who attended included Miss Elizabeth Watson, in a coral wool frock, who was sitting with Miss Edith Lewis, Miss Joan Chapin, Miss Constance Matless, Miss Reinette Plimpton, Miss Janet Forbes, Miss Anne Soutter, Miss Mimi Little, and Miss Anne Richards, whose ensemble was of gray and red—a checked jacket and red quill in her tailored gray felt hat.

A trip abroad without leaving Boston was possible yesterday for those who attended the 5th annual exhibit and bazaar of the International Institute held at their headquarters on Beacon street. The bazaar, which will continue through today and tomorrow, helps support the Institute which has a force of five social workers in addition to its many volunteers. Their work includes acting as interpreters for foreigners unable to speak English, visiting them when they are ill in hospitals, helping them to learn the customs of the United States and in return learning fascinating customs of these peoples from far lands.

continued

For these three days of the exhibit the rooms and hallway of the staid Beacon street house have been transformed to resemble the crowded market-places of European cities. Peasant embroideries and other handwork from scores of different countries—Sweden, Bulgaria, Turkey, Russia, Finland and Roumania—covered the walls and tables on which the wares were displayed.

On the third floor of the old mansion tea was served with delicious cakes from all the countries represented in the exhibit on the lower floors—Swedish rosettes, Syrian sweets, Turkish paklava. During the tea hour Ellenor Cook (Mrs. J. Philip Lane), well known for her fascinating folksongs, gave a program which included the well loved "Sur le Pont d'Avignon as well as less familiar songs from eight different countries. For one group of two Roumanian, two Polish and a Russian song Mrs. Lane chose a beautiful costume which she had worn on a visit to Queen Marie in Roumania. Later she changed to an equally exquisite Croatian costume for a group of Yugoslavian songs. Her accompanist was Miss Deborah Brown.

Serving tea and helping at the tables during the day were Miss Anne Clark, Miss Natalie North, Miss Helen Lang, Miss Reinette Plimpton, Miss Carolyn J. Pierce, Miss Mary Mackay and Miss Lois Stevens.

Among those nibbling foreign pastries as they listened to the folk-songs in the cabaret were Mrs. Reginald W. Bird, Mrs. John G. Palfrey, Mrs. Franklin W. Hobbs, Mrs. Greely S. Curtis of Marblehead and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Greely S. Curtis, Jr., of Cambridge, Miss Marion Case of Weston, Mrs. Henry S. Bush, who has just returned from Paris to make her home in Boston; Mrs. Walter B. Clifford, Miss Louise Brown, Mrs. B. W. Fredericks and her daughter, Mrs. Dunham Jones. Many stayed through the dinner hour and in the evening members of the consular staffs visited the exhibit.

Gold and blue banners lavishly decorating the austere Commonwealth Armory, brilliant military uniforms and a fanfare of trumpets marked the opening of the 110th cavalry horse show last evening. The show will continue this evening, tomorrow afternoon and evening, and Sunday afternoon and evening. Last night was reserved as "Governors' Night," and Gov. Louis Brann of Maine was one of the honor guests as was Gov. Curley, who arrived quite late with an imposing entourage.

TRAVELER Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Nantucket Sportsmen Defy Curley Hunt Ban

Gov. Curley today said that he will confer with Atty. Gen. Dever on the defi of Judge George Poland against closing of the Nantucket hunting season.

(Special to the Traveler)

NANTUCKET, Dec. 6—"That's all we want to know," declared Nantucket sportsmen today, when assured that Judge George M. Poland meant it when he said he would defend them in court—and they went deer hunting.

Judge Poland, probate justice of Nantucket, himself a dyed-in-the-wool sportsman, took exceptions to the order of Gov. Curley closing the deer hunting season on Nantucket; declaring that it could not be legally done by the chief executive, and then offered to defend, free, any Nantucketer arrested for defying the Curley edict.

"CALLS CURLEY'S BLUFF"

The deer season on Nantucket was closed Tuesday by Raymond J. Kenney, director of fisheries and game, when directed to do so by the Governor, after one man had been killed and another wounded by buckshot.

Today, Judge Poland, who announced that he was going to "call Curley's bluff," was ready to do a little deer hunting of his own, with his 10-bore shotgun and a fistful of shells loaded with buckshot.

John Gardner, Nantucket register of probate, was another ready to do a little hunting for deer, regardless of the orders of Gov. Curley and Director Kenney.

"JUDGE IS RIGHT"

"I expect to go out tomorrow," Gardner said today. "The judge is right. There is no statute providing for the closing of the season by the Governor. He can only do that by proclamation and with consent of the council, in case of severe drought. There's no drought here. There are two inches of snow on the ground and it's still snowing.

"He did the same thing last year and local hunters pulled in their horns. The deer hunting season was established here at the request of town officials because of the damage caused by the animals.

"Then a couple of old women saw a car with two dead deer tied to it. They got all upset and went to the selectmen. Somebody down here who fits with Curley called him up. He closed the season. No one did anything about it.

SPORTSMEN IN ARMS

"Sportsmen here have just as much right to hunt as those in other sections of the state. When a hunter is killed or injured in some other county they don't close the season.

"Sportsmen here feel that Jim Curley isn't going to push them off the map.

"When it got around that Judge Poland had said he would defend anyone arrested for defying the order, some of the boys called me last night and this morning.

"Is it true?" they asked me and when I said it was, they said, 'That's all we want to know. We're going out and get us a deer.'

But today was hardly a good day for hunting on Nantucket. The wind was driving in from the north at 45 miles an hour, whipping snow ahead of it. A number of hunters were abroad, however, and during midmorning shots were heard near Judge Poland's home.

JUDGE READY TO GO

The judge waited for the snow to let up before taking to the hunting grounds.

"I may not go out today, but, whatever the weather, I'm going out tomorrow, the last day of the state season. There's no law to prevent," Judge Poland said.

Director Kenney declared that immediate arrest would follow deer-hunting on Nantucket. But local sportsmen have faith in Judge Poland.

DEC 6 1935

BENEFITS LAID TO NEW DEAL

43 U. S. Agencies Put on One-Day Exhibit at Parker House

Forty-three bureaus, agencies, and divisions of the federal government staged a one-day exposition of the New Deal at the Parker House yesterday in an attempt to show they had helped to obtain a measure of recovery in Massachusetts.

Replete with speeches, charts, and statistics, the exhibition presented the following claims:

Massachusetts made more shoes this year than in 1929.

Imports of raw wool are up 700 per cent. in a single year.

Collection of miscellaneous federal taxes in October reached a new all-time high, showing record collections on gasoline, jewelry, amusements, radios, toilet preparations, and luxuries. They were $3,000,000 higher than in October, 1934.

Automobile registrations for corresponding periods of the year in this state were 915,549 in 1933; 929,882 in 1934; 937,211 this year.

Deposits in Boston federal reserve member banks increased from $989,000,000 Nov. 20, 1934 to $1,066,000,000 this year.

Weekly check transactions in 17 New England cities for the week of Nov. 20 were $533,200,000 as compared with $426,100,000 a year ago.

Retail sales in Massachusetts were $19,291,531 in September compared with $17,824,740 in the corresponding period a year ago.

Total federal tax collections in this state for corresponding periods were $43,781,495 in 1933; $70,272,953 in 1934; and $106,662,220 this year.

Collection of customs jumped from $7,615,995 during the period, July 1 to Nov. 30, 1934, to $10,945,263 for the same period this year.

Wool imports in the same periods jumped from 3,670,212 pounds in 1934 to 28,366,745 pounds this year.

The HOLC at Boston saved the homes of 23,000 property owners and lent $100,000 after sifting 51,000 applications, of which 18,000 were received during the first six weeks of its existence.

The ERA since April 1, 1934, has spent $103,469,000 toward 30,000 projects in this state and has distributed an additional $5,627,000 in surplus commodities.

This distribution amounted to $19.12 per capita in 1934, causing the tax rate in one Massachusetts town to stay at $42 this year instead of jumping to $92, and preventing an increase of $40 in the tax rate of another town, which set its tax rate at $51 instead of $91. For towns and cities representing half the population of the state, the average tax rate was $38 in the larger cities instead of a possible $52 without federal help; $39 in the medium-sized cities instead of a threatened $61, and $42 in the towns instead of a threatened $68.

After lending $181,000,000 in New England, the RFC has been repaid $110,000,000, and has only $71,000,000 in loans outstanding. The national RFC, after collecting $3,100,000,000 of $5,700,000,000 lent, now shows a profit of $113,000,000.

Textile machinery company payrolls in this state were: $5,153,252 in 1932; $7,987,840 in 1933; $9,375,405 last year.

Textile payrolls in this state in 1932 were $60,277,698; in 1933, $79,209,975; in 1934, $85,478,243.

Shoep production in this state for corresponding periods was 311,203,395 pairs in 1929; 310,067,519 pairs in 1933; 306,591,943 pairs in 1934; and 320,811,980 pairs this year.

Construction contracts in Massachusetts awarded during the first 10 months of 1933 were $44,164,300; in 1934, $60,949,000; in 1935; $72,199,100.

Private building permits in Massachusetts have jumped from $8,114,019 in 1933 to $10,037,139 for the same period this year.

Life insurance sales in this state climbed from $226,283,000 for 10 months in 1933 to $229,187,000 this year, although they are $5,000,000 below the corresponding period last year.

ARRIVAL OF CURLEY

Gov. Curley, who arrived late accompanied by Lt. Gov. Joseph L. Hurley, said that what the new deal needed was more advertising and better salesmanship. He described two trips through Iowa, one during the campaign of 1932 and the second a few weeks ago. He said there were paint on the houses, screens on the windows, smoke in factory chimneys, flesh on the cattle, and profits in crops, and attributed this condition to the new deal.

Joseph A. Maynard, collector of customs, appealed to the federal officials attending the meeting to publicize the fact that the government was offering rewards of 25 per cent. of the appraised value of seized goods and fines in an attempt to stop rum-running which reduced the income of the legitimate liquor business and the government.

Although the meeting and display was ordered by President Roosevelt in conjunction with similar meetings in each of the 48 states, Frank H. Foy, regional co-ordinator for the national emergency council, avoided advance publicity, and described it as a get-together for the federal family to create a better understanding of the functions of the various bureaus.

Speakers were Senator Coolidge, representing the congressional delegation present; Mayor Mansfield, William M. Welch, collector of internal revenue; Joseph P. Carney, RFC administrator; Peter Ham, of the FCA; Edmund J. Brandon, of the SEC; Col. John J. Kingman, of the army engineers corps.

Lt.-Col. Max A. Elser, of the army quartermaster corps; Capt. Frederick H. Cooke, of the U. S. navy; Col. William J. Blake, of the veterans administration; Arthur G. Rotch, WPA administrator; Col. Frank Lenane, assistant PWA engineer; Ralph E. Tribou, of the bureau of public roads; Edward L. Casey, of the NYA; Miss Lauretta C. Bresnahan, of the CCC; Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert, of the AAA; Miss Mary H. Ward, immigration commissioner; Frederick P. Clark, of the national resources committee; Daniel J. LeHand, of the HOLC; John F. Malley, of the FHA, and Dwight L. Hoopingarner, of the PWA housing division.

Brandon praised the New England Power Association for being the first big public utility to register under the SEC. He said that after being hostile at first, the big brokerage houses of Wall street would now be the first to oppose its abandonment.

In reply to a statement of Lewis Douglas, former director of the budget, that the government would have to provide new financing because private companies wouldn't risk it under the SEC, Brandon said $2,200,000,000 in new financing was registered with the SEC in the first eight months this year to approach the peak of any new financing period in the country's history.

Capt. Cooke urged Massachusetts patriots to do something to obtain an improvement of the approach to the entrance to the Navy yard, which he described as "up an alley." Postmaster Peter F. Tague replied that when he and Gov. Curley were in Congress, it was a navy admiral who had opposed the project.

Miss Ward said that because of the present hue and cry of politicians against aliens in public jobs and on relief, many were applying for naturalization papers. She said 27,409 first papers have been issued this year as compared with 15,921 a year ago; and 22,539 second papers as compared with 13,974 a year ago. There were admitted 17,322 new citizens in New England this year, compared with 12,757 a year ago.

Continued

concluded

AT MEETING OF FEDERAL AGENCY OFFICIALS

Gov. Curley and Congressman Edith Nourse Rogers enjoying a chuckle at yesterday's conference of federal agency officials at the Parker House.

TRAVELER

Boston, Mass.

DEC 6 1935

Waltham Woman Gets $4100 Award for Collision with State Automobile

Adj.-Gen. Rose's Car in Crash After Baseball Game

By DONALD R. WAUGH

(Copyright, 1935, by Herald-Traveler Corporation)

The state has settled for $4100 the claim of Mrs. Garnet McKee for injuries which she received and damages which her automobile suffered when the car was struck last spring by automobile "N. G. 1," the official car of Adj.-Gen. William I. Rose.

OFFICIALS IN CAR

With staff officers as passengers, the car was returning to the State House from the opening game of the Boston Red Sox baseball season when the accident occurred early last April.

At Beacon and Hereford streets, Mrs. McKee's car backed out in front of the state machine and a collision ensued.

Mrs. McKee, a technician at the Waltham Hospital, was taken to that hospital where she remained as a patient for several months.

State officials apparently hoped that no publicity would be given to the settlement and made no announcement of it until questioned by a Traveler representative, although the settlement was approved by the Governor and council a week or two ago.

Mrs. McKee, through her attorney, former Asst. Dist.-Atty. Dudley P. Ranney of Wellesley, asked $15,000. The state was represented by the attorney-general's office.

In connection with the award to Mrs. McKee it also became known at the State House that a claim of Mrs. Esther Perkins of Weston, a passenger in Mrs. McKee's car at the time of the accident, was settled some months ago for $200.

Mrs. McKee lives in Waltham. The award to her is $4000 for personal injuries and $100 for property damage.

She suffered paralysis as the result of the accident but is now reported to be in improved health.

Atty.-Gen. Dever referred inquiries on the matter to the adjutant-general and the state comptroller. He appeared to take the position that the settlement, favorable to the state, should not be regarded as any different from many other settlements which his department makes, as does an insurance company. The state carries no liability insurance and in effect insures itself.

The accident caused considerable discussion at the time because it was one of the most serious of a series which have involved official state cars this year. The state officials took the position, in the McKee case, that the accident was unavoidable but they wanted to be sure that Mrs. McKee got every possible care after it.